PREFACE TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

I am really thankful to the members of the Bench and the Bar, for the ready reception they have given to the last edition of this book. The book was exhausted within twelve months of its publication. But as I was engaged in other works I could not publish it in the beginning of this year. In this edition, I have made certain important additions. The Civil Procedure Code, with exhaustive annotations, Civil Courts Acts, Letters Patent of different High Courts, the Reserve Bank Act of 1934 and also some other Acts have been added. By these additions nearly 40 p.c. new matters have been inserted. The size of book has been changed from Double Crown 16vo, to Royal 8vo. Although the cost of the production has become nearly double, I have increased the price of the book only by 8 as with the expectation that it may reach every lawyer, rich or poor, senior or junior. All the amendments upto 15th September 1934, have been incorporated in the texts of the Acts.

1. This Act may be called the Code of Civil Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1936.

Notes.—(1) This Act is the outcome of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Labour in India to the effect that in the case of industrial workers in respect of wages less than Rs 100 a month arrest and imprisonment for debt should be abolished except where the debtor has been proved to be both able and unwilling to pay This Act seeks to amend the Civil Procedure Code 1908, so as to protect honest debtors of all classes. and not the industrial worker class only, from detention in civil prison and to confine such detention to debtors proved to be recalcitrant or fraudulent It also provides inter alia that no order for execution by detention inprison shall be issued unless the debtor has been given an opportunity of showing cause why he should not be committed to prison, and the Court is satisfied for reasons recorded in writing that (i) the debtor is likely to leave the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or has after the institution of the suit fraudulently disposed of his property, and (ii) that he is able to pay the amount of the decree otherwise than from the protected assets.

(2) Pending the conclusion of the inquiry under sub-rule (1) the Court may, in its discretion, order the judgment-debtor to be detained in the custody of an officer of the Court or release him on his furnishing security to the satisfaction of the Court for his appearance when required.

(3) Upon the conclusion of the inquiry under sub-rule (1) the Court may, subject to the provisions of section 51 and to the other provisions of this Code, make an order for the detention of the judgment-debtor in the civil prison and shall in that event cause him to be arrested if he is not already under arrest ;

Provided that in order to give the judgment-debtor an opportunity of satisfying the decree, the Court may, before making the order of detention, leave the judgment debtor in the custody of an officer of the Court for a specified period not exceeding fifteen days or release him on his furnishing security to the satisfaction of the Court for his appearance at the expiration of the specified period if the decree be not sooner satisfied.

Notes :—This clause makes the adoption of model regulation on this subject (as to polls, absence of restrictions on form of proxies, retirement of directors by rotation, inspection of accounts, details shown in profit and loss accounts and the giving of notice to members) contained in Table A compulsory—Vide Notes on Clauses.

Substitution of new section for section 34, Act VII of 1913.

16. For section 34 of the said Act the following section shall be substituted, namely :—

Transfer of shares.

"34. (1) An application for the registration of the transfer of shares in a company may be made either by the transferor or the transferee, provided that where such application is made by the transferor no registration shall in the case of partly paid shares be effected unless the company gives notice of the application to the transferee and subject to the provisions of sub-section (4) the company shall, unless objection is made by the transferee within two weeks from the date of receipt of the notice, enter in its register of members the name of the transferee in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as if the application for registration was made by the transferee.

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1) notice to the transferee shall be deemed to have been duly given if despatched by prepaid post to the transferee at the address given in the instrument of transfer and shall be deemed to have been delivered in the ordinary course of post.

(3) It shall be lawful for the company to register a transfer of shares in or debentures of the company unless the proper instrument of transfer duly stamped and executed by the transferor and the transferee has been delivered to the company along with the scrip.

Provided that, where it is proved to the satisfaction of the directors of the company that an instrument of transfer signed by the transferor and transferee has been lost, the company may, if the directors think fit, on an application in writing made by the transferee and bearing the stamp, required by an instrument of transfer, register the transfer on such terms as to indemnity as the directors may think fit.

(7) Nothing in this section shall prejudice any power of the company under its articles to refuse to register the transfer of any shares."

Object of the section :—The Act does not lay down the procedure for the transfer of shares and this is generally provided for in the articles of the company. Undue restrictions upon transfers and undue delay in registering transfers are not uncommon. The section now introduced while leaving a discretion with directors to refuse transfer requires for a transfer application either by the transferor or by transferee, notice by the transferee in the case of an application by the transferor, the use of the proper instrument of transfer required by the company in the case of an application by the transferee, and notice within a limited time to a proposed transferee. It also prescribes the time limit within which an objection by a transferee may be made or a refusal to register a transfer must be communicated—Notes on Clauses.

Notes.—We have omitted sub-sections (3) and (4) in view of the new section 25 A—Report of the Select Committee.

(c) after sub section (5) as so re-numbered the following sub-section shall be added, namely:—

"(4) The company shall file with the registrar notice of the exercise of any power referred to in clause (d) or clause (e) of sub section (1) within fifteen days from the exercise thereof."

Provided that nothing in this section shall be taken to prohibit, where the lending of money is part of the ordinary business of a company, the lending of money by the company in the ordinary course of its business.

(3) If a company acts in contravention of this section, the company and every officer of the company who is knowingly and wilfully in default shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the Governor-General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct.

Notes—"The office of the Administrator-General in this country grew out of the Mercantile and Trading Company in Bengal, whose interests were safeguarded by the charter establishing the Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal dated the 26th March, 1774. Its functions have been developed, and regulated on lines which experience has shown to be necessary, and it is an illustration of the adoption, and modification, to suit local circumstances of those principles which underlie the law of trusts, and the law affecting the administration of the estates, of the deceased persons"—Vide Kenny's Administration Practice. By Stat. 39 and 40 Geo. II. c 79, ecclesiastical Registrars were appointed to take charge of deceased's property where the deceased had no next-of-kin. Power to direct Administrator-General to collect and hold assets until right of succession or administration is determined.

11. (1) Whenever any person has died leaving assets within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of any of the said High Courts, and such Court is satisfied that there is no person immediately available, who is legally entitled to the succession to such assets, or that danger is to be apprehended of misappropriation, deterioration or waste of such assets, before it can be determined who may be legally entitled to the succession thereto, or whether the Administrator-General is entitled to letters of administration of the estate of such deceased person, the Court may, upon the application of the Administrator General or of any person interested in such assets, or in the due administration thereof, forthwith direct the Administrator-General to collect and take possession of such assets, and to hold, deposit, realize, sell or invest the same according to the directions of the Court, and in default of any such directions according to the provisions of this Act so far as the same are applicable to such assets.

(2) Any order of the Court made under the provisions of this section shall entitle the Administrator General,

(a) to maintain any suit or proceeding for the recovery of such assets, and

(b) if he thinks fit, to apply for letters of administration of the estate of such deceased person, and

(c) to retain out of the assets of the estate any fees chargeable under rules made under this Act, and to reimburse himself for all payments made by him in respect of such assets which a private administrator might lawfully have made.

Scope.—The admission by the applicant that there is a valid will does not prevent him from taking recourse to this section The word "succession" in this section should not be read as intestate succession. Even where the Administrator-General is made executor of a will, he can apply under this section In the goods of Pashupati Mukherjee, 24 C. W. N. 326=56 Ind. Cas. 431 ; see also 5 C. 220 An order under this section whilst in force, is like probate or letters of administration so far as respects the title under it to get in the property of the deceased. Hogg v Henry, 2 Boul 654 cited in Henderson, p 422. The position of an Administrator-General is like that of an ordinary administrator. Pending grant of letters of administ-ation, he can only make payments for the benefit of or for preservation of the [illegible] the estate. In the goods [illegible] as, 8 Ex. Rep. 302 : see also [illegible] not part with his interest [illegible] iness premises. 25 Ind. Cas. Under this section he can only protect the estate and is not to administer property. Henderson, p. 423 ; see also 26 Ind. Cas. 793

Grant of probate or letters of administration to person appearing in the course of proceedings taken by Administrator-General under sections 9, 10 and 11.

12. If, in the course of proceedings to obtain letters of administration under the provisions of section 9, section 10 or section 11 any person appears and establishes his claim—

(a) to probate of the will of the deceased ;

(b) to letters of administration as next-of-kin of the deceased, and gives such security as may be required of him by law, the Court shall grant probate of the will or letters of administration accordingly, and shall award to the Administrator-General the costs of any proceedings taken by him, under those sections to be paid out of the estate as part of the testamentary or intestate expenses thereof.

Notes—"Sections 12 and 13 are explained by Mr Sen as applying only to cases where a person comes forward and unexpectedly propounds a will. I think there is no reason in sections 12 and 13 which requires a condition of unexpectedness at all". Per Rankin J in In the Goods of Pashupati Mukherjee, 24 C. W. N 326 at p. 328 see also 26 Ind Cas 793 or if a person who has established his claim to a grant of letters of administration as next of-kin of the deceased fails to give such security as may be required of him by law,

To act as executor.—If an Administrator-General takes out letters of administration to the estate, movable and immovable, of a Hindu dying intestate, the whole estate of the deceased vests in the Administrator-General and he can dispose of it without the sanction of the Court in such manner as may appear to him proper. *P. Transfer by private executor or administrator of interest under probate or letters.

25. (1) Any private executor or administrator may with the previous consent of the Administrator-General of the Presidency in which any of the assets of the estate, in respect of which such executor or administrator has obtained probate or letters of administration, are situate, by an instrument in writing under his hand notified in the official Gazette, transfer the assets of the estate vested in him by virtue of such probate or letters to the Administrator-General by that name or any other sufficient description.

Section 31 of Act II of 1874, is a re-enactment of s. 30 of Act XXIV of 1867. At the time when the prior Act was passed the executor of a Hindu testator was not a person entitled to transfer under the Act. But by the time when the latter Act was passed, he became a person entitled so to act, by virtue of the provisions of the Hindu Wills Act, 1870. THE BENGAL ALLUVION AND DILUVION REGULATION, 1825.

REGULATION XI OF 1825.

PASSED ON THE 26TH MAY, 1825.

A Regulation for declaring the rules to be observed in determining claims to lands gained by alluvion, or by dereliction of a river or the sea.

Preamble.

1. IN consequence of the frequent changes which take place in the channel of the principal rivers that intersect the Provinces immediately subject to the Presidency of Fort William, and the shifting of the sands which lie in the beds of those rivers, chars or small islands are often thrown up by alluvion in the midst of the stream, or near one of the banks, and large portions of land are carried away by an encroachment of the river on one side whilst accessions of land are at the same time or in subsequent years, gained by dereliction of the water on the opposite side: similar instances of alluvion, encroachment and dereliction also sometime occur on the sea-coast which borders the southern and south-eastern limits of Bengal,

The lands gained from the rivers or sea by the means abovementioned are a frequent source of contention and affray, and, although the law and custom of the country have established rules applicable to such cases, these rules not being generally known, the Courts of Justice have some times found it difficult

* Certain words after this repealed by Act IV of 1914 have been omitted

† The words within quotation have been inserted by Act IV of 1914 but these words shall be deemed to be omitted in the United Provinces. Vide U. P. Act XII of 1922, Sch to determine the rights of litigant parties claiming chars or other lands gained in the manner above described.

The Court of Sadar Dewani Adalat, with a view to ascertain the legal provision of the Muhammadan and Hindu laws on this subject, called for reports from their law-officers of each persuasion, and on consideration of the reports furnished by the law-officers in consequence, as well as of the decisions which have been passed by the Court of Sadar Dewani Adalat in cases brought before them in appeal, which involved the rights of claimants to lands gained by alluvion, or by dereliction of rivers or the sea, the Governor-General in Council has deemed it proper to enact the following rules for the general information of individuals as well as for the guidance of the Courts of Judicature; to be in force, as soon as promulgated, throughout the whole of the Provinces subject to the Presidency of Fort William.

Notes.—This regulation is in force throughout the old Bengal Presidency and the old North-Western Provinces except the Scheduled Districts. It is also in force in the Santhal Parganas, in the Punjab, in the Central Provinces, in Oudh and in Assam except the North Lushai Hills.

It is supplemented (in the former Province of Bengal), by Ben. Act 4 of 1864; in Bengal by Ben. Act 5 of 1920.

Claims and disputes as to alluvial lands to be decided by usage when clearly recognized and established.

2. Whenever any clear and definite usage of shaikast paiwast respecting the disjunction and junction of land by the encroachment or recess of a river may have been immemorially established, for determining the rights of the proprietors of two or more contiguous estates divided by a river (such as that the main channel of the river dividing the estates shall be the constant boundary between them, whatever changes may take place in the course of the river, by encroachment on one side and accession on the other), the usage so established shall govern the decision of all claims and disputes relative to alluvial land between the parties whose estates may be liable to such usage.

Where no usage established, claims how decided

3 Where there may be no local usage of the nature referred to in the preceding section, the general rules declared in the following section shall be applied to the determination of all claims and disputes relative to lands gained by alluvion or by dereliction either of a river or the sea.

Lands gained by gradual accession from recess of river or sea.

4. First.—When land may be gained by gradual accession, whether from the recess of a river or of the sea, it shall be considered an increment to the tenure of the person to whose land or estate it is thus annexed, whether such land or estate be held immediately from Government by a Zamindar or other superior landholder, or as a subordinate tenure, by any description of under tenant whatever:

Extent of interest in increment of person in possession.

Provided that the increment of land thus obtained shall not entitle the person in possession of the estate or tenure to which the land may be annexed, to a right of property or permanent interest therein beyond that possessed by him in the estate or tenure to which the land may be annexed, and shall not in any case be understood to exempt the holder of it from the payment to Government of any assessment for the public revenue to which it may be liable under the provisions of Regulation II, 1819,* or of any other Regulation in force.

Nor if annexed to a subordinate tenure held under a superior landholder shall the under-tenant, whether a khudkast raiyat holding a maurusi istimrari tenure at a fixed rate of rent per bigha, or any other description of under-tenant liable by his engagements, or by established usage, to an increase of rent for the land annexed to his tenure by alluvion, be considered exempt from the payment of any increase of rent to which he may be justly liable.*

* Ben. Reg. II of 1819 was repealed in Assam by the Assam Land and Revenue Regulation (I of 1886).

When river by sudden change of course intersects estates.

Second.—The above rule shall not be considered applicable to cases in which a river, by a sudden change of its course, may break through and intersect an estate, without any gradual encroachment, or may by the violence of stream, separate a considerable piece of land from one estate, and join it to another estate without destroying the indentity and preventing the recognition of the land so removed.

In such cases the land, on being clearly recognized shall remain the property of its original owner.

Chars thrown up in navigable river or sea.

Third.—When a char, or island, may be thrown up in a large navigable river (the bed of which is not the property of an individual), or in the sea, and the channel of the river, or sea, between such island and the shore may not be fordable, it shall, according to established usage, be at the disposal of Government.†

Property therein when channel fordable.

But if the channel between such island and the shore be fordable at any season of the year, it shall be considered an accession to the land, tenure, or tenures of the person or persons whose estate or estates may be most contiguous to it, subject to the several provisions specified in the first clause of this section, with respect to increment of land by gradual accession.

Char etc. thrown up in small shallow rivers.

Fourth.—In small and shallow rivers the beds of which, with the jalkar right of fishery, may have been heretofore recognized as the property of individuals, any sand bank or char, that may be thrown up, shall, as hitherto, belong to the proprietor of the bed of the river, subject to the provisions stated in the first clause of the present section.

Disputes relative to lands gained by alluvion or by dereliction not provided for by Regulation.

Fifth.—In all other cases, namely, in all cases of claims and disputes respecting land gained by alluvion or by dereliction of a river, or the sea, which are not specifically provided for by the rules contained in this Regulation, the Courts of Justice, in deciding upon such claims and disputes, shall be guided by the best evidence they may be able to obtain of established local usage, if there be any applicable to the case, or if not, by general principles of equity and justice.

Encroachments on beds of navigable rivers and other obstructions

As regards the application of the Act, vide s. 2. Before the passing of the Arbitration Act a contract to refer matters to arbitration was governed by the Indian Contract Act, the Civil Procedure Code and the Specific Relief Act, (I of 1877). So far as the provisions contained in the Indian Contract Act and the Specific Relief Act are concerned, no contract to refer (present or future differences) to arbitration could be specifically enforced. But the party who refuses to perform is debarred from bringing a suit on the same subject. The Civil Procedure Code of 1882, required that the arbitrators should be named. This Act is an independent Act. 76 Ind. Cas. 525 ; 50 Ind. Cas. 411. Submission to be irrevocable except by leave of Court.

5. A submission, unless a different intention is expressed therein, shall be irrevocable, except by leave of the Court.

* Supplemented in U. P. vide U. P. Act I of 1912

Scope—The word "a submission shall be irrevocable" is ambiguous; it is applicable, not to the agreement to refer, but to the authority of the arbitrator. Per Bowen L. J. in In re Smith and Service (1890) 25 Q. B. D. at p. 547. This section relates merely to the right to revoke a submission Doleman v. Ossel Corporation, (1912) 3 ... 44 Ind. Cas. 360; 2c ... such leave. James v. ... great caution. Belcher ... 1; 111 Ind. Cas. 700.

6. A submission, unless a different intention is expressed therein, shall be deemed to include the provisions set forth in the first schedule, in so far as they are applicable to the reference under submission.

Provisions implied in submissions.

Notes—In matters of interpretation the Court is to be guided by the intention of the parties; and by what law an arbitration contract is to be interpreted is to be determined by the intention of the parties. Hamlyn v. Talisker, (1894) 71 L. T at p. 2; see also Spurrier v. La Clocha, (1902) A C 446; Pena v. Rio, (1911) 105 L. T. 846

Reference to arbitrator to be appointed by third person.

7. The parties to a submission may agree that the reference shall be to an arbitrator or arbitrators to be appointed by a person designated therein.

Such person may be designated either by name or as the holder for the time being of any office or appointment.

Illustration.

The parties to a submission may agree that any dispute arising between them in respect of the subject-matter of the submission shall be referred to an arbitrator to be appointed by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, or, as the case may be, to an arbitrator to be appointed by the President for the time being of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce.

Notes—This section has been expressly enacted to empower Bengal Chamber of Commerce to appoint arbitrators ... annot ... insur- ... than ... nd for ... d 8.

Power for the Court in certain cases to appoint an arbitrator, umpire or third arbitrator.

8. (1) In any of the following cases—

(a) where a submission provides that the reference shall be to a single arbitrator, and all the parties do not, after differences have arisen, concur in the appointment of an arbitrator;

(b) if an appointed arbitrator neglects or refuses to act, or is incapable of acting, or dies, or is removed, and the submission does not show that it was intended that the vacancy should not be supplied, and ...

(c) ... to appoint an umpire

(d) ... refuses to act, or is incapable of acting, or dies, or is removed, and the submission does not show that it was intended that the vacancy should not be supplied, and the parties or arbitrators do not supply the vacancy;

any party may serve the other parties or the arbitrators, as the case may be, with a written notice to concur in appointing an arbitrator, umpire or third arbitrator.

Power to remove arbitrator or umpire.

16. Where an arbitrator or umpire has misconducted himself, the Court may remove him.

Notes—Cases which justify the revocation of a submission under section 5 or the setting aside of an award under section 14, would justify the removal of an arbitrator under this section.

Costs.

17. Any order made by the Court under this Act may be made on such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Courts thinks fit.

Notes—Ordinarly the Court should provide for costs. Burness v. Youngs, (1898) 1 Ch. 414. But the Court may also leave the question of costs to the arbitrator under certain circumstances *J. Power to stay proceedings where there is a submission

19. Scope—Where the object of the suit was to impeach the validity of the arbitration clause in the contract, and the suit was not in respect of any matter agreed to be referred to arbitration, the provisions of this section do not apply. Atmaram v. Gajanmal, 61 Ind. THE BANKERS' BOOKS EVIDENCE ACT, 1891.

ACT NO. XVIII OF 1891.

Received the G. G's. Assent on the 1st October, 1891.

An Act to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Law of Evidence with respect to Bankers' Books ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called The Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1891.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India † ;

Notes.—This Act is based on English Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879 (42 Vict. c. 11). The reason of its enactment is thus stated : "It is sometime since the Imperial Parliament recognised the great inconvenience which is caused to bankers from being required to produce their books in Courts of Justice. In the first place, these books are usually of great size and weight and in the second place, they are required for entering the daily transactions of the bank. Facilities were provided for proving the contents of the bankers' books by means of certified copies, and in the year 1891 an Act was passed for British India upon the same lines."—Statement of Objects and Reasons of Act XII of 1900.

* Here specify the Court.

† Certain words after this repealed by Act X of 1914 have been omitted.

Definitions. 2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context—

[(1) * "Company" means a company registered under any of the enactments relating to companies for the time being in force in the United Kingdom or in any of the Colonies or dependencies thereof or in British India or incorporated by an Act of Parliament or of the Governor-General in Council, or by Royal Charter or Letters Patent :]

(2) "Bank" and "banker" mean—

(a) any company carrying on the business of bankers,

(b) any partnership or individual to whose books the provisions of this Act shall have been extended as hereinafter provided,

[(c)† any Post Office Savings Bank or Money-order office :]

(3) "bankers' books" include ledgers, day-books, cash-books, account-books and all other books used in the ordinary business of a bank :

(4) "legal proceeding" means any proceeding or inquiry in which evidence is or may be given, and includes an arbitration :

(5) "the Court" means the person or persons before whom a legal proceeding is held or taken :

(6) "Judge" means a Judge of a High Court :

(7) "trial" means any hearing before the Court at which evidence is taken : and

(8) "certified copy" means a copy of any entry in the books of a bank, together with a certificate written at the foot of such copy that it is a true copy of such entry, that such entry is contained in one of the ordinary books of the bank and was made in the usual and ordinary course of business, and that such book is still in the custody of the bank, such certificate being dated and subscribed by the principal accountant or manager of the bank with his name and official title.

Company—This definition was added by Act XII of 1900. The original definition of Company was too narrow It failed to provide for banking companies carrying on business in the country but registered or incorporated in the United Kingdom, and in the case of Empress v. Patrick McGuire, 4 C W N. 433 (F. B) it was discovered that the entries in the books of Delhi and London Bank could not be proved by copies. This definition does not include foreign banks unless they are included by notification issued under section 3.—Vide Statement of Objects and Reasons to Act XII of 1900.

Bank and Banker—In the English Act the definitions of Bank and Banker are thus given :—"In this Act the expressions 'bank' and 'banker' mean any person, persons, partnership or company carrying on the business of bankers and having only made a return to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, and also Savings Bank" certified under the Act relating to Savings Banks, and also Post Office Savings Bank." As regards whether the Loan Register of a Public Debt office is a banker's book vide Chandi v. Boistab, 31 C. 284=8 C W. N. 125.

Bankers' Books.—The definition is taken from the English Act .

Court—A Magistrate before whom criminal proceedings are pending is a Court. R. v. Kinghorn, (1908) 2 K. B 949 Vide s. 9 of that Act. See also the definition of legal proceedings—vide s. 10

Certified copy—Vide Chandi v Boistab, 31 C 284=8 C W. N. 125

* The definition of 'Company" has been substituted for the original one by the Bankers' Books Evidence Act (XII of 1900), s. 2.

† To sub-s (2) of s. 2, cl (c) has been added by s 2 of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act (1 of 1893).

Power to extent provisions of Act.

3. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend the provisions of the Act to the books of any partnership or individual carrying on the business of bankers within the territories under its administration, and keeping a set of not less than three ordinary account books, namely, a cash-book, a day-book or journal, and a ledger, and may in like manner, rescind any such notification

Notes—The Local Government may include all foreign banks under the Act by virtue of the power of notification given under this section.

Mode of proof of entries in bankers' books.

4. Subject to the provisions of this Act, a certified copy of any entry in a bankers' book shall in all legal proceedings be received as prima-facie evidence of the existence of such entry, and shall be admitted as evidence of the matters, transactions and accounts therein recorded in every case where, and to the same extent as, the original entry itself is now by law admissible, but not further or otherwise.

Notes—This section corresponds to section 3, 4 and 5 of the English Act. Before certified copy of any bank is admissible in evidence, it must be proved that the bank is one to which the provisions of the Bankers' Books Evidence Act apply. Unless that is proved, certified copies of entries in their books ought not to be admitted in evidence Empress v Patrick McGuire, 4 C. W. N. 433 (F. B). This section lays down that a certified copy of any entry in a bankers' book shall be received as prima facie evidence of the existence of any such entry. The term "certified copy" is defined in clause (8) of section 2. According to that definition the required statement should be subscribed [illegible]

5. Notes—A banker is only exonerated by this section from personal attendance in Court when he complies with the provision of section 4 Emmott v. Star Newspaper Co., 62 L. J. Q. B 77. Except when the bank is a party, this section exempts the banker from being compelled to produce any book that can be proved by a copy or to appear as a witness unless specially ordered to do so.

Inspection of books by order of Court or Judge.

6. (1) On the application of any party to a legal proceeding, the Court or a Judge may order that such party [illegible] to inspect and take copies of [illegible] a banker's book for any of the [illegible] proceeding, or may order the bank to prepare and produce [illegible] be specified in the order, certified copies of all such entries [illegible] a further certificate that no other entries are to be found in [illegible] bank relevant to the matters in issue in such proceeding [illegible] certificate shall be dated and subscribed in manner here[illegible] reference to certified copies.

(2) An order under this or the preceeding section may be made either with or without summoning the bank, and shall be served on the bank three clear days (exclusive of bank holidays) before the same is to be obeyed, unless the Court or Judge shall otherwise direct.

(3) The bank may at any time before the time limited for obedience to any such order as aforesaid either offer to produce their books at the trial or give notice of their intention to show cause against such order, and thereupon the same shall not be enforced without further order.

Application.—An application may be made ex parte. Arnott v. Hayes, 36 Ch. D. 731. But a notice should be issued. Davies v. White, 53 L. J. Q. B. 275; A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 428=34 Bom L. L R 865. The power under this section is discretionary (Emmott v. Star Newspaper, 62 L. J. Q. B. 77) and should be exercised with great caution (Arnott v. Hayes 36 Ch. D 738; South Staffordshire Tramways Co v Ebbsmith, 2 Q B 669) and on sufficient grounds only, [Perry v Phosphor Bronze Co. (1894) 71 L. T. 854]—Yearly Practice, 1921, p. 469. But such inspection should be allowed with great caution Pollock v. Earle, (1898) 1 Ch. 1. An order under this section is not open to revision, P L R. (1900) 237. Order under this section should not be passed ex parte. Notice to other party should be given. 141 Ind. Cas 870=34 Bom L. R. 743=A. I R 1932 Bom. 428.

7. (1) The costs of any application to the Court or a Judge under or for the purposes of this Act and the costs of anything done or to be done under an order of the Court or a Judge made under or for the purposes of this Act shall be in the discretion of the Court or Judge, who may further order such costs or any part thereof to be paid to any party by the bank if they have been incurred in consequence of any fault or improper delay on the part of the bank.

Costs.

(2) Any order made under this section for the payment of costs to or by a bank may be enforced as if the bank were a party to the proceeding.

(3) Any order under this section awarding costs may, on application to any Court of Civil Judicature designated in the order, be executed by such Court as if the order were a decree for money passed by itself:

[illegible] to derogate from [illegible] ossess for the en- [illegible] of costs.

(PASSED BY THE INDIAN LEGISLATURE.)

Received the assent of the Governor General on the 9th September, 1926.

An Act to provide for the constitution of Bar Councils in British India and for other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the constitution and incorporation of Bar Councils for certain Courts in British India, to confer powers and impose duties on such Bar Councils, and to consolidate and amend the law relating to legal practitioners entitled to practise in such Courts ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Bar Councils.—This Act contemplates different Bar Councils. The reason of this is thus stated by the Bar Committee ; "From a practical point of view nothing is to be gained by setting up a central body which shall prescribe different qualifications for admission to the profession in the different provinces. A central body would necessarily have inadequate knowledge of local conditions and, there are not wanting indications that a provincial bar would not readily submit to being governed by a body, which would necessarily contain a majority of members insufficiently acquainted with its special needs and difficulties".

Courts—The word "Courts" is not defined in this Act. It means, however, the highest Courts.

Constitution of Bar Councils.

Constitution and incorporation of Bar Councils.

3. (1) For every High Court a Bar Council shall be constituted in the manner hereinafter provided.

(2) Every Bar Council so constituted shall be a body corporate having perpetual succession and a common seal with power to acquire and hold property, both movable and immovable, and to contract, and shall by the name of the Bar Council of the High Court for which it has been constituted sue and be sued.

Every High Court.—A Council can be constituted for every High Court and not for every province.

Body Corporate.—It is a corporation aggregate like a trade union and is created by this Act. Perpetual succession, a common seal and right to acquire and hold property are incidental to all corporations. "A corporation aggregate" says Lord Coke, "is only an abstraction and rests only in intendment and consideration of law. It is invisible and immortal ; it has no soul, neither is it subject to the imbecilities of the body."

Composition of Bar Councils.

4. (1) Every Bar Council shall consist of fifteen members, of whom—

(a) one shall be the Advocate-General ;

(b) four shall be persons nominated by the High Court, of whom not more than two may be Judges of that Court ; and

(c) ten shall be elected by the advocates of the High Court from amongst their number.

(2) Of the elected members of every Bar Council not less than five shall be persons who have for not less than ten years been entitled as of right to practise in the High Court for which the Bar Council has been constituted.

(3) Of the elected members of the Bar Council to be constituted for the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal and at Bombay such proportion as the High Court may direct in each case shall be persons who have, for such minimum period as the High Court may determine, been entitled to practise in the High Court in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, and such number as may be fixed by the High Court out of the said proportion shall be barristers of England or Ireland or members of the Faculty of Advocates in Scotland.

(4) There shall be a Chairman and Vice-Chairman of each Bar Council elected by the Council in such manner as may be prescribed :

Provided that the Advocates General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay shall be Chairman ex-officio, respectively, of the Bar Councils constituted for the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, at Madras and at Bombay.

Sub-Clause (b).—"We think it desirable to indicate clearly that Judges of the High Court may be represented on the Bar Council, and have provided that two out of the four persons nominated by the Court may be Judges."—Report of the Select Committee.

Composition of Bar Councils.—The Council should consist of 15 members, four of whom should be nominated by the High Court, including, where possible, the Advocate-General or the Government Advocate and the Government Pleader. The remaining eleven, of whom six should be advocates of at least 10 years' standing, should be elected by advocates of the High Court, provided that in Calcutta and Bombay the High Courts should determine how many of the eleven should be advocates entitled to practise on the original side. The nominated members should ordinarily be advocates, but it should be left to the High Courts to nominate Judges past and present —Statement of Objects and Reasons, Advocates-General —"We think it is essential, in view of the status of the Advocates General in the Presidency-towns, that they should be made ex-officio Chairman of the Bar Councils to which they respectively belong."—Report the Select Committee.

Special provisions regarding constitution of first Bar Councils.

5. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (c) of sub section (1) of section 4, the elected members of the first Bar Council constituted under this Act for any High Court shall be elected by and from amongst the advocates, vakils and pleaders who are on the date of the election entitled as of right to practise in the High Court.

(2) The terms of office of the nominated and elected members of any such first Bar Council shall be three years from the date of the first meeting of the Council.

Advocates, vakils and pleaders, etc —The attorneys are excluded from the operation of this Act as the majority supported the view that the attorneys should have a completely separate organisation Vide Bar Committee's Report.

Tenure of Office —The life of the first Bar Council is three years from the date of the first meeting of the council and not from the date of election

Power to make rules regarding constitution and procedure of Bar Councils.

6. (1) Rules, consistent with this Act, may be made to provide for the following matters, namely:—

(a) the manner in which elections of members of the Bar Council shall be held; the method of determining, in accordance with the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3) of section 4, the candidates who shall be declared to have been elected; the manner in which the result of elections shall be published; and the manner in which and the authority by which doubts and disputes as to the validity of an election shall be finally decided;

(b) the terms of office of nominated and elected members of the Council;

(c) the filling of casual vacancies in the Council;

(d) the convening of meetings of the Council, and the quorum necessary for the transaction of business thereat,

(e) the manner of election and the respective terms of office of the Chairman, in cases where the Chairman is to be elected, and of the Vice-Chairman; and (f) any matter incidental or ancillary to any of the foregoing matters.

(2) The first rules under this section shall be made by the High Court, but the Bar Council may thereafter, with the previous sanction of the High Court, add to, amend or rescind any rules so made.

(3) No election of a member or members to the Council shall be called in question on the ground that due notice thereof has not been given to any person entitled to vote thereat, if notice of the date fixed for the election has, not less than thirty days before that date, been published in the local official Gazette of the province, or of each province, as the case may be, in which the High Court exercises jurisdiction.

(4) Rules made under clause (b) of sub-section (1) may provide for the retirement of members from office by rotation and for the manner in which the order of such retirement shall be determined.

Notes [illegible] s made under this clause are we [illegible] by the Bar Councils themselves. [illegible] be made only in the first instance [illegible] cil with the previous sanction of [illegible] Under this section provision is made that the first rules shall be made by the High Court, thereafter changes can be made, with the previous sanction of the High Court, in the way of amendment or addition by the Bar Councils themselves.—Vide Proceedings in Council; see also A. I. R. 1935 All. 295

Power of Bar Councils to make bye-laws

7. The Bar Council may make bye-laws consistent with this Act and any rules made thereunder to provide for any of the following matters, namely :—

(a) the appointment of such ministerial officers and servants as the Bar Council may deem necessary, and the pay and allowances and other conditions of service of such officers and servants ; and

(b) the appointment and constitution of Committees of the Council, the procedure of such Committees, and the determination of the powers or duties of the Council which may be delegated to such Committees.

Notes.—This section authorises the Bar Council which owes its origin to a Statute to make bye laws consistent with this Act and consistent with the rules made under this Act. These bye-laws may deal with the appointment of ministerial officers and servants of the Bar Council as well as the appointment and constitution of committees "A bye-law must relate to subjects within the scope of the corporate powers. It must not be ultra vires. In other words, it must be confined to the limits of the subject-matter handed over by the Legislature and dealt with by the subordinate authority and must not impose any restrictions not authorised by the language of the Statute." Notes.—"The alterations which we have made in this clause provide, firstly that the Advocate-General shall have notice of, and shall be entitled to appear at the hearing of, every case before the High Court whether the inquiry has been made by a Tribunal of the Bar Council or by a District Court, and, secondly, that the High Court shall have the power to review its orders. THE INDIAN BILLS OF LADING ACT, 1856.

ACT NO. IX OF 1856.

RECEIVED THE G. G.'S ASSENT ON THE 11TH APRIL, 1856.

An Act to amend the Law relating to Bills of Lading.

Preamble.

WHEREAS by the custom of merchants a bill of lading of goods being transferable by endorsement, the property in the goods may thereby pass to the endorsee, but nevertheless all rights in respect of the contract contained in the bill of lading continue in the original shipper, or owner, and it is expedient that such rights should pass with the property; and whereas it frequently happens that the goods in respect of which bills of lading purport to be signed have not been laden on board, and it is proper that such bills of lading in the hands of a bona-fide holder for value should not be questioned by the master or other person signing the same, on the ground of the goods not having been laden as aforesaid; It is enacted as follows:—

Passed to the endorsee—The endorsement and delivery by the consignee of a bill of lading for valuable consideration to a person not proved to have taken it malafide, transfers to the endorsee according to the intention of the transaction the right and property of the consignee in the goods, freed from any right of the consignor, to stop the goods in transitu Lickbarrow v. Mason, 5 T. R. 683; 6 East 20.

Application—This Act has been declared to be in force throughout British India except as regards the Scheduled Districts.

Rights under bills of lading to vest in consignee or endorsee.

1. Every consignee of goods named in a bill of lading, and every endorsee of a bill of lading to whom the property in the goods therein mentioned shall pass, upon or by reason of such consignment or endorsement, shall have transferred to and vested in him all rights of suit, and be subject to the same liabilities in respect of such goods as if the contract contained in the bill of lading had been made with himself.

Notes.—The bill of lading remains in force, so long as complete delivery of possession of the goods has not [illegible] to claim them under it, Barber v. Meyertein [illegible] v. The East and West India Dock Compan[illegible] ms the goods under that Bill of Lading, [illegible] A. I. R. 1928 B. 5.

Not to affect right of stoppage or in transitu claims for freight

2. Nothing herein contained shall prejudice or affect any right of stoppage in transitu, or any right to claim freight against the original shipper or owner, or any liability of the consignee or endorsee by reason or in consequence of his being such consignee or endorsee, or of his receipt of the goods by reason or in consequence of such consignment or endorsement.

Notes—"There were numerous decisions both in England and America, to the [illegible] ndee, under bills of [illegible] r to stop the goods [illegible] of lading, who took [illegible] business, before the [illegible] 21 Am. Rep. 718 T.; [illegible]

3. Every bill of lading in the hands of a consignee or endorsee for valuable consideration, representing goods to have been shipped on board a vessel, shall be conclusive evidence of such shipment as against the master or other person signing the same, notwithstanding that such goods or some part thereof may not have been so shipped, unless such holder of the bill of lading shall have had actual notice at the time of receiving the same that the goods had not in fact been laden on board ;

Bill of lading in hands of consignee, etc, conclusive evidence of the shipment as against master, etc.

Provided that the master or other person so signing may exonerate himself, in respect of such misrepresentation, by showing that it was caused without any default on his part, and wholly by the fraud of the shipper, or of the holder or some person under whom the holder claims.

Proviso.

Notes —This section of the Bills of Lading Act is limited to the master or the persons signing the bills. In the absence of any proof that the bills of lading were granting under a misrepresentation without any default on the part of the person signing them, and wholly due to the fault of the shipper or the holder of such bills of lading, the particular marks as shown in the respective bills of lading must be held to have been put on the board. Pohunal v. The Karachi Port Trust, 18 S. This section is enacted in order to encourage suits under section 14 of the Religious Endowments Act (XX of 1863) and section 92 of the Civil Procedure Code. The option of furnishing security of making a deposit rests with the defendant. The Court can order that he may do one of these two things but it cannot specify which he is to do. Under this section a defendant can be directed to furnish security or to pay a sum of money out of the money in his hands as trustee. He cannot be required to pay any money out of his own pocket. The security is for expenditure already incurred or likely to be incurred. 69 Ind. Cas. 658.

Provisons of the Code of Civil Procedure to apply

11. (1) The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908,† relating to—

(a) the proof of facts by affidavit,

(b) the enforcing of the attendance of any person and his examination on oath,

(c) the enforcing of the production of documents, and [illegible] Act, and the provisions relating to the [illegible] service of notices thereunder.

(2) The provisions of the said Code relating to the execution of decrees shall, so far as they are applicable, apply to the execution of orders under this Act.

Scope—This section empowers a Court to prove any fact by affidavit to summon any witness and to administer an oath to him. The Court is also empowered to enforce the production of any documents and to issue commissions to any witnesses. The procedure of serving a summons under C. P. Code is to be adopted in serving a notice under this Act. An order under this Act is to be executed like a decree of the Civil Procedure Code. But an order under this Act is not a decree under the Civil Procedure Code.

Barring of appeals.

12. No appeal shall lie from any order passed or against any opinion, advice or direction given under this Act.

Notes—The general principle is that an appeal never lies unless expressly given by Statute. Rex v. Cashiobury, 3 D. & R 35. The creation of a right of appeal is an act which requires legislative authority. Neither an inferior nor a superior tribunal, nor both combined, can create such a right, it being essentially

(2) Such a direction may require the Treasurer to sell or otherwise dispose of any property vested in him, and, with the sanction of the authority issuing the direction, to invest the proceeds of the sale or other disposal of the property in any such security for money as is mentioned in section 4, sub section (3), clause (a), (b), (c), (d), or (e), or in the purchase of immovable property.

Provision for continuance of office of Treasurer in certain contingencies.

11. If the office held by an officer of the Government who has been appointed to be a Treasurer of Charitable Endowments is abolished or its name is changed, the "Local Government"* may appoint the same or another officer of the Government by the name of his office to be such Treasurer, and thereupon the holder of the latter office shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the successor in office of the holder of the former office.

Transfer of property from one Treasurer to another.

12. If by reason of an alteration of the limits of the territories subject to a Local Government, or for any other reason, it appears to the Governor-General in Council that any property vested in a Treasurer of Charitable Endowments should be vested in another such Treasurer, he may direct that the property shall be so vested, and thereupon it shall vest in that other Treasurer and his successors as fully and effectually for the purposes of this Act as if it had been originally vested in him under this Act.

THE CHILD MARRIAGE RESTRAINT ACT, 1929.

ACT No. XIX OF 1929.

RECEIVED THE ASSENT OF THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL ON THE 1ST OCTOBER, 1929.

An Act to restrain the solemnisation of child marriages.

WHEREAS it is expedient to restrain the solemnisation of child marriages; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929.*

(2)* It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Santhal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on the first day of April, 1930.

Notes.—The object of the Bill is two-fold. The main object, by declaring invalid the marriages of girls below 14 years of age, is to put a stop to such girls becoming widows. The second object, by laying down the minimum marriageable ages of boys and girls, is to prevent, so far as may be, their physical and moral deterioration by removing a principal obstacle to their physical and mental development.—Statement of Objects and Reasons. The Act applies to all classes and communities in British India. Report of the Select Committee.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "child" means a person who, if a male, is under eighteen years of age; and if a female, is under fourteen years of age;

(b) "child marriage" means a marriage to which either of the contracting parties is a child;

(c) "contracting party" to a marriage means either of the parties whose marriage is thereby solemnised; and

(d) "minor" means a person of either sex who is under eighteen years of age.

Notes.—We considered a suggestion that the minimum age to determine whether a female is a child for the purpose of sub-clause (a) should be reduced to 11 and another suggestion that it should be reduced to 12 years. The Committee, however, were emphatically of opinion that any such reduction nullify the whole object of the Bill.—Report of the Select Committee.

Punishment for male adult below twenty one years of age marrying a child.

3. Whoever, being a male above eighteen years of age and below twenty-one, contracts a child-marriage shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

4. Whoever, being a male above twenty one years of age, contracts a child marriage shall be punishable with simple imprisonment which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Notes—Vide notes under section 3. A trial under the Act may be summary, as it is permitted by s. 260 (1) (a) Cr. Pro. Code. 5. Whoever performs, conducts or directs any child marriage, shall be punishable with simple imprisonment which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both, unless he proves that he had reason to believe that the marriage was not a child marriage.

Notes.—This section excludes betrothal ceremony which is a necessary preliminary to a marriage but which does not constitute a marriage without further ceremony This section only penalises the persons who actually officiate in that part of the ceremony which finally renders the marriage tie indissoluble. This section also exempts any person who has officiated at a child marriage but who can prove to the Court that he had taken reasonable precautions to satisfy himself that the contracting parties were over the minimum age. Report of the Select Committee. For the purpose of this section the Court must consider only the marriage ceremony. (1) Where a minor contracts a child marriage, any person having charge of the minor, whether as parent or guardian or in any other capacity, lawful or unlawful, who does any act to promote the marriage or permits it to be solemnised, or negligently fails to prevent it from being solemnised, shall be punishable with simple imprisonment, which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both :

Provided that no woman shall be punishable with imprisonment.

(2) For the purposes of this section, it shall be presumed, unless and until the contrary is proved, that, where a minor has contracted a child marriage, the person having charge of such minor has negligently failed to prevent the marriage from being solemnised.

THE INDIAN COMPANIES ACT, 1913.

ACT NO. VII OF 1913.

Received the G. G.'s Assent on the 27th March, 1913.

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to Trading Companies and other Associations.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Trading Companies and other Associations; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

The Indian Companies Act.—The Indian Companies Act is based upon the English Companies Act, 1908 and many sections of that Act have been taken verbatim from that Act. In interpreting the Indian Companies Act, recourse may be had to the English decisions where it is based on the corresponding section of the English Act. Vide [illegible] v. [illegible], 13 Ind. Cas. 674=41 M. 307; see also [illegible] B. 311; [illegible] 1915; 7 [illegible] 491; 18 Ind. Cas. 997. The Companies Act is an Act merely legislating for or reg[illegible] under the common law in England [illegible] Ind. [illegible] 1918 M. W. N. [illegible] Where a company dul[illegible] Companies Act, the presumption is that it is a [illegible] although that individual may practically hold all the shares. 102 Ind. Cas. 49

[illegible] (1) ordinary partnership, [illegible] ies incorporated by speci[illegible] (6) Trade Unions and (7) [illegible]

[illegible]

Origin of Companies Act.—[illegible] was the [illegible] which companies could be incorporated. As regards [illegible] Joint Companies [illegible] v. [illegible] "When [illegible] engaged in commerce [illegible] great [illegible] it soon became evident that the [illegible] were ill-adapted to the business of [illegible] [illegible] partners, this rule would, if adhered to, have made litigation practically impossible and [illegible] to a denial of justice."

Consolidating.—The following rules, laid down by Lord Herschell in [illegible] a Consolidating Act "I think the proper course is, in the first instance, to examine [illegible] the language of the Statute, and to ask, what is its natural meaning uninfluenced by any considerations derived from the previous state of the law, and not to start with inquiring how the law previously stood, and then assuming that it was probably intended to leave it unaltered to see if the words of the enactment will bear an interpretation in conformity with this view. If a Statute intended to embody in a Code a particular branch of the law is to be treated in this fashion it appears to me that its utility will be almost entirely destroyed, and the very object with which it was enacted will be frustrated. The purpose of such a Statute surely was that on any points specifically dealt with by it, the law should be ascertained by interpreting the language used instead of, as before, by roaming over a vast number of authorities in order to discover what the law was—extracting it by a minute critical examination of the prior decisions dependent upon a knowledge of the exact effect even of an obsolete proceeding such as a demurrer to evidence. I am, of course, far from asserting that resort may never be had to the previous state of the law for the purpose of aiding in the construction of the provisions of the Code. If, for example, a provision be of doubtful import such resort would be perfectly legitimate. Or again, if in a Code of the law of negotiable instruments words would be found which had previously acquired a technical meaning, or been used in a sense other than their ordinary one in relation to such instruments the same interpretation might well be put upon them in the Code I take these as examples merely; they, of course, do not exhaust the category. What, however, I am venturing to insist upon is, that the first step taken should be to interpret the language of the Statute, and that an appeal to earlier decisions can only be justified on some special ground." Bank of England v. Vagliono, (1891) A. C. 144. In Mersey Dock Case, 11 H. L. C. 443, Blackburn J. said : "Where an Act of Parliament has received a judicial construction putting a certain meaning on its words, and the legislature in a subsequent Act in should be so construed, even if the words were such that they might originally have been construed otherwise.." See also 5 Ch. 703 ; (1891) 3 Ch. 115; 14 Ch. D. 571; (1904) 2 K. B. 859.

(2) For the purposes of jurisdiction to wind up companies, the expression "registered office" means the place which has longest been the registered office of the company during the six months immediately preceding the presentation of the petition for winding up.

(3) Nothing in this section shall invalidate a proceeding by reason of its being taken in a wrong Court.

CONSTITUTION AND INCORPORATION.

4. (1) No company, association or partnership consisting of more than ten persons shall be formed for the purpose of carrying on the business of banking unless it is registered as a company under this Act, or is formed in pursuance of an Act of Parliament or some other Act of the Governor-General in Council, or of Royal Charter or Letters Patent Prohibition of partnerships exceeding certain number.

(2) No company, association or partnership consisting of more than twenty persons shall be formed for the purpose of carrying on any other business that has for its object the acquisition of gain by the company, association or partnership, or by the individual members thereof, unless it is registered as a company under this Act, or is formed in pursuance of an Act of Parliament or some other Act of the Governor General in Council or of Royal Charter or Letters Patent.

Company.—The words "company" and "association" are synonymous. Smith v. Anderson, 15 Ch. D. 247. To constitute an association within the meaning of this section, it is absolutely necessary that there should be between more than twenty persons so associated a legal relation giving rise to joint and mutual rights and obligations. T. P. Naidu v. A. S. Mudaliar, 50 Ind. Cas. 513. An agreement known as a chitfund under which more than twenty persons contract with the manager of the fund to pay their subscriptions for a fixed period and draw the amount by lots, creates rights as between the manager and the other parties to the agreement but it creates no legal relation between the other parties inter se, and is, therefore, not an association within the meaning of this section Ibid. An association of several Business—The term "business" is wider than the term "trade" and as such includes farming. Harris v. Amery, L R 1 C. P 117 ; see also Crowther v Thorley 32 W. A business carried on by more than 20 trustees where the cestuis qui trustees do not exceed twenty does not require registration. Smith v. Anderson, 15 Ch D. 247 , Crowther v. Thorley, 32 W. Gain—The section will be satisfied if the individual members acquire gain. 10 Ch. D. 542 ; 20 Ch. D. 137. The term "gain" is not confined to pecuniary gain. 10 Ch. D. 542.

Non-registration—An association which is required to be registered under this section cannot sue and be sued unless registered under the Act. Shaw v. Benson, 11 Q. B. Memorandum of Association.

Mode of forming incorporated company.

5. Any seven or more persons (or, where the company to be formed will be a private company, any two or more persons) associated for any lawful purpose may, by subscribing their names to a memorandum of association and otherwise complying with the requirements of this Act in respect of registration, form an incorporated company, with or without limited liability (that is to say), either—

(i) a company having the liability of its members limited by the memorandum to the amount, if any, unpaid on the shares respectively held by them (in this act termed a company limited by shares); or

(ii) a company having the liability of its members limited by the memorandum to such amount as the members may respectively thereby undertake to contribute to the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up (in this Act termed a company limited by guarantee); or

(iii) a company not having any limit on the liability of its members (in this Act termed an unlimited company).

Notes.—Where the proprietors of a zemindari having grown too numerous formed themselves into a limited liability company and the company was duly .n Companies Act: Held, that such a to the proprietors themselves but to th them, and there was nothing in the to public policy. 16 C. W. N. 297.

Memorandum of company limited by shares.

6. In the case of a company limited by shares—

(1) the memorandum shall state—

(i) the name of the company, with "Limited" as the last word in its name;

(ii) the province in which the registered office of the company is to be situate;

(iii) the objects of the company;

(iv) that the liability of the members is limited;

h the company proposes to be fixed amount;

(3) each subscriber shall write opposite to his name the number of shares he takes.

so accepting it, the Articles proceed to define the duties, the rights, and the powers of the governing body as between themselves and the company at large and the mode and form in which the business of the company is to be carried on, and the mode and form in which changes in the internal regulations of the company may from time to time be made. With regard, therefore, to the Memorandum of Association, if you find anything which goes beyond that memorandum, or is not warranted by it, the question will arise, whether that which is so done is ultra vires, not only of the directors of the company, but of the company itself. With regard to the Articles of Association, if you find anything which, still keeping within the Memorandum of Association is a violation of the Articles of Association or in excess of them, the question will arise, whether that is anything more than an act ultra vires the directors, but ultra vires the company." Cited at 16 B. pp. 340, 341. "The memorandum is, as it were, the area beyond which the action of the company cannot go; inside that area the shareholders may make such regulation for their own government as they think fit." Per Lord Cairns in Ashbury Railway Co. v. Riche, L. R. 7 H. L. 670; see also Trevor v. Whitworth, 12 App. Cas. 409; Guinness v. Land Corporation of Ireland, 22 Ch. D. 349; Welton v. Saffery, (1897) A. C. 299; Re Peveril Mines, (1898) 1 Ch. 122; Ashbury v. Watson, 30 Ch. D. 376; (1902) A. C. 232; (1882) 22 Ch. D. 394; 41 A. 619; Baring Gould v. Sharpington, (1899) 2 Ch. 80; Payne v. Cork Co., (1901) 1 Ch. 308. A Memorandum of Association like any other document must be read fairly and interpreted reasonably. There is no specially rigid canon of construction. The intention is to be gathered from the language used. Antecedent transactions and surrounding circumstances cannot be looked into. A. I. R. 1931 P. C. 182=134 Ind. Cas. 333 P. C. Powers are not required to be and ought not to be required in the memorandum. In the case of a trading company, the memorandum should only define the trade and not specify the various acts which it should be within the power of the company to do in carrying on the trade. Ibid.

Name of the Company.—"Why this solicitude on the part of the legislature as to publication of a company's name? The answer is, that the legislature, whilst allowing limited liability, desired by this means to make the company itself continually bring to the notice of those who dealt or might deal with it the fact that it was limited."—Palmer, p. 248.

Registered Office.—Every company under the Act is bound to have a registered office to which all communications and notices may be addressed. Ibid. p. 245.

Objects of the Company.—The third requirement is that the company must state the objects of the proposed company. The objects must not include anything in contravention of the Act. Vide Ooregum Gold Mining Co. v. Roper, (1892) A. C. 125. The objects stated must not include anything in contravention of the general law. The object clause limits the power of the company. British South Africa Co. v. De Beers Consolidated Mines, (1910) 1 Ch. 354. Any act done beyond what is stated in the object is ultra vires and the assent of every single shareholder will not make it good. Ashbury v. [illegible] South Australian Banking Co., (1871) L. R. 3 P. C. 548; [illegible] (1909) 2 L. S. R. 100; National Telephone Co. v. St. Peters Port, (1900) A. C. 317; Great Eastern Railway v. Turner, (1872) 8 Ch. 149.

An alteration in the memorandum can only be made by a special resolution. 33 M. 50.

Memorandum of company limited by guarantee.

7. In the case of a company limited by guarantee—

(a) the memorandum shall state—

(i) the name of the company, with "Limited" as the last word in its name;

(ii) the province in which the registered office of the company is to be situate;

(iii) the objects of the company;

(iv) that the liability of the members is limited ;

(v) that each member undertakes to contribute to the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up while he is a member, or within one year afterwards, for payment of the debts and liabilities of the company contracted before he ceases to be a member, and of the costs, charges and expenses of winding up, and for adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves, such amount as may be required, not exceeding a specified amount :

(2) if the company has a share capital—

(i) the memorandum shall also state the amount of share capital with which the company proposes to be registered and the division thereof into shares of a fixed amount ;

(ii) no subscriber of the memorandum shall take less than one share ;

(iii) each subscriber shall write opposite to his name the number of shares he takes.

Notes—A member of a company limited by guarantee and not having a share [illegible] Bairds' Case (1899) 2 Ch. 593. In the [illegible] ee which has a share capital, every mem- [illegible] on to the amount undertaken to be contributed by him to the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up, to contribute to the extent of any sums unpaid on any shares held by him. Stiebel, Company Law, p. 1153.

Memorandum of unlimited company.

8. In the case of an unlimited company—

(1) the memorandum shall state—

(i) the name of the company ;

(ii) the province in which the registered office of the company is to be situate ;

(iii) the objects of the company ,

(2) if the company has a share capital—

(i) no subscriber of the memorandum shall take less than one share ;

(ii) each subscriber shall write opposite to his name the number of shares he takes.

Notes—Companies with unlimited liability are rarely formed and while limited companies have been increasing by leaps and bounds unlimited companies have dwindled nearly to zero An unlimited company requires a memorandum and articles of association and may have a joint stock capital divided into shares, or no such capital. Its name will not include the word "Limited". If the company is wound up, the liability of its members to contribute to the payment of debts and cost of winding up will be unlimited. Palmer's Company Law, p. 375.

Signature of memorandum.

9. The memorandum shall be signed by each subscriber in the presence of at least one witness who shall attest the signature.

Signature—Any one may sign the memorandum. A subscriber may be a mar- [illegible] be used ; but sometimes the same witness can not attest all the signatures and in that case the attestation clause must be altered Palmer's Company Law, p. 36. After registration a subscription cannot be repudiated on the ground of misrepresentation Metal Constituents Ltd. (1902) 1 Ch 707.

Restriction on alteration of memorandum.

10. A company shall not alter the conditions contained in its memorandum except in the cases and in the mode and to the extent for which express provision is made [illegible] this Act.

Notes.—In keeping a company strictly to the objects defined in its memorandum of association the Legislature intended to protect, not only investors and shareholders, but also the outside public, and more particularly creditors. Ashbury v. Riche, 7 H. L. 667. ed to be made in the general meeting of the company. Ibid

11. (1) A company shall not be registered by a name identical with that by which a company in existence is already registered, or so nearly resembling that name as to be calculated to deceive, except where the company in existence is in the course of being dissolved and signifies its consent in such manner as the registrar requires.

Name of company and change of name.

(2) If a company, through inadvertence or otherwise, is, without such consent as aforesaid, registered by a name identical with that by which a company in existence is previously registered, or so nearly resembling it as to be calculated to deceive, the first-mentioned company may, with the sanction of the registrar, change its name.

(3) A company shall not be registered by a name which contains any of the following words, namely ;—"Crown" "Emperor," "Empire," "Empress," "Imperial," "King," "Queen," "Royal." ["Bank of Bengal", "Bank of Madras", "Bank of Bombay"]* or words expressing or implying the sanction, approval or patronage of the Crown or the Government of India or a Local Government, except where the Governor General in Council signifies his consent to the use of such words as part of the name of the company by order in writing under the companies registered

(4) Any company may, by special resolution and subject to the approval of the Local Government signified in writing, under the hand of one of the Secretaries to such Government, change its name.

(5) Where a company changes its name, the registrar shall enter the new name on the register in place of the former name, and shall issue a certificate of incorporation altered to meet the circumstances of the case. On the issue of such certificate, the change of name shall be complete.

(6) The change of name shall not affect any rights or obligations of the company, or render defective any legal proceedings by or against the company ; and any legal proceedings that might have been continued or commenced against it by its former name may be continued or commenced against it by its new name.

Clause (2).—The principle on which the Court interferes in such cases is that one person is not to be permitted to represent the business which is carried on by another as carried on by him. Croft v. Day, 7 Beav. 84 ; Hendricks v. Montague, 17 Ch. 12. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, a company may, by special resolution, alter the provisions of its memorandum so as to change the place of the registered office from one province to another, or with respect to the objects of the company, so far as may be required to enable it—

Alteration of Memorandum.

(a) to carry on its business more economically or more efficiently ; or

(b) to attain its main purpose by new or improved means ; or

(c) to enlarge or change the local area of its operations ; or

(d) to carry on some business which under existing circumstances may conveniently or advantageously be combined with the business of the company ; or (e) to restrict or abandon any of the objects specified in the memorandum.

(2) The alteration shall not take effect until and except in so far as it is confirmed by the Court on petition.

(3) Before confirming the alteration, the Court must be satisfied—

(a) that sufficient notice has been given to every holder of debentures of the company, and to any persons or class of persons whose interest will, in the opinion of the Court, be affected by the alteration ; and

(b) that, with respect to every creditor who in the opinion of the Court is entitled to object, and who signifies his objection in manner directed by the Court, either his consent to the alteration has been obtained or his debt or claim has been discharged or has determined, or has been secured to the satisfaction of the Court :

Provided that the Court may, in the case of any person or class, for special reasons, dispense with the notice required by this section.

Scope —This section empowers a company by special resolution to add to or alter its articles. Such alterations must be "subject to the provisions of the Act and to the conditions contained in the Memorandum of Association " All or any of the articles may be altered and no restriction can be put upon this power in the memorandum. Walker v London Tramway Co , 12 Ch. D 705 ; Malleson v National Insurance Co., (1894) 1 Ch. 202 Such alterations are binding on outsiders. Allen v Gold, (1900) 1 Ch. 656 : Punt v. Symons, (1903) 2 Ch. 500 "The power" said Lindley M R. in Allen v. Gold, (1900) 1. Ch 656, "thus conferred on corporation to alter the regulations is limited only by the provisions contained in the Statute and the conditions contained in the company's Memorandum of Association. It must be exercised for the benefit of the Company as a whole, and it must not be exceeded. These conditions are always implied and are seldom if ever expressed. But if they are complied with, I can discover no ground for judicially putting any other restrictions on the power conferred by the section than those contained in it See also Pepe v. City, (1893) 2 Ch 311 ; (1906) A. C. 35 But in making the alterations no statutory principles of law must be violated. (1898) 1 Ch. 121 ; (1900) 1 Ch. 308, (1908) 1 Ch. 84. For purposes of jurisdiction for an application under this section of the Companies Act to confirm the resolutions proposing the transfer of the place of business, the Court must have ordinary jurisdiction in the place at which the registered office of the company is situate. 96 Ind. Cas. 753 (2) = 24 A. L. J. 768.

13. The Court may make an order confirming the alteration either wholly or in part, and on such terms and conditions as it thinks fit, and may make such order as to costs as it thinks proper.

Power of Court when confirming alteration.

Notes —The Court has no jurisdiction to rectify articles of association on the ground of mistake, for they have statutory operation Evans v. Chapman, 86 L. T. 381.

14. The Court shall, in exercising its discretion under sections 12 and 13, have regard to the rights and interests of the members of the company or of any class of them, as well as to the rights and interests of the creditors, and may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the proceedings in order that an arrangement may Procedure on confirmation of the alteration.

15. (1) A certified copy of the order confirming the alteration, together with a printed copy of the memorandum as altered, shall, within three months from the date of the order, be filed by the Company with the registrar, and he shall register the same, and shall certify the registration under his hand, and the certificate shall be conclusive evidence that all the requirements of this Act with respect to the alteration and the confirmation therof have been complied with, and thenceforth the memorandum so altered shall be the memorandum of the company.

Effect of failure to register within three months.

Provided that the Court may, on sufficient cause shown, revive the order on application made within a further period of one month.

Articles of Association.

Registration of articles.

17. (1) There may, in the case of a company limited by shares, and there shall, in the case of a company limited by guarantee or unlimited, be registered with the memorandum, articles of association signed by the subscribers to the memorandum and prescribing regulations for the company.

(2) Articles of association may adopt all or any of the regulations contained in Table A in the First Schedule.

(3) In the case of an unlimited company or a company limited by guarantee, the articles, if the company has a share capital, shall state the amount of share capital with which the company proposes to be registered.

(4) In the case of an unlimited company or a company limited by guarantee, if the company has not a share capital, the articles shall state the number of members with which the company proposes to be registered, for the purpose of enabling the registrar to determine the fees payable on registration.

Notes.—The Memorandum of Association, when taken in for registration may be accompanied by articles of association containing regulations for the management of affairs of the company. Palmer's Company Law, p. 37. Clause limiting liability of director is valid. A. I. R. 1934 All. 855=4 A. W. R. 132.

Application of Table A.

18. In the case of a company limited by shares and registered after the commencement of this Act, if articles are not registered, or, if articles are registered, in so far as the articles do not exclude or modify the regulations in Table A in the First Schedule, those regulations shall, so far as applicable, be the regulations of the company in the same manner and to the same extent as if they were contained in duly registered articles.

(b) be divided into paragraphs numbered consecutively ; and (c) be signed by each subscriber of the memorandum of association in the presence of at least one witness who must attest the signature.

Notes.—The articles, if any, must be printed and must be signed by the subscribers to the Memorandum of Association. Each subscriber must sign in the presence of a witness who must attest the signature. As in the case of the memorandum, the signature may be under the signatory's own hand or that of his duly authorised agent. One of the subscribers cannot attest the signature of another. Alteration of articles by special resolution

20. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and to the conditions contained in its memorandum, a company may by special resolution alter or add to its articles, and any alteration or addition so made shall be as valid as if originally contained in the articles, and be subject in like manner to alteration by special resolution.

(2) The power of altering articles under this section shall, in the case of any company formed and registered under Act No. XIX of 1857 and Act No. VII of 1860 or either of them, extend to altering any provisions in Table B annexed to Act XIX of 1857, and shall also, in the case of an unlimited company formed and registered under the said Acts or either of them, extend to altering any regulations relating to the amount of capital or its distribution into shares, notwithstanding that those regulations are contained in the memorandum.

Notes.—This section gives to a company under this Act power by special resolution, but "subject to the provisions of this Act and to the conditions contained in the memorandum of association," to alter or add to its articles, and it expressly provides that "any alteration or addition so made shall be as valid as if originally contained in the articles, and be subject in like manner to alteration by special resolution. Nothing could be wider than the terms of this section. It does not say that the articles for the management or administration of the business may be altered, or that General Provisions.

21. (1) The memorandum and articles shall, when registered, bind the company and the members thereof to the same extent as if they respectively had been signed by each member and contained a covenant on the part of each member, his heirs, and legal representatives, to observe all the provisions of the memorandum and of the articles, subject to the provisions of this Act.

Effect of memorandum and articles.

Articles of Association can be read for the purpose of explaining the memorandum in respect of a matter which need not appear in the latter—for example, the borrow-

Effect of registration

23. (1) On the registration of the memorandum of a company, the registrar shall certify under his hand that the company is incorporated, and in the case of a limited company that the company is limited.

(2) From the date of incorporation mentioned in the certificate of incorporation, the subscribers of the memorandum, together with such other persons as may from time to time become members of the company, shall be a body corporate by the name contained in the memorandum, capable forthwith of exercising all the functions of an incorporated company, and having perpetual succession and a common seal, but with such liability on the part of the members to contribute to the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up as is mentioned in this Act.

Conclusiveness of certificate of incorporation.

24. (1) A certificate of incorporation given by the registrar in respect of any association shall be conclusive evidence that all the requirements of this Act in respect of registration and of matters precedent and incidental thereto have been complied with, and that the association is a company authorised to be registered and duly registered under this Act.

(2) A declaration by an advocate, attorney or pleader entitled to appear ... the formation of a company, or by a ... manager or secretary of the company, ... requirements shall be filed with the registrar, and the registrar may accept such a declaration as sufficient evidence of compliance.

Notes.—In England the question whether the Registrar's certificate is conclusive was decided so far back as (1867) by Lord Ca... Peel's Case, L. R. 2 Ch. App 674, after sign... altered ... Cairns, ... signature of the document" The Company, however, was registered and the Registrar gave his certificate of incorporation: "It was objected that the memorandum of association had not been signed by seven or indeed by any subscribers and that the provisions of the Act had not been complied with." To that proposition Lord Cairns assented. But "the certificate of incorporation," he said "is not merely a prima facie answer but a conclusive answer to such objection. When once a certificate of incorporation is given nothing is to be enquired into as to the regularity of the prior proceedings." Similarly in Oakes v. Turquand, L. R. 2 H. L. 325. Lord Chelmsford observed: "I think that the certificate prevents all recurrence to prior matters essential to registration, amongst which is the subscription of a memorandum of association by seven persons, and that it is conclusive in this case that all previous requisites have been complied with" Moosa v. Ebrahim, 16 C. 25. (1) Every company shall send to every member, at his request, and on payment of one rupee or such less sum as the company may prescribe, a copy of the memorandum and of the articles (if any)

(3) The association shall on registration enjoy all the privileges of limited companies, and be subject to all their obligations, except those of using the word "Limited" as any part of its name, and of publishing its name, and of filing lists of members and directors and managers with the registrar.

(4) A license under this section may at any time be revoked by the Local Government, and upon revocation the registrar shall enter the word "Limited" at the end of the name of the association upon the register, and the association shall cease to enjoy the exemptions and privileges granted by this section :

Provided that, before a license is so revoked, the Local Government shall give to the association notice in writing of its intention, and shall afford the association an opportunity of submitting a representation in opposition to the revocation.

Palmer's Company Law, p 350. The advantages of incorporation of such associations are great The association gains in stability, public estimation, and credit. It becomes a body corporate with perpetual succession It can adopt in lieu of company a more suitable name, such as chamber, club, college, guild, association. It can have a common seal ; it can hold property in its own name ; without the intervention of trustees, it can contract and take and defend legal proceedings in its own name ; its affairs can be conducted much more efficiently, and finally its officers and members are freed from personal liability. Under clause (4) the Local Government has power to revoke its licence after due notice, and thenceforth the words "limited" must be used. Palmer's Company Law, pp 250-252. With the consent of the Local Government and the sanction of the Court, such an association can alter its objects St. Hilda's College, (1901) 1 Ch. 556 A company thus registered can pay a pension to an outgoing secretary. Cyclist's Journey Club v. Hopkinson, (1910) 1 Ch 179.

Companies limited by Guarantee.

Provision as to companies limited by guarantee

27. (1) In the case of a company limited by guarantee and not having a share capital, and registered after the commencement of this Act, every provision in the memorandum or articles or in any resolution of the company purporting to give any person a right to participate in the divisible profits of the company otherwise than as a member shall be void.

(2) For the purpose of the provisions of this Act relating to the memorandum of a company limited by guarantee and of this section, every provision in the memorandum or articles, or in any resolution, of any company limited by guarantee and registered after the commencement of this Act, purporting to divide the undertaking of the company into shares or interests, shall be treated as a provision for a share capital, notwithstanding that the nominal amount or number of the shares or interests is not specified thereby.

Notes.—Prior to the English Companies Act, 1900, it was permissible to form a company limited by guarantee, with articles dividing the undertaking into shares of nominal amount—a most convenient form of association ; but section 27 of the Act of 1900 prohibited this and section 21 of the English Companies Act of 1908 which corresponds to this section has continued the prohibition. Vide Palmer's Company Law, p. 373.

director, manager or secretary that the list and summary state the facts as they stood on the day aforesaid.

(4) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues, and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

Clause (4)—The offence is a continuing one and six years is the time for recovering the penalties. Reg v. Catholic Life Institution, 48 L T. 675 An offence under this section is a criminal offence. Park v. Lawton, (1911) 1 K B 588. The fact that the directors have committed an offence by not summoning a meeting—so that they cannot make a list of members so as to comply with the section—will not be an answer, and can be convicted for both offences Park v Lawton, (1911) 1 K. B. 588. "Knowingly" and "wilfully" connote intentional default. The default is merely inadvertent and not intentional where evidence on record does not prove that the directors knowingly or wilfully authorized or permitted the company to make a default in filing with the Registrar of Joint-Stock Companies a copy of the list of the shareholders and of the summary described in s. 32 and the accused should not be convicted. 122 Ind. Cas. 88=10 Lah. 521=A. I. R 1929 Lah 836. On a summons under the section a Magistrate may go behind the registrar though it is not his business to deal with complicated question of title. 39 Ch. It is the bounden duty of a company and of its Directors and Managers to forward to the Registrar the summary and list and the obligation does not come to an end on the date on which by default on the part of the Company's Directors and Managers the penalty begins to accrue. Therefore every person who at any time during the default in complying with the provisions of this section acted as Director or Manager can be convicted under this section, and it is immaterial that some or all of these persons were not legally qualified to act as Directors or Managers or that they did not in fact become Directors or Managers until after the date when the penalty accrued. Tola Ram v. Emperor, 34 Ind. Trusts not to be entered on register.

33 No notice of any trust, expressed, implied or constructive, shall be entered on the register, or be receivable by the registrar.

Notes.—"It follows that if a person gives notice to the company that he claims an equitable interest in the shares registered in the name of another person, the company is not bound to take notice of such trust, and may not enter notice of it in its register, and the company will not be liable for allowing the registered holder to deal with his shares without regard to such equitable interest unless at the time of registering a transfer the directors registering the same actually know that the transfer is a wrongful one. Vide Society Generale v. Walker, (1886) 11 A C. 20 ; Simpson v. Molson's Bank, (1895) A. In Re Parkins, 24 Q B D 612, Lord Coleridge, C J said : "It seems to me extremely important not to throw any doubt on the principle that companies have [illegible] their cestuies que trust, [illegible] company's register as [illegible] other person in respect [illegible] whatever to do. They can only look to the man whose name is upon the register. It seems to me that if it throws any doubt upon that rule, we should make the carrying on their business by joint-stock companies extremely difficult, and might involve those companies in very serious questions and the ultimate result would be anything but beneficial to the holders of shares in such companies themselves."

Transfer by legal representative.

35. A transfer of the share or other interest of a deceased member of a company made by his legal representative shall, although the legal representative is not himself a member, be as valid as if he had been a member at the time of the execution of the instrument of transfer.

Notes—Where shares are registered in the joint names of several executors (Barton v. North Staffordshire Railway, 38 Ch. D. 458), they must all be parties to a transfer even where the register contains a note that they are executors. Barton v. London and North Western Railway (1890) 24 Q. B D. 77—Stiebel, p. 298 Where a member of a company dies, his shares, as personal estate, vest in his executors or administrators, and the estate is liable (Baird's Case, 5 Ch 725); but the executors or administrators do not ipso facto become members of the company, nor is the company entitled, without their consent, to register them as members Such registration (as members) may involve them in a personal liability, and to justify it there must be some distinct and intelligent request on their part Buchan's Case, 9 App Cas. 588. Where registered as members, there should be a clean registration without any reference to their representative capacity. They may choose the order in which their names are to stand. Re Saunders & Co, (1901) 1 Ch. 415 This section enables the legal representatives of a deceased member, without himself becoming a member, to transfer the shares of the deceased—Palmer's Company Law, p 139.

Inspection of register of members.

36. (1) The register of members, commencing from the date of the registration of the company, shall be kept at the registered office of the company, and, except when closed under the provisions of this Act, shall during business hours (subject to such reasonable restrictions, as the company in general meeting may impose, so that not less than two hours in each day be allowed for inspection) be open to the inspection of any member gratis, and to the inspection of any other person on payment of one rupee, or such less sum as the company may prescribe, for each inspection.

(2) Any member or other person may require a copy of the register, or of any part thereof, or of the list and summary required by this Act, or any part thereof, on payment of six annas for every hundred words or fractional part thereof required to be copied.

(3) If any inspection or copy required under this section is refused, the company shall be liable for each refusal to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees and to a further fine not exceeding twenty rupees for every day during which the refusal continues, and every officer of the company who knowingly authorises or permits the refusal shall be liable to the like penalty, and the Court may by order compel an immediate inspection of the register.

Notes.—The register of members commencing from the date of the registration of the company is by this section, to be kept at the registered office of the company and such register by clause (1) is to be open for inspection by members gratis, and for inspection by any other person on payment of one rupee or such less sum as the company may prescribe for each inspection The right of inspection does not carry with it the right to take copies Balaghat Co, (1901) 2 K B. 665. But the right is also given to require a copy of such register or any part thereof on certain terms. The right terminates on a winding up. Re Kent Coalfields Syndicate, (1898) 1 Q. B. 754.

Clause (3)—Refusal means distinct and definite refusal. Rex v Wills, 3 Ad. & El 447 ; 8 Ad. & El 901 A member has the right to have it inspected by his solicitor. Bevan v Webb, (1901) 2 Ch 59, 75 The Court will compel production, irrespective of motive. Davies v. Gaslight & Coke Co., (1909) 1 Ch 248 cited in Palmer's Company Law, p. 125.

Power to close register.

37. A company may, on giving notice by advertisement in some newspaper circulating in the district in which the registered office of the company is situate, close the register of members for any time or times not exceeding in the whole thirty days in each year.

Notes—A company is entitled to refuse to register a transfer of shares when the application is made during the time the transfer books of the company are closed and after a public notification in accordance with the provision of this section, vide, Mothoo Mohun v. The Bank of Bengal, 3 C. 392=1 C. L. R. 507.

Power of Court to rectify register.

38. (1) If—

(a) the name of any person is fraudulently or without sufficient cause entered in or omitted from the register of members of a company ; or

(b) default is made or unnecessary delay takes place in entering on the register the fact of any person having ceased to be a member,

the person aggrieved, or any member of the company, or the company, may apply to the Court for rectification of the register.

(2) The Court may either refuse the application, or may order rectification of the register and payment by the company of any damages sustained by any party aggrieved, and may make such order as to costs as it in its discretion thinks fit.

(3) On any application under this section the Court may decide any question relating to the title of any person who is a party to the application to have his name entered in or omitted from the register, whether the question arise between members or alleged members, or between members or alleged members on the one hand and the company on the other hand ; and generally may decide any question necessary or expedient to be decided for rectification of the register :

Provided that the Court may direct an issue to be tried in which any question of law may be raised; and an appeal from the decision on such an issue shall lie in the manner directed by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908,* on the grounds mentioned in section 100 of that Code.

Power for company to keep branch register in the United Kingdom.

41. (1) A company having a share capital may, if so authorised by its articles, cause to be kept in the United Kingdom a branch register of members (in this Act called a British register).

(2) The company shall, within one month from the date of the opening of any British register, file with the registrar notice of the situation of the office where such register is kept and, in the event of any change in the situation of such office or of its discontinuance, shall within one month from the date of such change or discontinuance, as the case may be, file notice of such change or discontinuance.

(3) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues.

N. B.—This section corresponds to section 34 of the English Act.

Regulations as to British register.

42 (1) A British register shall be deemed to be part of the company's register of members (in this section called the principal register).

(2) It shall be kept in the same manner in which the principal register is by this Act required to be kept, except that the advertisement before closing the register shall be inserted in some newspaper circulating in the locality wherein the British register is kept.

(3) The company shall transmit to its registered office in India a copy of every entry in its British register as soon as may be after the entry is made; and shall cause to be kept at such office, duly entered up from time to time, a duplicate of its British register, and the duplicate shall, for all the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be part of the principal register.

(4) Subject to the provisions of this section with respect to the duplicate register, the shares registered in a British register shall be distinguished from the shares registered in the principal register, and no transaction with respect to any shares registered in a British register shall, during the continuance of that regis-

[illegible] British register, and there-

[illegible] to the principal register.

(6) Subject to the provisions of this Act, any company may, by its articles, make such regulations as it may think fit respecting the keeping of a British register.

N B—This section corresponds to section 35 of the English Act.

Issue of share-warrants to bearer.

43. A company limited by shares, if so authorised by its articles, may, with respect to any fully paid-up shares, or to stock, issue under its common seal a warrant stating that the bearer of the warrant is entitled to the shares or stock therein specified, and may provide by coupons or otherwise, for the payment of the future dividends on the shares or stock included in the warrant, in this Act termed a share-warrant.

Effect of share-warrant.

44. A share-warrant shall entitle the bearer thereof to the shares or a stock therein specified, and the shares or stock may be transferred by delivery of the warrant.

Notes—A stock or share-warrant is, by mercantile usage, a negotiable instrument; Webe, Hale & Co. v. Alexander, (1905) 93 L T 339 The bearer of a stock or share-warrant must produce the share-warrant before he is entitled to exercise any of the rights of a member. Wedgwood Coal and Iron Co 6 Ch D. 627.

Registration of name of bearer of share-warrant.

45. The bearer of a share warrant shall, subject to the articles of the company, be entitled, on surrendering it for cancellation, to have his name entered as a member in the register of members; and the company shall be responsible for any loss incurred by any person by reason of the company entering in its register the name of a bearer of a share-warrant in respect of the shares or stock therein specified without the warrant being surrendered and cancelled

Position of bearer of share-warrant.

46. The bearer of a share-warrent may, if the articles of the company so provide, be deemed to be a member of the company within the meaning of this Act, either to the full extent or for any purposes defined in the articles, except that he shall not be qualified in respect of the shares or stock specified in the warrant for being a director or manager of the company, in cases where such a qualification is required by the articles.

Entries in register when share-warrant issued.

47. (1) On the issue of a share-warrant, the company shall strike out of its register of members the name of the member then entered therein as holding the shares or stock specified in the warrant as if he had ceased to be a member, and shall enter in the register the following particulars, namely :—

(i) the fact of the issue of the warrant ;

(ii) a statement of the shares or stock included in the warrant, distinguishing each share by its number ; and

(iii) the date of the issue of the warrant.

(2) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of this section it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues, and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully continues or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

Notes.—When a share-warrant is issued, the name of the prior holder of the share is struck out of the register of members. Hence, whilst the share-warrant is outstanding there will be no registered holder Palmer's Company Law, p. 141.

Surrender of share-warrant.

48. Until the warrant is surrendered, the above particulars shall be deemed to be the particulars required by this Act to be entered in the register of members ; and, on the surrender, the date of the surrender shall be entered as if it were the date at which a person ceased to be a member.

Notes.—It would seem that the bearer of a stock or share-warrant must, before he is entitled to exercise any of the rights of a member in respect of the stock or shares comprised in his warrant, produce such warrant to the company Cf. Wedgwood Coal and Iron Co., (1877) Ch. D. 627—Cited in Stiebel p 311. A member cannot surrender his share and company cannot accept the surrender except as forfeiture. A shareholder when his shares are forfeited ceases to be a member but a shareholder who surrenders his share does not cease to be member. 107 Ind. Cas. 594=A. I. R. 1928 Lah 240. To hold that a company can by resolution of its Directors accept surrender of shares would be to allow a company to reduce its capital at its pleasure. Ibid ; see also Bellerby v Rowland, (1902) 2 Ch. 14.

Power of company to arrange for different amounts being paid on shares.

49. A company, if so authorised by its articles, may do any one or more of the following things, namely :—

(1) make arrangements on the issue of shares for a difference between the shareholders in the amounts and times of payment of calls on their shares ;

(2) accept from any member who assents thereto the whole or a part of the amount remaining unpaid on any shares held by him although no part of that amount has been called up.

(3) pay dividend in proportion to the amount paid up on each share where a larger amount is paid up on some shares than on others.

Notes.—A company will not have powers under this section unless they are conferred by its articles.

Power of company limited by shares to alter its share capital.

50. (1) A company limited by shares, if so authorised by its articles, may alter the conditions of its memorandum as follows, (that is to say), it may—

(a) increase its share capital by the issue of new shares of such amount as it thinks expedient ;

(b) consolidate and divide all or any of its share capital into shares of larger amount than its existing shares ;

(c) convert all or any of its paid-up shares into stock and reconvert that stock into paid-up shares of any denomination.

(d) sub-divide its shares, or any of them, into shares of smaller amount than is fixed by the memorandum, so however, that in the sub division the proportion between the amount paid and the amount, if any, unpaid on each reduced share shall be the same as it was in the case of the share from which the reduced share is derived ;

(e) cancel shares which, at the date of the passing of the resolution in that behalf, have not been taken or agreed to be taken by any person, and diminish the amount of its share capital by the amount of the shares so cancelled.

(2) The powers conferred by this section with respect to sub-division of shares must be exercised by special resolution.

(3) Where any alteration has been made under this section in the memorandum of a company, every copy of the memorandum issued after the date of the alteration shall be in accordance with the alteration.

(4) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of sub-section (3), it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for each copy in respect of which default is made ; and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

(5) A cancellation of shares in pursuance of this section shall not be deemed to be a reduction of share capital within the meaning of this Act.

Clause (b)—The doubt raised in Wakefield Rolling Stock (1892) 3 Ch. 165 is set at rest by this clause There is no reason why the articles should not entrust the other powers to the directors—they would seem to be powers relating to the management of the company. Mosley v. Koffyfontein, (1910) 2 Ch. 382 cited in Steibel, p. 83.

Case (1879) 9 Ch 1, Sewell's Case (1868) 3 Ch. 131.

51. (1) Where a company having a share capital has consolidated and divided its share capital into shares of larger amount than its existing shares or converted any of its shares into stock, or reconverted stock into shares, it shall within fifteen days of the consolidation and division conversion or re-conversion, file notice with the registrar of the same, specifying the share consolidated and divided, or converted, or the stock re-converted.

Notice to registrar of consolidation of share capital, conversion of shares into stock, etc.

(2) If a company makes default in complying with the requirments of this section, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues, and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

52. Where a company having a share capital has converted any of its shares into stock, and filed notice of the conversion with the registrar, all the provisions of this Act which are applicable to shares only shall cease as to so much of the share capital as is converted into stock ; and the register of members of the company, and the list of members to be filed with the registrar, shall show the amount of stock held by each member instead of the amount of shares and the particulars relating to shares hereinbefore required by this Act.

Effect of conversion of shares into stock

Notes.—Where any shares have been converted into stock the register must show the amount of stock held by each member in lieu of the particulars relating to shares. Where payment in full is made, stock can be issued without going through the formality of issuing shares—but the issue of forms or partly paid stock is ultra vires—and it has been held that the holders of stock so issued are not members. (1912) 1 Ch. 72.

Notice of increase of share capital or of members.

53. (1) Where a company having a share capital, whether its shares have or have not been converted into stock, has increased its share capital beyond the registered capital, and where a company not having a share capital has increased the number of its members beyond the registered number, it shall file with the registrar, in the case of an increase of share capital, within fifteen days after the passing, or in the case of a special resolution the confirmation, of the resolution authorising the increase, and in the case of an increase of members within fifteen days after the increase was resolved on or took place, notice of the increase of capital or members, and the registrar shall record the increase.

(2) If a company makes a default in complying with the requirements of this section, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues, and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

Notes—Where the articles empower the directors to increase the capital with sanction of a general meeting, and such a meeting authorises the directors to increase the capital to a specified amount, duty is forthwith payable on such amount. Att. Gen. v. Anglo Argentine Tramways, (1900) 1 K B. 676.

Reorganization of share capital

54. (1) A company limited by shares may, by special resolution confirmed by an order of the Court, modify the conditions contained in its memorandum so as to reorganise its share capital, whether by the consolidation of shares of different classes or by the division of its shares into shares of different classes:

Provided that no preference or special privilege attached to or belodging to any class of shares shall be interfered with except by resolution passed by a majority in number of shareholders of that class holding three fourths of the share capital of that class and confirmed at a meeting of shareholders of that class in the same manner as a special resolution of the company is required to be confirmed, and every resolution so passed shall bind all shareholders of the class.

(2) Where an order is made under this section, a certified copy thereof shall be filed with the registrar within twenty-one days after the making of the order, or within such further time as the Court may allow, , and the resolution shall not take effect until such a copy has been so filed.

Notes.—"The proviso in the section is very badly drafted, but it will be observed that it does not speak of the majority in number of the shareholders, but of a majority in number of shareholders, at a meeting and it is thought that if a meeting of the shareholders be called the majority at that meeting will be sufficient, if they are present in person or by proxy and voting in favour of the scheme by shareholders representing three fourths of the capital of the class. At the confirmatory meeting a bare majority of the members of the class present in person or by proxy will be enough. The application to the Court, it is thought, should be by petition."—Stiebel, p. 318. Company proposing to abolish existing classes of shares and to creating new classes of shares—this section does not contemplate such a mode of reorganization. This section applies only to two modes of reorganizing share capital, namely, (1) consolidation of shares of different classes into shares of one class, and (2) division of shares of one class, into shares of different classes. 30 Bom. Reduction of Share Capital.

Reduction of sharecapital.

55. (1) No company limited by shares shall have power to buy its own shares unless the consequent reduction of capital is effected and sanctioned in manner hereinafter provided

(2) Subject to confirmation by the Court, a company limited by shares, if so authorised by its articles, may by special resolution reduce its sharecapital in any way, and in particular (without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power) may—

(a) extinguish or reduce the liability on any of its shares in respect of share capital not paid up ; or

(b) either with or without extinguishing or reducing liability on any of its shares, cancel any paid-up sharecapital which is lost or unrepresented by available assets ; or

(c) either with or without extinguishing or reducing liability on any of its shares, pay off any paid-up sharecapital which is in excess of the wants of the company,

Publication of reasons for reduction.

66. A company limited by guarantee and registered after the commencement of this Act may, if it has a share capital and is so anthorised by its articles, increase or reduce its share capital in the same manner and subject to the same conditions in and subject to which a company limited by shares may increase or reduce its share-capital under the provisions of this Act.

Increase and reduction of sharecapital in case of a company limited by guarantee having a share-capital.

Registration of Unlimited Company as Limited.

67. (1) Subject to the provisions of this section, any company registered as unlimited may register under this Act as limited or any company already registered as a limited company may re register under this Act but the registration of an unlimited company as a limited company shall not affect any debts, liabilities, obligations or contracts incurred or entered into by, to, with or on behalf of, the company before the registration, and those debts, liabilities, obligations and contracts may be enforced in manner provided by Part VIII of this Act in the case of a company registered in pursuance of that Part.

Registration of unlimited company as limited.

(2) On registration in pursuance of this section, the registrar shall close the former registration of the company, and may dispense with the delivery to him of copies of any documents with copies of which he was furnished on the occasion of the original registration of the company ; but, save as aforesaid, the registration shall take place in the same manner and shall have effect as if it were the first registration of the company under this Act.

68. An unlimited company having a sharecapital may, by its resolution for registration as a limited company in pursuance of this Act, do either or both of the following things, namely :—

Power of unlimited company to provide for reserve share-capital on re-registration.

Reserve liability of limited company company being wound up, and thereupon that portion of its sharecapital shall not be capable of being called up except in the event and for the purposes aforesaid.

Notes.—There is nothing to prevent a limited company providing by its Memorandum of Association that part of its capital shall only be capable of being called up in the event and for the purposes of a winding up, and such a provision would be unalterable. Ashbury v Watson, 30 Ch. D. 376. Where there is no provisions in the Memorandum of Association, such a provision may also be made under this section by special resolution. It is well settled that a power to charge uncalled capital conferred by the Memorandum or Articles of Association of a company is good. Fyle Works, (1890) 44 Ch. D. 534 ; Newton v. Anglo-Australian Investment Co., (1895) A. C. 244.

Unlimited Liability of Directors

Limited company may have directors with unlimited liability.

Special resolution of limited company making liability of directors unlimited

71. (1) A limited company, if so authorised by its articles, may, by special resolution, alter its memorandum so as to render unlimited the liability of its directors or of any director.

(2) Upon the confirmation of any such special resolution, the provisions thereof shall be as valid as if they had been originally contained in the memorandum, and a copy thereof shall be embodied in or annexed to every copy of the memorandum issued after the confirmation of the resolution.

(3) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for each copy in respect of which default is made ; and every officer of the company, who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default, shall be liable to the like penalty.

Notes—The Legislature whilst allowing limited liability desires by this means to make the company itself continually bring to the notice of those who deal or may deal with it the fact that it is limited—Palmer's Company Law, p 248. Abbreviations such as Co and Ltd may be used (1912) 106 L. T. 544. If any company omits to comply with the provisions of this section that will not preclude it from enforcing any rights it has. Notes—This section provides that if any officer signs or authorises to be signed on behalf of the company any bill of exchange, promissory note etc, wherein the name of the company is not mentioned in the manner specified, he shall be personally liable to the holder of any such bill of exchange, etc., for the amount thereof unless the same is duly paid by the company. 61 L. 82. (1) A copy of every special and extraordinary resolution shall, within fifteen days from the confirmation of the special resolution or from the passing of the extraordinary resolution, as the case may be, be printed or typewritten and filed with the registrar who shall record the same.

(2) Where articles have been registered, a copy of every special resolution for the time being in force shall be embodied in or annexed to every copy of the articles issued after the date of the resolution.

(3) Where articles have not been registered, a copy of every special resolution shall be forwarded in print to any member at his request, on payment of one rupee or such less sum as the company may direct

(5) If a company makes default in embodying in or annexing to a copy of its articles or in forwarding in print to a member when required by this section a copy of a special resolution, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for each copy in respect of which default is made.

(6) Every officer of a company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits any default by the company in complying with the requirements of this section shall be liable to the like penalty as is imposed by this section on the company for that default.

Minutes of proceedings of general meetings and of its directors.

83. (1) Every company shall cause minutes of all proceedings of general meetings and of its directors to be entered in books kept for that purpose.

(2) Any such minute, if purporting to be signed by the chairman of the meeting at which the proceedings were had, or by the chairman of the next succeeding meeting, shall be evidence of the proceedings.

(3) Until the contrary is proved, every general meeting of the company or meeting of directors in respect of the proceedings whereof minutes have been so made shall be deemed to have been duly called and held, and all proceedings had thereat to have been duly had, and all appointments of directors or liquidators shall be deemed to be valid.

Signed by the Chairman—Such signature may be put at any time Royney's Case, 4 De G J. & S. 426. After the signature of the Chairman the minutes of the meeting should not be altered. 42 Ch. D. 209.

Clause (3)—The Court, notwithstanding the minutes are made conclusive by the articles, may look and consider the regularity of the notice. Betts & Co. v. Macnaghten, (1910) 1 Ch. 420 cited in Palmer's Company Law, p 244.

"*Directors.

Directors obligatory.

83A (1) Every company registered after the commencement of this Act shall have at least two directors.

(2) This section shall not apply to a private company.

* This heading and sections 83 A and 83 B have been inserted by Act 11 of 1914 is thus summarised by James L. J. : "A trustee is a man who is the owner of the property, and deals with it as principal owner and master subject only to an equitable obligation to account to some person to whom he stands in relation of trustee and who are his cestuis que trust The same individual may fill the office of director and also be a trustee having property, but that is a rare exceptional and casual circumstance. The office of director is that of paid servant of the company. A director never enters into contract for himself but he enters into contract for his principal, that is, for the company of whom he is a director and for whom he is acting. He can ... sued on them unless he exceeds his authority." ... disclose his knowledge of the company, then that ... the company though in general the knowledge of ... knowledge of the company. 33 Bom. L. R. 184.

83B In default of and subject to any regulations in the articles of a company other than a private company—

Appointment of directors.

(i) the subscribers of the memorandum shall be deemed to be the directors of the company until the first directors shall have been appointed ;

(ii) the directors of the company shall be appointed by the members in general meeting ; and

(iii) any casual vacancy occurring among the directors may be filled up by the directors, but the person so appointed shall be subject to retirement at the same time as if he had become a director on the day on which the director in whose place he is appointed was last appointed a director."

Casual vacancy.—A casual vacancy means a vacancy occurring by death, resignation, or bankruptcy and not by efflux of time. 34 L. W. 746=61 M. L J. 724.

84. (1) A person shall not be capable of being appointed director of a company by the articles, and shall not be named as a director or proposed director of a company in any prospectus issued by or on behalf of the company or in relation to any intended company or in any statement in lieu of prospectus filed by or on behalf of a company, unless, before the registration of the articles or the publication of the prospectus, or the filing of the statement in lieu of prospectus, as the case may be, he has, by himself or by his agent authorised in writing—

Restrictions on appointment or advertisement of director.

(i) signed and filed with the registrar a consent in writing to act as such director ; and

(ii) save in the case of a company limited by guarantee and not having a share capital, either signed the memorandum for a number of shares not less than his qualification (if any) or signed and filed with the registrar a contract in writing to take from the Company and pay for his qualification shares (if any).

(2) On the application for registration of the memorandum and articles of a company the applicant shall file with the registrar a list of the persons who have consented to be directors of the company, and, if this list contains the name of any person who has not so consented, the applicant shall be liable date at which the company is entitled to commence business.

Notes.—The word "articles" in this section refers to the articles in force, whether in their original form or as altered by special resolution. Where an agent signs the consent he must produce his authority. An intended director who subscribes the memorandum for his qualification becomes bound on incorporation to take the shares even though the company never commences business.—Palmer's Company Law, p. 182.

85. (1) Without prejudice to the restrictions imposed by section 84, it shall be the duty of every director who is by the articles required to hold a specified share qualification, and who is not already qualified, to obtain his qualification within two months after his appointment, or such shorter time as may be fixed by the articles.

Qualification of director.

(2) The office of director of a company shall be vacated if the director does not, within two months from the date of his appointment, or within such shorter time as may be fixed by the articles, obtain his qualification, or if after the expiration of such period or shorter time he ceases at any time to hold his qualification; and a person vacating office under this section shall be incapable of being re-appointed director of the company until he has obtained his qualification.

(3) If, after the expiration of the said period or shorter time, any unqualified person acts as a director of the company, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day between the expiration of the said period or shorter time and the last day on which it is proved that he acted as a director.

Object.—The qualification is fixed in order to give the director personal interest in the undertaking Archer's Case, (1892) 1 Ch. 322. A joint holding gives the requisite qualification. Glory Paper Mills, 3 Ch 473; Grundy v Briggs, (1910) 1 Ch 441. If the qualification is increased while a person is serving as director, the failure on his part to increase the number of shares will not make him vacate his office (1902) 2 K B 589; see also 23 Ind. Cas 718

86. The acts of a director shall be valid notwithstanding any defect that may afterwards be discovered in his appointment or qualification: Provided that nothing in this section shall be deemed to give validity to acts done by a director after the appointment of such director has been shown to be invalid.

List of directors to be sent to registrar.

87. (1) Every company shall keep at its registered office a register containing the names and addresses and the occupations of its directors, and file with the registrar a copy thereof, and from time to time file with the registrar notice of any change among its directors or managers.

(2) If default is made in complying with this section, the company shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues; and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

Managers—Unless a person is in charge of the entire business of a company he can not be deemed to be the manager thereof. A person in charge of the business of a branch of a bank, therefore, does not come within the purview of the term "manager" as used in this section. Basant v. Emperor, 43 Ind Cas. 791=19 Cr. L. Contracts.

Form of contracts.

88. (1) Contracts on behalf of a company may be made as follows (that is to say):—

(i) any contract which, if made between private persons, would be by law required to be in writing, signed by the parties to be charged therewith, may be made on behalf of the company in writing signed by any person acting under its authority, express or implied, and may in the same manner be varied or discharged;

(ii) any contract which, if made between private persons, would by law be valid although made by parol only, and not reduced into writing, may be [illegible] hori- [illegible] law and shall bind the company and its successors and all other parties thereto, their heirs, or legal representatives, as the case may be.

Notes—A contract entered into by the promoters of a company prior to its incorporation, is not binding on the company; nor can a company ratify or adopt such a contract; it may enter into a new contract embodying the terms of that contract of adopting it. The mere affixing of a copy of an agreement to the Articles of Association is not equivalent to effecting a new contract by the company and would not estop the official liquidator from objecting to a claim on behalf of the [illegible]

Bills of exchange and promissory notes.

89. A bill of exchange, hundi or promissory note shall be deemed to have been made, drawn, accepted or endorsed on behalf of a company if made, drawn, accepted or endorsed in the name of, or by or on behalf or on account of, the company by any person acting, under its authority, express or implied.

Does it really purport it so to be? For, although given for the purposes of the Company, the bill or note may not even purport to bind it. On the other hand, if on the true construction of the bill or note it is not the bill or note of the company, the persons whose names are upon it will be liable upon it, whether they intended to be so or not." Execution of deeds abroad.

90. A company may, by writing under its common seal, empower any person, either generally or in respect of any specified matters, as its attorney, to execute deeds on its behalf in any place not situate in British India ; and every deed signed by such attorney, on behalf of the company, and under his seal, where sealing is required, shall bind the company, and have the same effect as if it were under its common seal.

Notes—Under this section the company can authorise any person, as the attorney of the company, to execute, under his seal, deeds outside British India.—Vide Palmer's Company Law, p. 259.

Power for company to have official seal for use abroad.

91. (1) A company whose objects require or comprise the transaction of business beyond the limits of British India may, if authorised by its articles, have for use in any territory, district or place not situate in British India, an official seal, which shall be a facsimile of the common seal of the company, with the addition on its face of the name of every territory, district or place where it is to be used.

(2) A company having such an official seal may, by writing under its common seal, authorise any person appointed for the purpose in any territory, district or place not situate in British India to affix the same to any deed or other docu- … district or place.

(4) The person affixing any such official seal shall, by writing under his hand, on the deed or other document to which the seal is affixed, certify the date and place of affixing the same.

(5) A deed or other document to which an official seal is duly affixed shall bind the company as if it had been sealed with the common seal of the company.

Notes.—Besides its common seal, a company may under this section, obtain power to have an official seal for use abroad.—Palmer's Company Law, p. 259.

Disclosure of interest by director.

91A* (1) Every director who is directly or indirectly concerned or interested in any contract or arrangement entered into by or on behalf of the company shall disclose the nature of his interest at the meeting of the directors at which the contract or arrangement is determined on, if his interest then exists, or in any other case at the first meeting of the directors after the acquisition of his interest or the making of the contract or arrangement :

Provided that a general notice that a director is a member of any specified firm or company, and is to be regarded as interested in any subsequent transaction with such firm or company, shall as regards any such transaction be sufficient disclosure within the meaning of this sub section and after such general notice, it shall not be necessary to give any special notice relating to any particular transaction with such firm or company

Prohibition of voting by interested director.

91B.* (1) No director shall, as a director, vote on any contract or arrangement in which he is either directly or indirectly concerned or interested; and if he does so vote, his vote shall not be counted :

Provided that the directors or any of them may vote on any contract of indemnity against any loss which they or any one or more of them may suffer by reason of becoming or being sureties or surety for the company.

(2) Every director who contravenes the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

"(3) This section shall not apply to a private company."†

Notes—There is almost invariably a more or less stringent clause as to the office of director being vacated if he is concerned in or participates in profits of contracts with the company, though such a clause has a saving to the effect that it shall not apply if he discloses his interest, meaning the exact nature of the interest (Imperial Mercantile Credit v. Coleman, L. R. 6 H. L. 189), to his co-directors or if he is only interested as a member of another company, in which latter case he will have only to disclose the fact of his membership [Costa v. Forwood, (1901) 1 Ch. 746] The provision usually adds that he must not vote. Stiebel's Company Law, p 359. Under sub-section (2) any director who contravenes with the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be liable to a fine but non-observance will not forfeit his office as director. Cf. Imperial Mercantile Credit v. Coleman, (1871) 6 Ch. 558 In such a case his vote will not be counted. British American Corporation, (1903) 19 T. L. R. 662 ; see also 32 Ind. Provision—Usually a director is expressly allowed to vote on question of security to be given to him in respect of debts of the company for which he is liable Stiebel, p. 359

Disclosure to members in case of contract appointing a manager.

91C* (1) Where a company enters into a contract for the appointment of a manager of the company in which contract any director of the company is directly or indirectly concerned or interested, or varies any such existing contract, the company shall send an abstract of the terms of such contract or variation, as the case may be, together with a memorandum clearly indicating the nature of the interest of the director in such contract, or in such variation, to every member ; and the contract shall be open to the inspection of any member at the registered office of the company.

(2) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of sub-section (1), it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees , and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

Contracts by agents of company in which company is undisclosed principal.

91D* (1) Every manager or other agent of a company other than a private company who enters into a contract for or on behalf of the company in which contract the company is an undisclosed principal shall, at the time of entering into the contract, make a memorandum in writing of the terms of the contract, and specify therein the person with whom it has been made.

(a) the contract shall, at the option of the company, be void as against the company ; and

Prospectus.

Filing of prospectus.

92. (1) Every prospectus issued by or on behalf of a company or in relation to any intended company shall be dated, and that date shall, unless the contrary be proved, be taken as the date of publication of the prospectus.

(2) A copy of every such prospectus, signed by every person who is named therein as a director or proposed director of the company, or by his agent authorised in writing, shall be filed for registration with the registrar on or before the date of its publication, and no such prospectus shall be issued until a copy thereof has been so filed for registration.

Specific requirements as to particulars of prospectus.

93. (1) Every prospectus issued by or on behalf of a company, or by or on behalf of any person who is or has been engaged or interested in the formation of the company, shall state—

(a) the contents of the memorandum, with the names, descriptions and *addresses of the signatories and the number of shares subscribed for by them res*pectively; and the number of founders or management or deferred shares (if any) and the nature and extent of the interest of the holders in the property and the profits of the company; and

(b) the number of shares (if any) fixed by the articles as the qualification of a director, and any provision in the articles as to the remuneration of the directors; and

(c) the names, descriptions and addresses of the directors or proposed directors and of the managers or proposed managers (if any); and

(d) the minimum subscription on which the directors may proceed to allotment, and the amount payable on application and allotment on each share; and in the case of a second or subsequent offer of shares the amount offered for subscription on each previous allotment made within the two preceding years, and the amount actually allotted, and the amount (if any) paid on the shares so allotted; and

(e) the number and amount of shares and debentures which within the two preceding years have been issued, or agreed to be issued, as fully or partly paid up otherwise than in cash, and in the latter case the extent to which they are so paid up, and in either case the consideration for which those shares or debentures have been issued or agreed to be issued, and

(f) the names and addresses of the vendors of any property purchased or acquired by the company, or proposed so to be purchased or acquired, which is to be paid for wholly or partly out of the proceeds of the issue offered for subscription by the prospectus, or the purchase or acquisition of which has not been completed at the date of issue of the prospectus, and the amount payable in cash, shares or debentures to the vendor, and where there is more than one separate vendor or the company is a sub-purchaser, the amount so payable to each vendor: Provided that where the vendors or any of them are a firm, the ... , and ... oney in cash, shares ... the amount (if any) ... , as ... ing to procure subscriptions, for any shares in, or debentures of, the company, or the rate of any such commission: Provided that it shall not be necessary to state the commission payable to sub-under-writers, and

(i) the amount or estimated amount of preliminary expenses; and

(k) the amount paid within the two preceding years or intended to be paid to any promoter, and the consideration for any such payment; and

(l) the dates of, and parties to, every material contract, and a reasonable time and place at which any material contract or a copy thereof may be inspected: Provided that this requirement shall not apply to a contract entered into in the ordinary course of the business carried on or intended to be carried on by the company, or to any contract entered into more than two years before the date of issue of the prospectus, and

(m) the names and addresses of the auditors (if any) of the company; and

(n) full particulars of the nature and the extent of the interest (if any) of every director in the promotion of, or in the property proposed to be acquired by, the company, or, where the interest of such a director consists in being a partner in a firm, the nature and extent of the interest of the firm, with a statement of all sums paid or agreed to be paid to him or to the firm in cash or shares or otherwise by any person either to induce him to become, or to qualify him as, a director, or otherwise for services rendered by him or by the firm in connection with the promotion or formation of the company; and

(o) where the company is a company having shares of more than one class, the right of voting at meetings of the company conferred by the several classes of shares respectively.

(2) Where any such prospectus as is mentioned in this section is published as a newspaper advertisement, it shall not be necessary in the advertisement to specify the contents of the memorandum, or the signatories thereto, and the number of shares subscribed for by them

(3) This section shall not apply to a circular or notice inviting existing members or debenture-holders of a company to subscribe either for shares or for debentures of the company, whether with or without the right to renounce in favour of other persons

(4) The requirements of this section as to the memorandum and the qualification, remuneration and interest of directors, the names, descriptions and addresses of directors, or proposed directors and of managers or proposed managers, and the amount or estimated amount of preliminary expenses, shall not apply in the case of a prospectus issued more than one year after the date at which the company is entitled to commence business.

(5) Nothing in this section shall limit or diminish any liability which any person may incur under the general law or this Act apart from this section.

Sub Clause (f)—The object clearly is to strip off the musk—as Lord Davy said—which often conceals the real vendor, and to get at the truth of who is the of profit he or the sucense of the company. But and its operation is another.
the unscrupulous director can easily comply with the letter, and yet, by a multiplicity of details, baffle inquiry and throw dust in the eyes of investors.—Palmer's Company Law, p. 346. An outsider cannot challenge the appointment of director or contest a director's authority to act on behalf of the company where the company has recognised a person to be a director for a long time, without repudiating his acts on any single occasion. 31 Ind Cas 595.

Clause (3)—A circular of which a few copies are printed or typewritten, and which is only given to the directors and few other persons for distribution among personal friends, does not come within this section. Sleigh v. Glasgow, (1904) 6 Fra. 420, Sherwell v. Combined Incandescent Mantles, (1907) 23 T. L. R. 482; (1911) 1 Ch. 573.

Clause (5)—No penalty is imposed for non-compliance with the section, and the inference seems to be that any one aggrieved by the neglect of the statutory duty has a right of action for damages against the directors or promoters or other persons responsible for the neglect.—Palmer's Company Law citing Atkinson v. Newcastle, 1 Ex. D. 441 : Cowley v. Newmarket, (1892) A. C. 345 ; Municipality v. Geldert, (1893) A. C. 524 ; Saunders v. Holborn, (1895) 1 Q. B. 64 ; Jhonston v. Consumers, (1898) A. C. 447.

Meaning of "vendor" in section 93.

94. For the purposes of section 93 every person shall be deemed to be a vendor who has entered into any contract, absolute or conditional, for the sale or purchase, or for any option of purchase, of any property to be acquired by the company, in any case where—

(a) the purchase-money is not fully paid at the date of issue of the prospectus ; or

(b) the purchase-money is to be paid or satisfied wholly or in part out of the proceeds of the issue offered for subscription by the prospectus ; or

(c) the contract depends for its validity or fulfilment on the result of that issue.

Notes.—Very wide meaning is given to the word "vendor"—Palmer's Company Law, p. 346.

Application of section 93 to the case of property taken on lease.

95. Where any of the property to be acquired by the company is to be taken on lease, section 93 shall apply as if the expression "vendor" included the lessor, and the expression "purchase-money" included the consideration for the lease, and the expression "sub-purchaser" included a sub-lessee.

Notes.—This corresponds to clause (3) of section 81 of the English Act

Invalidity of certain conditions as to waiver or notice.

96. Any condition requiring or binding any applicant for shares or debentures to waive compliance with any requirements of section 93, or purporting to affect him with notice of any contract, document or matter not specifically referred to in the prospectus, shall be void

Saving in certain cases of non-compliance with section 93.

97. In the event of non compliance with any of the requirements of section 93, a director or other person responsible for the prospectus shall not incur any liability by reason of the non compliance, if he proves that—

(a) as regards any matter not disclosed, he was not cognisant thereof ; or

(b) the non-compliance arose from an honest mistake of fact on his part :

Obligations of companies where no prospectus is issued.

98. (1) A company which does not issue a prospectus on or with reference to its formation shall not allot any of its shares or debentures unless before the first allotment of either shares or debentures there has been filed with the registrar a statement in lieu of prospectus signed by every person who is named therein as a director or a proposed director of the company or by his agent authorised in writing, in the form and containing the particulars set out in the Second Schedule.

(2) This section shall not apply to a private company or to a company which has allotted any shares or debentures before the commencement of this Act or, in so far as it relates to the allotment of shares to a company limited by guarantee and not having a share capital.

Notes—The registrar will not file a statement in lieu of a prospectus unless every point in such form is dealt with either by a definite affirmative statement or by a negative statement and he is bound in this case to see the statute is complied with.—Stiebel, p. 219. A scheme was set on foot to purchase a cotton mill as a going concern at an excessive price, and to promote a company greatly over-capitalised, to which it was to be sold at a profit to the promoters. One of the promoters introduced the scheme to the respondent Lewis, and induced him to provide £30,000 in cash, for registered, but before the registration and at that time no prospectus, or statement in lieu of a prospectus had been filed as required by s. 82(1) (=this section) of the English Companies Act. Held, that the respondent was liable as a promoter. Jubilee Cotton Mills v. Lewis, (1924) A. C. 958 The statement is also open to inspection (1914) 1 Ch. 390. The requirements of the section are satisfied by the mere filing of the statement (1914) 1 Ch 390

Restriction on alteration of terms mentioned in prospectus or statement in lieu of prospectus.

99 A company shall not, at any time, vary the terms of a contract referred to in the prospectus, or statement in lieu of prospectus, except subject to the approval of the company in general meeting.

Notes—A company cannot previously to its statutory meeting alter the terms of a contract referred to in a prospectus or statement in lieu of a prospectus except subject to the approval of the statutory meeting. Stiebel, p. 330.

Liability for statements in prospectus.

100. (1) Where a prospectus invites persons to subscribe for shares in or debentures of a company, every person who is a director of the company at the time of the issue of the prospectus, and every person who has authorised the naming of himself and is named in the prospectus as a director or as having agreed to become a director either immediately or after an interval of time, and every promoter of the company, and every person who has authorised the issue of the prospectus, shall be liable to pay compensation to all persons who subscribe for any shares or debentures on the faith of the prospectus for all loss or damage they may have sustained by reason of any misleading or untrue statement therein, or any report or memorandum appearing on the face thereof, or by reference incorporated therein or issued therewith, unless it is proved—

(a) with respect to every misleading or untrue statement not purporting to be made on the authority of an expert or of a public official document or statement, that he had reasonable ground to believe and did up to the time of the allotment of the shares or debentures, as the case may be, believe that the statement fairly represented the facts or was true ;

(b) with respect to every misleading or untrue statement purporting to be a statement by or contained in what purports to be a copy of or extract from a report or valuation of an expert, that it fairly represented the statement, or was a correct and fair copy of or extract from the report or valuation : Provided that the director, person named as director, promoter or person who authorised the issue of the prospectus shall be liable to pay compensation as aforesaid if it is proved that he had no reasonable ground to believe that the person making the statement, report or valuation was competent to make it ; and

(c) with respect to every misleading or untrue statement purporting to be a statement made by an official person or contained in what purports to be a copy of or extract from a public official document, that it was a correct and fair representation of the statement or copy of or extract from the document :

ave a reasonable public notice
; or

(iii) that, after the issue of the prospectus and before allotment thereunder, he, on becoming aware of any misleading or untrue statement therein, withdrew his consent thereto, and gave reasonable public notice of the withdrawal, and of the reason therefor.

(2) Where a company existing at the commencement of this Act has issued shares or debentures, and for the purpose of obtaining further capital by subscriptions for shares or debentures issues a prospectus, a director shall not be liable in respect of any statement therein unless he has authorised the issue of the prospectus, or has adopted or ratified it.

(3) Where the prospectus contains the name of a person as a director of the company, or as having agreed to become a director thereof, and he has not consented to become a director, or has withdrawn his consent before the issue of the prospectus, and has not authorised or consented to the issue thereof, the directors of the company, except any without whose knowledge or consent the prospectus was issued, and any other person who authorised the issue thereof, shall be liable to indemnify the person named as aforesaid against all damages, costs and expenses to which he may be made liable by reason of his name having been inserted in the prospectus, or in defending himself against any suit or legal proceedings brought against him in respect thereof.

(4) Every person who, by reason of his being a director or named as a director, or as having agreed to become a director, or of his having authorised the issue of the prospectus, becomes liable to make any payment under this section, may recover contribution, as in cases of contract, from any other person who, if sued separately, would have been liable to make the same payment, unless the person who has become so liable was, and that other person was not, guilty of fraudulent misrepresentation.

(5) For the purposes of this section—

(a) the expression "promoter" means a promoter who was a party to the preparation of the prospectus, or the portion thereof containing the misleading or untrue statement, but does not include any person by reason of his acting in a professional capacity for persons engaged in procuring the formation of the company;

(b) the expression "expert" includes engineer, valuer, accountant and any other person whose profession gives authority to a statement made by him.

Notes.—A prospectus set forth that the company had been formed for the purpose of acquiring a concession to work and sell rubber in a certain district, and inter alia, stated, "L. reports as follows," and then quoted the report L.'s name had been already mentioned as a director of the company The prospectus also stated that the statements in it were based mainly upon L.'s report and further stated that no portion of the price would be paid until the directors received an independent report substantially confirming L.'s Allotment.

Restriction as to allotment.

101. (1) No allotment shall be made of any share capital of a company offered to the public for subscription, unless the following conditions have been complied with, namely :—

(a) the amount (if any) fixed by the memorandum or articles and named in the prospectus as the minimum subscription upon which the directors may proceed to allotment ; or

(b) if no amount is so fixed and named, then the whole amount of the share capital so offered for subscription ;

has been subscribed, and the sum payable on application for the amount so fixed and named or for the whole amount offered for subscription, has been paid to and received in cash by the company

(2) The amount so fixed and named and the whole amount aforesaid shall be reckoned exclusively of any amount payable otherwise than in cash, and is in this Act referred to as the minimum subscription.

(3) The amount payable on application on each share shall not be less than five per cent. of the nominal amount of the share.

(4) If the conditions aforesaid have not been complied with on the expiration of one hundred and twenty days after the first issue of the prospectus, all money received from applicants for shares shall be forthwith repaid to them without interest, and, if any such money is not so repaid within one hundred and thirty days after the issue of the prospectus, the directors of the company shall be jointly and severally liable to repay that money with interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum from the expiration of the one hundred and thirtieth day : Provided that a director shall not be liable if he proves that the loss of the

(6) This section, except sub-section (3) thereof, shall not apply to any allotment of shares subsequent to the first allotment of shares offered to the public for subscription

(7) In the case of the first allotment of share capital payable in cash of a company which does not issue any invitation to the public to subscribe for its shares, no allotment shall be made unless the minimum subscription (that is to say)—

(a) the amount (if any) fixed by the memorandum or articles and named in the statement in lieu of prospectus as the minimum subscription upon which the directors may proceed to allotment ; or has been subscribed and an amount not less than five per cent of the nominal amount of each share payable in cash has been paid to and received by the company.

(b) if no amount is so fixed and named, the whole amount of the share capital other than that issued or agreed to be issued as fully or partly paid up otherwise than in cash ;

(8) Sub section (7) shall not apply to a private company or to a company which has allotted any shares or debentures before the commencement of this Act

Notes—This section applies to a company's first allotment of shares offered to the public subscription ; once the company has allotted shares offered for public subscription, it will not, if it makes a further issue have again to comply with the section ; nor does the section touch or affect in any way (except by sub-section 7) an allotment of shares not offered for public subscription, e. g. offered to a lim' circle of friends or relations. Palmer's Company Law, p. 108. The section ..

sub-section (3) requiring the amount payable on application to be not less than 5 per cent of the nominal amount of each share does not apply to any allotment of shares subsequent to the first allotment of shares offered to the public for subscription. Stiebel, p. 223.

102 (1) An allotment made by a company to an applicant in contravention of the provisions of section 101 shall be voidable at the instance of the applicant within one month after the holding of the statutory meeting of the company and not later, and shall be so voidable notwithstanding that the company is in course of being wound up.

Effect of irregular allotment.

(2) If any director of a company knowingly contravenes or permits or authorises the contravention of any of the provisions of section 101 with respect to allotment, he shall be liable to compensate the company and the allottee respectively for any loss, damages or costs which the company or the allottee may have sustained or incurred thereby : Provided that proceedings to recover any such loss, damages or costs shall not be commenced after the expiration of two years from the date of the allotment

One month.—It is not necessary that the actual proceeding should be commenced within the month—it is enough if notice of intention to avoid the allotment is given within the month—and proceedings are taken as soon as it is clear that the directors of the company do not intend to remove the applicant's name National Motor Mail Coach Co. (1908) 2 Ch. 228

Voidable.—After allotment the remedy under section 101 is gone and a company cannot avoid a wrongful allotment unless the allottee demands that they shall do so Burton v. Bevan, (1908) 2 Ch, 240.

Knowingly.—"Knowingly" signifies knowledge of facts and not of the law. Knowledge after allotment is not enough. Burton v. Bevan, (1908) 2 Ch. 240.

Compensation.—The amount of such compensation will probably not be limited to the amount by which the shares applied for fall short of the minimum subscription. Daily Events Co, Times Newspaper, 2nd March, 1911 cited in Stiebel, p. 224.

103. (1) A company shall not commence any business or exercise any borrowing powers unless—

Restrictions on commencement of business.

(a) shares held subject to the payment of the whole amount thereof in cash have been allotted to an amount not less in the whole than the minimum subscription ; and

(b) every director of the company has paid to the company on each of the shares taken or contracted to be taken by him, and for which he is liable to pay in cash, a proportion equal to the proportion payable on application and allotment on the shares offered for public subscription or, in the case of a company which does not issue a prospectus inviting the public to subscribe for its shares, on the shares payable in cash ; and

(c) there has been filed with the registrar a duly verified declaration by the secretary or one of the directors, in the prescribed form, that the aforesaid conditions have been complied with ; and

(d) in the case of a company which does not issue a prospectus inviting the public to subscribe for its shares, there has been filed with the registrar a statement in lieu of prospectus.

(2) The registrar shall, on the filing of a duly verified declaration, in accordance with the provisions of this section certify that the company is entitled to commence business, and that certificate shall be conclusive evidence that the company is so entitled :

Provided that, in the case of a company which does not issue a prospectus inviting the public to subscribe for its shares, the registrar shall not give such a certificate unless a statement in lieu of prospectus has been filed with him.

(3) Any contract made by a company before the date at which it is entitled to commence business shall be provisional only, and shall not be binding on the company until that date, and on that date it shall become binding.

(4) Nothing in this section shall prevent the simultaneous offer for subscription or allotment of any shares and debentures or the receipt of any money payable on application for debentures.

(5) If any company commences business or exercises borrowing powers in contravention of this section, every person who is responsible for the contravention shall, without prejudice to any other liability, be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees for every day during which the contravention continues.

(6) Nothing in this section shall apply to a private company, or to a company registered before the commencement of this Act which does not issue a prospectus inviting the public to subscribe for its shares or, in so far as its provisions relate to shares, to a company limited by guarantee and not having a share capital.

Notes.—If a statement in lieu of prospectus has been filed pursuant to section 98 of the Companies Act, and the registrar has given a certificate under sub-section (2) the company can proceed to allotment notwithstanding that the statement contains mis-statements and omissions. In re Blair Open Hearth Furnace Co. Ltd. (1914) 1 Ch. 390.

Return as to allotments.

104. (1) Whenever a company having a share capital makes any allotment of its shares, the company shall, within one month thereafter,—

(a) file with the registrar a return of the allotments, stating the number and nominal amount of the shares comprised in the allotment, the names, addresses and descriptions of the allottees, and the amount (if any) paid or due and payable on each share ; and

(b) in the case of shares allotted as fully or partly paid up otherwise than in cash, produce for the inspection and examination of the registrar a contract in writing constituting the title of the allottee to the allotment together with any contract of sale, or for services or other consideration in respect of which [illegible] file with the [illegible] acts and a [illegible], the extent [illegible] which they have been allotted.

(2) Where such a contract as above mentioned is not reduced to writing, the company shall, within one month after the allotment, file with the registrar the prescribed particulars of the contract stamped with the same stamp-duty as would have been payable if the contract had been reduced to writing, and these particulars shall be deemed to be an instrument within the meaning of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899*, and the registrar may, as a condition of filing the particulars, require that the duty payable thereon be adjudicated under section 31 of that Act.

(3) If default is made in complying with the requirements of this section, every officer of the company who is knowingly a party to the default shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees for every day during which the default continues :

Provided that, in case of default in filing with the registrar within one month after the allotment any document required to be filed by this section, the company, or any person liable for the default, may apply to the Court for relief, and the Court, if satisfied that the omission to file the document was accidental or due to inadvertence or that on other grounds it is just and equitable to grant relief, may make an order extending the time for the filing of the document for such a period as the Court may think proper.

Commissions and Discounts.

105. (1) It shall be lawful for a company to pay a commission to any person in consideration of his subscribing or agreeing to subscribe, whether absolutely or conditionally, for any shares in the company, or procuring or agreeing to procure subscriptions, whether absolute or conditional, for any shares in the company, if the payment of the commission is authorised by the articles and the commission paid or agreed to be paid does not exceed the amount or rate so authorised and if the amount or rate per cent. of the commission paid or agreed to be paid is—

Power to pay certain commissions and prohibition of payment of all other commissions, discounts, etc.

(a) in the case of shares offered to the public for subscription, disclosed in the prospectus ; or

(b) in the case of shares not offered to the public for subscription, disclosed in the statement in lieu of prospectus, or in a statement in the prescribed form signed in like manner as a statement in lieu of prospectus and filed with the registrar and, where a circular or notice, not being a prospectus inviting subscription for the shares is issued, also disclosed in that circular or notice.

(2) Save as aforesaid, no company shall apply any of its shares or capital money either directly or indirectly in payment of any commission, discount or allowance, to any person in consideration of his subscribing or agreeing to subscribe, whether absolutely or conditionally, for any shares of the company, or procuring or agreeing to procure subscriptions, whether absolute or conditional, for any shares in the company, whether the shares or money be so applied by being added to the purchase-money of any property acquired by the company or to the contract price of any work to be executed for the company, or the money be paid out of the nominal purchase-money or contract price, or otherwise.

(3) Nothing in this section shall affect the power of any company to pay such brokerage as it has heretofore been lawful for a company to pay, and a vendor to, promoter of, or other person who receives payment in money or shares from, a company shall have and shall be deemed always to have had power to apply any part of the money or shares so received in payment of any commission, the payment of which, if made directly by the company, would have been legal under this section.

Clause (1).—This clause makes provision for underwriting agreement. An underwriter generally finds subscribers for so many of the shares specified in the underwriting letter, as are not before a certain date or event, otherwise subscribed. See Gorrissen's Case, 8 Ch. 1570. In return of his services he is given certain commission. 42 Ch. D 1 ; 13 T L. 106. Where a company has paid any sums by way of commission in respect of any shares or debentures, or allowed any sums by way of discount in respect of any debentures, the total amount so paid or allowed or so much thereof as has not been written off, shall be stated in every balance-sheet of the company until the whole amount thereof has been written off.

Statement in balance-sheet as to commissions and discounts.

Notes—This section only applies to the underwriting of shares, and not of debentures, as there was never any legal objection to the underwriting of debentures, but sums paid for underwriting of shares or debentures, or allowed by way of discount in respect of debentures, or so much thereof as has not been written off, must be stated in every balance-sheet of the company, until the whole amount has been written off—Stiebel p. 181.

Payment of Interest out of Capital.

Power of company to pay interest out of capital in certain cases.

107. Where any shares of a company are issued for the purpose of raising money to defray the expenses of the construction of any works or buildings or the provision of any plant which cannot be made profitable for a lengthened period, the company may pay interest on so much of that share capital as is for the time being paid up for the period and subject to the conditions and restrictions in this section mentioned, and may charge the same to capital as part of the cost of construction of the work or building, or the provision of plant:

Provided that—

(1) no such payment shall be made unless the same is authorised by the articles or by special resolution;

(2) no such payment, whether authorised by the articles or by special resolution, shall be made without the previous sanction of the Local Government, which sanction shall be conclusive evidence for the purposes of this section that the shares of the company, in respect of which such sanction is given, have been issued for a purpose specified in this section,

(3) before sanctioning any such payment, the Local Government may, at the expense of the company, appoint a person to inquire and report to such Local Government as to the circumstances of the case, and may, before making the appointment, require the company to give security for the payment of the costs of the inquiry;

(4) the payment shall be made only for such period as may be determined by the Local Government; and such period shall in no case extend beyond the close of the half-year next after the half-year during which the works or buildings have been actually completed or the plant provided;

(5) the rate of interest shall in no case exceed four per cent. per annum or such lower rate as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, prescribe;

(6) the payment of the interest shall not operate as a reduction of the amount paid up on the shares in respect of which it is paid;

(7) the accounts of the company shall show the share capital on which, and the rate at which, interest has been paid out of capital during the period to which the accounts relate;

(8) nothing in this section shall affect any company to which the Indian Railway Companies Act, 1895,* or the Indian Tramways Act, 1902,† applies.

N. B.—The power, it will be observed, is carefully hedged now with conditions designed to prevent any abuse.—Palmer's Company Law, p. 22.

Certificates of Shares, etc.

Limitation of time for issue of certificates.

108. (1) Every company shall, within three months after the allotment of any of its shares, debentures or debenture stock, and within three months after the registration of the transfer of any such shares, debentures or debenture stock, complete and have ready for delivery the certificates of all shares, the debentures, and the certificates of all debenture stock allotted or transferred, unless the conditions of issue of the shares, debentures or debenture stock otherwise provide.

(2) If default is made in complying with the requirements of this section, the company, and every officer of the company who is knowingly a party to the default, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues.

Notes—"The certificates in companies of this kind, are the proper, and indeed the only documentary evidence of title in the possession of a share-holder" Per Lord Shelborne in Societe Generale de Paris v. Walker, 11 App. Cas. 20, 29 : see also 3 Q. Information as to Mortgages, Charges, etc.

Certain mortgages and charges to be void if not registered.

109. Every mortgage or charge created after the commencement of this Act by a company and being either—

(a) a mortgage or charge for the purpose of securing any issue of debentures ; or

(b) a mortgage or charge on uncalled share capital of the company ; or

(c) a mortgage or charge on any immovable property wherever situate, or any interest therein ; or

(d) a mortgage or charge on any book debts of the company ; or shall, so far as any security on the company's property or undertaking is thereby conferred, be void against the liquidator and any creditor of the company, unless the prescribed particulars of the mortgage or charge, together with the instrument (if any) by which the mortgage or charge is created or evidenced, or a copy thereof verified in the prescribed manner are filed with the registrar for registration in manner required by this Act within twenty-one days after the date of its creation, but without prejudice to any contract or obligation for repayment of the money thereby secured, and when a mortgage or charge becomes void under this section, the money secured thereby shall immediately become payable :

(e) a floating charge on the undertaking or property of the company ;

Provided that—together with the deed or a copy thereof verified in the prescribed manner containing the charge, or if there is no such deed, one of the debentures of the series, and the registrar shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, enter those particulars in the register :

Provided that, where more than one issue is made of debentures in the series, there shall be filed with the registrar for entry in the register particulars of the date and amount of each issue, but an omission to do this shall not affect the validity of the debentures issued.

Debentures.—"I cannot find" said Chitty J. in Levey v. Abercorris Co. (1888) 37 Ch. D. 264, "any precise legal definition of the term (i. e. debenture) It is not either in law or commerce a strictly technical term, or what is called a term of art. It is very wide term, but it is now generally used to signify a security for money called on the face of it a debenture, and providing for the payment of a specified sum—say £100—at a fixed date, with the interest meantime half-yearly. It usually gives a charge by way of security, and in most cases is expressed to be one of the series of like debentures. But the term as used in common parlance is of an extremely elastic character." Particulars in case of commission, etc., on debentures

111. Where any commission, allowance or discount has been paid or made either directly or indirectly by the company to any person in consideration of his subscribing or agreeing to subscribe, whether absolutely or conditionally, for any debentures of the company, or procuring or agreeing to procure subscriptions, whether absolute or conditional, for any such debentures, the particulars required to be filed for registration under sections 109 and 110 shall include particulars as to the amount or rate per cent. of the commission, discount or allowance so paid or made, but an omission to do this shall not affect the validity of the debentures issued :

Provided that the deposit of any debentures as security for any debt of the company shall not for the purposes of this provision be treated as the issue of the debentures at a discount.

Notes.—The legality of issuing a debenture at a discount is recognised by this section Buckley, p 249.

Register of mortgages and charges.

112. (1) The registrar shall keep, with respect to each company, a register in the prescribed form of all mortgages and charges created by the company after the commencement of this Act and requiring registration under section 109, and shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, enter in the register, with respect to every such mortgage or charge, the date of creation, the amount secured by it, short particulars of the property mortgaged or charged, and the names of the mortgagees or persons entitled to the charge.

(3) The register kept in pursuance of this section shall be open to inspection by any person on payment of the prescribed fee, not exceeding one rupee for each inspection.

Clause (3).—The right of inspection includes the right to take copies. (1897) 1 Ch. 130.

Certificate of registration.

114. The registrar shall give a certificate under his hand of the registration of any mortgage or charge registered in pursuance of section 109, stating the amount thereby secured, and the certificate shall be conclusive evidence that the requirements of sections 109 to 112 as to registration have been complied with.

Notes.—The certificate is conclusive evidence that the requirements of the section as to registration have been complied with. The mistake on the part of the registrar does not invalidate the certificate Yolland, Husson, Birkett and Co. Ltd (1908) 1 Ch. 152; see also Cunard Steamship Co. v. Hopwood, (1908) 2 Ch. 564; Harrogate Estates, Ltd, (1903) 1 Ch. 498; (1924) 1 K. B 431 at p. 444.

115. The company shall cause a copy of every certificate of registration, given under section 114, to be endorsed on every debenture or certificate of debenture stock which is issued by the company, and the payment of which is secured by the mortgage or charge so registered:

Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring a company to cause a certificate of registration of any mortgage or charge so given to be endorsed on any debenture or certificate of debenture stock which has been issued by the company before the mortgage or charge was created.

Duty of company and right of interested party as regards registration.

116. (1) It shall be the duty of the company to file with the registrar for registration the prescribed particulars of every mortgage or charge created by the company and of the ... , requiring any such mortgage or charge n... istration of ... any person interested therein.

Copy of instrument creating mortgage or charge to be kept at registered office.

117. Every company shall cause a copy of every instrument creating any mortgage or charge requiring registration under section 109, to be kept at the registered office of the company: Provided that, in the case of a series of uniform debentures, a copy of one such debenture shall be sufficient.

Registration of appointment of receiver.

118 (1) If any person obtains an order for the appointment of a receiver of the property of a company, or appoints such a receiver under any powers contained in any instrument, he shall, within fifteen days from the date of the order or of the appointment under the powers contained in the instrument, file notice of the fact with the registrar, and the registrar shall, on payment of the prescribed fee, enter the fact in the register of mortgages and charges.

(2) If any person makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues.

(2) Every receiver who makes default in complying with the provisions of this section shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Rectification of register of mortgages.

120. The Court, on being satisfied that the omission to register a mortgage or charge within the time required by section 109, or that the omission or mis-statement of any particular with respect to any such mortgage or charge, was accidental, or due to inadvertence or to some other sufficient cause, or is not of a nature to prejudice the position of creditors or shareholders of the company, or that on other grounds it is just and equitable to grant a relief, may, on the application of the company or any person interested, and on such terms and conditions as seem to the Court just and expedient, order that the time for registration be extended, or, as the case may be, that the omission or mis statement be rectified, and may make such order as to the costs of the application as it thinks fit.

(3) If any person knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the delivery of any debenture or certificate of debenture stock requiring registration with the registrar under the foregoing provisions of this Act without a copy of the certificate of registration being endorsed upon it, he shall, without prejudice to any other liability, be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees.

(1) Every limited company shall keep a register of mortgages and enter therein all mortgages and charges specifically affecting property of the company, giving in each case a short description of the property mortgaged or charged, the amount of the mortgage or charge and (except in the case of securities to bearer) the names of the mortgagees or persons entitled thereto.

(2) If any director, manager or other officer of the company knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the omission of any entry required to be made in pursuance of this section, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Notes.—Non-registration does not affect the validity of a charge. In cases of wilful omission, a penalty not exceeding five hundred rupees is to be imposed. Re General South America Co, 2 Ch. D. 337; Wright v. Harton, (1887) 12 App. Cas. 371; 43 M. 550 (P. C).

(2) If inspection of the said copies or register is refused, the company shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees and a further fine not exceeding twenty rupees for every day during which the refusal continues, and every officer of

Right to inspect the register of debenture-holders and to have copies of trust-deed.

125. (1) Every register of holders of debentures of a company shall, except when closed in accordance with the articles during such period or periods (not exceeding in the whole thirty days in any year) as may be specified in the articles, be open to the inspection of the registered holder of any such debentures, and of any holder of shares in the company, but subject to such reasonable restrictions as the company may in general meeting impose, so that at least two hours in each day are appointed for inspec-

(2) A copy of any trust-deed for securing any issue of debenture shall be forwarded to every holder of any such debentures at his request on payment in the case of a printed trust-deed of the sum of one rupee or such less sum as may be prescribed by the company, or, where the trust-deed has not been printed, on payment of six annas for every one hundred words or fractional part thereof required to be copied.

Debentures and Floating Charges.

126. A condition contained in any debentures or in any deed for securing any debentures, whether issued or executed before or after the passing of this Act, shall not be invalid by reason only that thereby the debentures are made irredeemable or redeemable only on the happening of a contingency, however remote, or on the expiration of a period however long.

Notes.—Where, however, the covenant for repayments provides that the principal money shall be repayable on the happening of events which may not happen for an indefinite period. [*Per Rigby, L. 127. (1) Where either before or after the commencement of this Act a company has redeemed any debentures previously issued, the company, unless the articles or the conditions of issue expressly otherwise provide, or unless the debentures have been redeemed in pursuance of any obligation on the company so to do (not being an obligation enforceable only by the person to whom the redeemed debentures were issued or his assigns), shall have power, and shall be deemed always to have had power, to keep the debentures alive for the purposes of re-issue, and where a company has purported to exercise such a power the company shall have power, and shall be deemed always to have had power, to re-issue the debentures either by re issuing the same debentures or by issuing other debentures in their place, and upon such re-issue the person entitled to the debentures shall have, and shall be deemed always to have had, the same rights and priorities as if the debentures had not previously been issued.

Power to re-issue redeemed debentures in certain cases.

(2) Where with the object of keeping debentures alive for the purpose of re-issue they have, either before or after the commencement of this Act, been transferred to a nominee of the company, a transfer from that nominee shall be deemed to be a re-issue for the purposes of this section.

(3) Where a company has, either before or after the commencement of this Act, deposited any of its debentures to secure advances from time to time on current account or otherwise, the debentures shall not be deemed to have been redeemed by reason only of the account of the company having ceased to be in debit whilst the debentures remained so deposited.

(4) The re-issue of a debenture or the issue of another debenture in its place under the power by this section given to, or deemed to have been possessed by, a company, whether the re-issue or issue was made before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be treated as the issue of a new debenture for the purposes of stamp duty, but it shall not be so treated for the purposes of any provision limiting the amount or number of debentures to be issued :

Provided that any person lending money on the security of a debenture re-issued under this section which appears to be duly stamped may give the debenture in evidence in any proceedings for enforcing his security without payment of the stamp duty or any penalty in respect thereof, unless he had notice or, but for his negligence, might have discovered, that the debenture was not duly stamped, but in any such case the company shall be liable to pay the proper stamp duty and penalty.

(5) Nothing in this section shall prejudice—

(a) the operation of any decree or order of a Court of competent jurisdiction pronounced or made before the twenty-fifth day of February, 1910, as between the parties to the proceedings in which the decree or order was made, and any appeal from any such decree or order shall be decided as if this Act had not been passed, or

(b) any power to issue debentures in the place of any debentures paid off or otherwise satisfied or extinguished, reserved to a company by its debentures or the securities for the same.

Notes.—With regard to debentures which a company has redeemed or brought on the market formerly the law was that such debentures were cancelled or spent by the fact that the money secured by them was paid off, and they could not be re-issued. The same rule was applicable where debentures were purchased and registered in the name of the company. George Routledge, (1904) 2 Ch. 474. This law was altered in England by section 15 of the Companies Act, 1907. That change has also been incorporated in section 104 of the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908 and in this section. Upon any such re-issue the person entitled to the debentures will have, and is deemed always to have the same rights and priorities as if the debentures had not been previously issued. The question whether re-issued debentures requires registration was raised in New London and Suburban Omnibus Co. (1908) 1 Ch 621, where Neville J, did not decide the question, but held in that particular case that debentures did not require registration Stiebel, p. 470.

Specific performance of contract to subscribe for debentures.

128. A contract with a company to take up and pay for any debentures of the company may be enforced by a decree for specific performance.

Notes.—The enactment of this section alters the law as laid down in South African Territories v Wallington, (1898) A. C. 309 ; see also (1915) 1 Ch 472 at p 476. Before the enactment of this section it was a mere agreement and could not be enforced specifically. Ibid.

Payments of certain debts out of assets subject to floating charge in priority to claims under the charge.

129. (1) Where either a receiver is appointed on behalf of the holders of any debentures of a company secured by a floating charge, or possession is taken by or on behalf of those debenture-holders of any property comprised in or subject to the charge, then, if the company is not at the time in course of being wound up, the debts which in every winding up are under the provisions of Part V relating to preferential payments to be paid in priority to all other debts, shall be paid forthwith out of any assets coming to the hands of the receiver or other person taking possession as aforesaid in priority to any claim for principal or interest in respect of the debentures.

(2) The periods of time mentioned in the said provisions of Part V shall be reckoned from the date of the appointment of the receiver or of possession being taken as aforesaid, as the case may be.

(3) Any payments made under this section shall be recouped, as far as may be, out of the assets of the company available for payment of general creditors.

Notes—Vide (1898) 2 Ch 378 at p. 381.

(4) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to the like penalty.

Any such neglect must be judged by reference to the facts of each particular case, and when the defence is that the date is disputed, all that the Court has first to see is whether that dispute is, on the face of it, genuine or merely a cloak of the company's real inability to pay just debts. 27 Ind. Notice of resolution to wind up voluntarily.

206. (1) Notice of any special resolution or extraordinary resolution for winding up a company voluntarily shall be given by the company within ten days of the passing of the same by advertisement in the local official gazette, and also in some newspaper (if any) circulating in the district where the registered office of the company is situate.

(2) If a company makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues; and every officer of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorises or permits the default shall be liable to a like penalty.

Notes.—Where a company has resolved by special or extraordinary resolution to wind up voluntarily, it must give notice of the resolution by advertisement in the Gazette.—Stiebel, p. 1272.

Consequences of voluntarily winding up.

207. The following consequences shall ensue on the voluntary winding up of a company:—

(i) the assets of the company shall be applied in satisfaction of its liabilities pari passu, and, subject thereto, shall, unless the articles otherwise provide, be distributed among the members according to their rights and interests in the company;

(ii) the company in general meeting shall appoint one or more liquidators for the purpose of winding up the affairs and distributing the assets of the company, and may fix the remuneration to be paid to him or them;

(iii) on the appointment of a liquidator all the powers of the directors shall cease, except so far as the company in general meeting, or the liquidator, sanctions the continuance thereof;

(iv) the liquidator may, without the sanction of the Court, exercise all powers by this Act given to the official liquidator in a winding up by the Court;

(v) the liquidator may exercise the powers of the Court under this Act of settling a list of contributories, and of making calls, and shall pay the debts of the company, and adjust the rights of the contributories among themselves;

(vi) the list of contributories shall be prima facie evidence of the liability of the persons named therein to be contributories;

(vii) when several liquidators are appointed, every power hereby given may be exercised by such one or more of them as may be determined by the company at the time of their appointment, or in default of such determination by any number not less than two;

(viii) if from any cause whatever there is no liquidator acting, the Court may, on the application of a contributory, appoint a liquidator; and

PART IX.

WINDING UP OF UNREGISTERED COMPANIES.

Meaning of "unregistered company."

270. For the purposes of this Part, the expression "unregistered company" shall not include a railway company incorporated by Act of Parliament or by an Act of the Governor General in Council, nor a company registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1866* or under any Act repealed thereby, or under the Indian Companies Act 1882, † or under this Act, but, save as aforesaid, shall include any partnership, association or company consisting of more than seven members.

Includes.—The companies at the date of petition should consist of more than seven members. Bolton Benefit Loan Society, (1879) 12 C. D. 679. In New York and Continental Line, (1909) 54 Sol J. 117 it was suggested by Eddy J. that under the English Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, it was not necessary for an unregistered company to have more than seven members in order to enable it to be wound up. It will be observed that this section merely "includes" the companies herein named under the expression "unregistered companies," Vide Stiebel, p. 782. In a proper case Court can order winding up of a partnership, association or company under this section, if and only if it consists of more than seven members on the date of the presentation of petition. A. I. R. 1931 Rang. 77.

Winding up of unregistered companies.

271. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Part, any unregistered company may be wound up under this Act, and all the provisions of this Act with respect to winding up shall apply to an unregistered company, with the following exceptions and additions :—

(i) an unregistered company shall, for the purpose of determining the Court having jurisdiction in the matter of the winding up, be deemed to be registered in the province where its principal place of business is situate or, if it has a principal place of business situate in more than one province, then in each province where it has a principal place of business ; and the principal place of business situate in that province in which proceedings are being instituted shall, for all the purposes of the winding up, be deemed to be the registered office of the company ;

(ii) no unregistered company shall be wound up under this Act voluntarily or subject to supervision ;

(iii) the circumstances in which an unregistered company may be wound up are as follows (that is to say) :—

(a) if the company is dissolved, or has ceased to carry on business or is carrying on business only for the purpose of winding up its affairs ;

(b) if the company is unable to pay its debts ;

(c) if the Court is of opinion that it is just and equitable that the company should be wound up ;

* Act X of 1866. † Act VI of 1882.

(iv) an unregistered company shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be unable to pay its debts—

(a) if a creditor, by assignment or otherwise, to whom the company is indebted in a sum exceeding five hundred rupees then due, has served on the company, by leaving at its principal place of business, or by delivering to the secretary, or some director, manager or principal officer of the company, or by otherwise serving in such manner as the Court may approve or direct, a demand under his hand requiring the company to pay the sum so due, and the company has for three weeks after the service of the demand neglected to pay the sum, or to secure or compound for it to the satisfaction of the creditor;

(b) if any suit or other legal proceeding has been insituated against any member for any debt or demand due or claimed to be due, from the company or from him in his character of member, and notice in writing of the institution of suit or other legal proceeding having been served on the company by leaving the same at its principal place of business or by delivering it to the secretary, or some director, manager or principal officer of the company or by otherwise serving the same in such manner as the Court may approve or direct, the company has not within ten days after service of the notice paid, secured or compounded for the debt or demand, or procured the suit or other legal proceeding to be stayed, or indemnified the defendant to his reasonable satisfaction against the suit or other legal proceeding, and against all costs, damages and expenses to be incurred by him by reason of the same;

(c) if execution or other process issued on a decree or order obtained in any Court in favour of a credior against the company, or any member thereof as such, or any person authorised to be sued as nominal defendant on behalf of the company, is returned unsatisfied; and

(d) if it is otherwise proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the company is unable to pay its debts.

(2) Nothing in this Part shall affect the operation of any enactment which provides for any partnership, association or company being wound up, or being wound up as a company or as an unregistered company, under any enactment repealed by this Act, except that references in any such first mentioned enactment to any such repealed enactment shall be read as references to the corresponding provision (if any) of this Act.

Notes—A foreign company consisting of more than seven members can be wound up under this section if it has office and assets here. Syrian Ottoman Rail Co, (1904) 20 T. L. R. 217; Matheson Bros. (1884) 27 C D. 225; Commercial Bank of India, (1868) 6 Eq 517, Jarvis Conklin Mortgage Co., (1895) 11 T. L. R. 373; 2 Mysore Law Journal, 165; 33 Ch. D 174; (1892) 2 Ch 204; 5 C 888. The Court has jurisdiction where such a company transacts business within its jurisdiction and has an office within its jurisdiction (1898) 6 Eq. 517. The fact that an order for the winding up of the company or for continuing its winding up subject to supervision has been made by a competent Court of the place of the company's incorporation does not make any difference to the jurisdiction of the Court here. Stiebel, p. 787 citing 27 Ch. D. 225; 33 Ch. D. 174; 62 L. J Ch. 561. An incohate foreign company or a partnership for promoting foreign company cannot be wound up. (1872) 26 L. T 229 Concerns of the same nature as companies exactly designated can be dealt with under this section. 127 Ind. Cas. 736=A. I R. 1930 Rang. 337.

Contributories in winding up of unregistered companies.

272. (1) In the event of an unregistered company being wound up, every person shall be deemed to be a contributory who is liable to pay or contribute to the payment of any debt or liability of the company, or to pay or contribute to the payment of any sum for the adjustment of the rights of the members among themselves, or to pay or contribute to the payment of the costs and expenses of winding up the company, and every contributory shall be liable to contribute to the assets of the company all sums due from him in respect of any such liability as aforesaid.

(2) In the event of any contributory dying or being adjudged insolvent, the provisions of this Act with respect to the legal representatives and heirs of deceased contributories, and to the assignees of insolvent contributories shall apply.

Notes.—Under this section every debtor to the company is not a contributory. A person who has taken shares through a trustee is liable equitably to the trustee, but he is not a contributory. British National Life Assurance, (1878) 8 Ch. D. 679. An officer of the company who has misappropriated the assets of the company and who is liable to refund the same is also not a contributory. Sarres Case, (1890) 45 C. D. 537; see also Exparte Littlebale (1874) 9 Ch. 257.

Power to stay or restrain proceedings.

273. The provisions of this Act with respect to staying and restraining suits and legal proceedings against a company at any time after the presentation of a petition for winding up and before the making of a winding up order shall, in the case of an unregistered company, where the application to stay or restrain is by a creditor, extend to suits and legal proceedings against any contributory of the company.

Notes.—In a compulsory winding up the onus lies upon the person who wishes to show that the action should be continued notwithstanding the winding up. Currie v. Consolidated Kent Collieries Corporation (1906) 1 K. B. 134, cited in Stiebel, p. 909.

Suits stayed on winding up order.

274. Where an order has been made for winding up an unregistered company, no suit or other legal proceedings shall be proceeded with or commenced against any contributory of the company in respect of any debt of the company, except by leave of the Court, and subject to such terms as the Court may impose.

Notes.—This section is applicable to action against a contributory as such and not to an action by a holder of promissory notes though they had been given as security for advances to the company. South of France Pottery Works Syndicate, (1877) 37 L. T. 260.

Directions as to property in certain cases.

275. If any unregistered company has no power to sue and be sued in a common name, or if for any reason it appears expedient, the Court may, by the winding up order, or by any subsequent order, direct that all or any part of the property, movable or immovable, including all interests and rights in, to and out of property, movable and immovab'e, and including obligations and actionable claims as may belong t its behalf, is to vest in the official liquidator by the property or the part thereof specified in and the official liquidator may, after giving such may direct, bring or defend in his official name any suit or other legal proceeding relating to that property, or necessary to be brought or defended for the purposes of effectually winding up the company and recovering its property.

Vesting in official liquidator.—All properties under this section vest in the official liquidator in his official character. Graham v Edge, (1888) 20 Q. B. D 683. Where there are several liquidators, all must join in giving effect to a valid conveyance. Ebsworth and Tiday's Contract, 42 Ch. D. 23.

Provisions of this Part cumulative.

276. The provisions of this Part with respect to unregistered companies shall be in addition to, and not in restriction of, any provisions hereinbefore in this Act contained with respect to winding up companies by the Court, and the Court or official liquidator may exercise any powers or do any then only to the extent provided by this Part.

5. No share shall be offered to the public for subscription except upon the terms that the amount payable on application shall be at least five per cent. of the nominal amount of the share; and the directors shall, as regards any allotment of shares, duly comply with such of the provisions of sections 101 and 104 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, as may be applicable thereto.

Notes—The allotment must be made by the directors for the best interest of the company. (1902) 2 Ch. 421 at p. 425 If the allotment is made at an under-value, the directors are liable to make good the loss sustained by the company. (1900) 2 Ch 305 In allotting shares the directors must exercise the powers with good faith. (1903) 2 Ch 506; (1920) 1 Ch. 77

6. Every person whose name is entered as a member in the register of members shall, without payment, be entitled to a certificate under the common seal of the company specifying the share or shares held by him and the amount paid up thereon: Provided that, in respect of a share or shares held jointly by several persons the company shall not be bound to issue more than one certificate, and delivery of a certificate for a share to one of several joint-holders shall be sufficient delivery to all.

7. If a share certificate is defaced, lost or destroyed, it may be renewed on payment of such fee, if any, not exceeding eight annas, and on such terms, if any, as to evidence and indemnity as the directors think fit.

8. No part of the funds of the company shall be employed in the purchase of, or in loans upon the security of, the company's shares.

Lien.

9. The company shall have a lien on every share (not being a fully-paid share) for all moneys (whether presently payable or not) called or payable at a fixed time in respect of that share, and the company shall also have a lien on all shares (other than fully-paid shares) standing registered in the name of a single person, for all moneys presently payable by him or his estate to the company; but the directors may at any time declare any share to be wholly or in part exempt from the provisions of this clause The company's lien, if any, on a share shall extend to all dividends payable thereon.

Notes.—This lien has priority over mortgagee of the shares. Borland's Trust v. Steel Brothers, (1901) 1 Ch. 279; see also New London and Brazilian Bank v. Brockbank, 21 Ch. D 302; Bradford v. Briggs, 12 A. C. 29 The transferee takes subject to a lien the company had against his transferor, Stiebel, p. 274.

10. The company may sell, in such manner as the director thinks fit, any shares on which the company has a lien, but no sale shall be made unless some sum in respect of which the lien exists is presently payable, nor until the expiration of fourteen days after a notice in writing, stating and demanding payment of such part of amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable, has been given to the registered holder for the time being of the share, or the person entitled by reason of his death or insolvency to the share.

11. The proceeds of the sale shall be applied in payment of such part of the amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable, and the residue shall (subject to a like lien for sums not presently payable as existed upon the shares prior to the sale) be paid to the person entitled to the shares at the date of the sale. The purchaser shall be registered as the holder of the shares, and he shall not be bound to see to the application of the purchase-money, nor shall his title to the shares be affected by any irregularity or invalidity in the proceedings in reference to the sale.

Calls on Shares.

12. The directors may from time to time, make calls upon the members in respect of any moneys unpaid on their shares, provided that no call shall exceed one-fourth of the nominal amount of the share, or be payable at less than one month from the last call, and each member shall (subject to receiving at least fourteen days' notice specifying the time or times of payments) pay to the company at the time or times so specified the amount called on his shares.

Notes.—The articles of association usually contain provisions for enabling calls to be made, and not infrequently provide that not more than a certain amount is to be called up at a time and that a specified period [illegible] article authorising calls to be made from time to ti[illegible] exceed a specified sum, will not prevent two calls, [illegible] [illegible]al Corporation v. Hughes, (1909) S. C. [illegible]t who does not know of his defective [illegible] v. African Co, (1898) 1 Ch. 6 : British [illegible]ock Proprietory v. Fuke, (1906) 1 Ch. [illegible] T. L. T. 283 ; Gordon Gallv, etc. v. Co, McLister, (1876) 1 A. C. 39.

13. The joint holders of a share shall be jointly and severally liable to pay all calls in respect thereof.

14. If a sum called in respect of a share is not paid before or on the day appointed for payment thereof, the person from whom the sum is due shall pay interest upon the sum at the rate of five per cent. per annum from the day appointed for the payment thereof to the time of the actual payment, but the directors shall be at liberty to waive payment of that interest wholly or in part.

Notes.—This provision does not apply to calls made in a winding up. Welsh Flannel and Tweed Co., (1875) 20 Eq. 360 , Exparte Lintoll, (1867) 4 Eq 184.

15. The provisions of these regulations as to payment of interest shall apply in the case of non-payment of any sum which, by the terms of issue of a share, becomes payable at a fixed time, whether on account of the amount of the share, or by way of premium, as if the same had become payable by virtue of a call duly made and notified.

16. The directors may make arrangements on the issue of shares for a difference between the holders in the amount of calls to be paid and in the times of payment.

17. The directors may, if they think fit, receive from any member willing to advance the same, all or any part of the moneys uncalled and unpaid upon any shares held by him ; and upon all or any of the moneys so advanced may (until the same would, but for such advance, become presently payable) pay interest at such rate (not exceeding, without the sanction of the company in general meeting, six per cent) as may be agreed upon between the member paying the sum in advance and the directors.

Notes.—The powers given under this article is perfectly valid. Lock v. Queensland Co, (1896) A. C 461 ; (1896) 1 Ch 397 ; Dale v. Martin, (1883) 11 L. R. Ir. 371. When such a payment has been made the relation of debtor and creditor, and not that of company and shareholder, exists qua such payment between the company and the member making the payment. Stiebel, p. 263 citing Lock v. Queensland Co, (1896) A. C. 461.

Transfer and transmission of shares.

18. The instrument of transfer of any share in the company shall be executed both by the transferor and transferee, and the transferor shall be deemed to remain holder of the share until the name of the transferee is entered in the register of members in respect thereof.

Notes.—Where the article is silent on the subject, the transfer is to be made in accordance with the custom of the company. Morino's Case, (1867) 2 Ch. 596.

19. Shares in the company shall be transferred in the following form, or in any usual or common form which the directors shall approve:

I, A B of , in consideration of the sum of rupees paid to me by C D of (hereinafter called "the said transferee"), do hereby transfer to the said transferee the share [or shares] numbered in the undertaking called the Company, Limited, to hold unto the said transferee, his executors, administrators and assigns, subject to the several conditions on which I held the same at the time of the execution thereof, and I, the said transferee, do hereby agree to take the said share [or shares] subject to the conditions aforesaid. In the case of a share registered in the names of two or more holders, the survivors or survivor, or the executors or administrators of the deceased survivor, shall be the only persons recognised by the company as having any title to the share.

Notes—Transfers of share or other interest of a deceased member of a company which are made by his personal representative will, although the personal representative is not himself a member, be valid as if he had been a member at the time of the execution of the transfer. Stiebel, p. 284.

23. A person becoming entitled to a share by reason of the death or insolvency of the holder shall be entitled to the same dividends and other advantages to which he would be entitled if he were the registered holder of the share, except that he shall not, before being registered as a member in respect of the share, be entitled in respect of it to exercise any right conferred by membership in relation to meetings of the company.

Forfeiture of shares

24. If a member fails to pay any call or instalment of a call on the day appointed for payment thereof, the directors may, at any time thereafter during such time as any part of such call or instalment remains unpaid, serve a notice on him requiring payment of so much of the call or instalment as is unpaid, together with any interest which may have accrued.

Such a right may be enforced in winding up. New Chile Gold Mining Co, (1890) 45 Ch D 398, cited in Stiebel, p. 276

30. The provisions of these regulations as to forfeiture shall apply in the case of non-payment of any sum which, by the terms of issue of a share, become payable at a fixed time, whether on account of the amount of the share, or by way of premium, as if the same had been payable by virtue of a call duly made and notified.

Conversion of shares into stock.

31. The directors may, with the sanction of the company previously given in general meeting, convert any paid-up shares into stock, and may with the like sanction re-convert any stock into paid up shares of any denomination.

32. The holders of stock may transfer the same, or any part thereof in the same manner, and subject to the same regulations, as, and subject to which, the shares from which the stock arose might previously to conversion have been transferred, or as near thereto as circumstances admit; but the directors may from time to time fix the minimum amount of stock transferable, and restrict or forbid the transfer of fractions of that minimum, but the minimum shall not exceed the nominal amount of the shares from which the stock arose.

33. The holders of stock shall, according to the amount of the stock held by them have the same rights, privileges and advantages as regards dividends, voting at meetings of the company, and other matters, as if they held the shares from which the stock arose, but no such privilege or advantage (except participation in the dividends and profits of the company) shall be conferred by any such aliquot part of stock as would not, if existing in shares, have conferred that privilege or advantage

34. Such of the regulations of the company (other than those relating to share warrants), as are applicable to paid-up shares shall apply to stock, and the words "share" and "shareholder" therein shall include "stock" and "stockholder."

Share-warrants.

35. The company may issue share-warrants, and accordingly the directors may in their discretion, with respect to any share which is fully paid up, on application in writing signed by the person registered as holder of the share, and authenticated by such evidence (if any) as the directors may from time to time require as to the identity of the person signing the request, and on receiving the certificate (if any) of the share, and the amount of the stamp duty on the warrant and such fee as the directors may from time to time require, issue under the company's seal a warrant, duly stamped, stating that the bearer of the warrant is entitled to the shares therein specified, and may provide by coupons or otherwise for the payment of dividends, or other moneys on the shares included in the warrant.

36. A share-warrant shall entitle the bearer to the shares included in it and the share shall be transferred by the delivery of the share-warrant, and the provisions of the regulations of the company with respect to transfer and transmission of shares shall not apply thereto.

37. The bearer of a share-warrant shall, on surrender of the warrant to the company for cancellation, and on payment of such sum as the directors may from time to time prescribe, be entitled to have his name entered as a member in the register of members in respect of the shares included in the warrant.

38. The bearer of a share-warrant may at any time deposit the warrant at the office of the company, and so long as the warrant remains so deposited, the depositor shall have the same right of signing a requisition for calling a meeting of the company, and of attending and voting and exercising the other privileges of a member at any meeting held after the expiration of two clear days from the time of deposit, as if his name were inserted in the register of members as the holder of the shares included in the deposited warrant. Not more than one person shall be recognised as depositor of the share-warrant. The company shall, on two days' written notice, return the deposited share-warrant to the depositor.

39. Subject as herein otherwise expressly provided, no person shall, as [illegible] the com- [illegible] meeting [illegible] but the [illegible] the same privileges and advantages as if he were named in the register of members as the holder of the shares included in the warrant, and he shall be a member of the company.

40. The directors may from time to time make rules as to the terms on which (if they shall think fit) a new share-warrant or coupon may be issued by way of renewal in case of defacement, loss or destruction.

Alteration of Capital.

41. The directors may, with the sanction of an extraordinary resolution of the company increase the share capital by such sum, to be divided into shares of such amount, as the resolution shall prescribe.

Notes—The exact increase proposed must be given in the notice. (1916) 2 Ch 57.

42. Subject to any direction to the contrary that may be given by the resolution sanctioning the increase of share capital, all new shares shall, before issue, be offered to such persons as at the date of the offer are entitled to receive notices from the company of general meetings in proportion, as nearly as the circumstances admit, to the amount of the existing shares to which they are entitled. The offer shall be made by notice specifying the number of shares offered, and limiting a time within which the offer, if not accepted, will be deemed to be declined, and after the expiration of that time, or on the receipt of an intimation from the person to whom the offer is made that he declines to accept the shares offered, the directors may dispose of the same in such manner as they think most beneficial to the company. The directors may likewise so dispose of any new shares which (by reason of the ratio which the new shares bear to shares held by persons entitled to an offer of new shares) cannot, in the opinion of the directors, be conveniently offered under this article.

43. The new shares, shall be subject to the same provisions with reference to the payment of calls, lien, transfer, transmission, forfeiture and otherwise as the shares in the original share capital.

44. The company may, by special resolution,—

General Meetings.

45. The statutory general meeting of the company shall be held within the period required by section 77 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913.

... l once in every year at such time (not ... e holding of the last preceding general ... by the company in general meeting, or, in default, at such time in the month following that in which the anniversary of the company's incorporation occurs, and at such place as the directors shall appoint. In default of a general meeting being so held, a general meeting shall be held in the month next following, and may be called by any two members in the same manner as nearly as possible as that in which meetings are to be called by the directors.

Notes.—The directors can call such a meeting. (1875) 10 Q. B. 329, at p. 339. A secretary has no power to call such a meeting. (1900) 2 Ch. 230; (1901) 2 Ch. 431. Only the directors of the company in general meeting can authorise the name of a company being used in any proceedings. La Compagniede Mayvile v. Whitley, (1896) 1 Ch. 788.

47. The above-mentioned general meetings shall be called ordinary. meetings; all other general meetings shall be called extraordinary.

48. , call an extraordinary general meeti . shall also be called on such requisition, or in default, may be called by such requisitionists, as provided by section 78 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913. If at any time there are not within British India sufficient directors capable of acting to form a quorum, any director or any two members of the company may call an extraordinary general meeting in the same manner as nearly as possible as that in which meetings may be called by the directors.

Proceedings at General Meeting.

49. Fourteen days' notice at the least (exclusive of the day on which the notice is served or deemed to be served, but inclusive of the day for which notice is given) specifying the place, the day and the hour of meeting and, in case of special business, the general nature of that business, shall be given in manner hereinafter mentioned, or in such other manner, if any, as may be prescribed by the company in general meeting, to such persons as are, under the regulations of the company, entitled to receive such notices from the company; but the non-receipt of the notice by any member shall not invalidate the proceedings at any general meeting.

Notes.—Notice cannot be given that a meeting will be held on certain contingencies happening Alexander v. Simpson, (1889) 43 Ch D 139; Espuela Land and Cattle Co, (1900) 48 W R 684 As to what will amount to a sufficient statement of the general nature of business, vide Betts v. Macnaughten, (1910) 1 Ch. 430.

50. All business shall be deemed special that is transacted at an extraordinary meeting, and all that is transacted at an ordinary meeting with the exception of sanctioning a dividend, the consideration of the accounts, balance-sheets and the ordinary report of the directors and auditors, the election of directors and other officers in the place of those retiring by rotation, and the fixing of the remuneration of the auditors.

51. No business shall be transacted at any general meeting unless a quorum of members is present at the time when the meeting proceeds to business; save as herein otherwise provided, three members personally present shall be a quorum.

Notes.—In the article it is generally provided that a certain number of members is to constitute a quorum. Cf. Hemans v. Hotchkiss Ordnance Co, (1899) 1 Ch. 115. If there is no provision the majority can bind the company. Rex v. Varlo, (1775) 1 Cowp. 248; Rex v Monday, (1877) 2 Cowp 530; Grindley v. Barker, (1798) 1 Bos & Pull 229. Even where the articles do not make any provivision for quorum, two members must be present to constitute a meeting. Sharp v. Dawes, 2 Q B D 26, Sanitary Carbon Co, (1877) W. N 223. In computing quorum the proxies are not counted. Cf. 23 W. R 405 (Eng) 1920 W. N. 274 (Eng.).

52. If within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting a quorum is not present, the meeting, if called upon the requisition of members, shall be dissolved; in any other case, it shall stand adjourned to the same day in the next week at the same time and place, and, if at the adjourned meeting a quorum is not present within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting, the members present shall be a quorum.

Notes.—At the adjourned meeting if a quorum is not present within half an hour, the members whose number must be two or more shall be a quorum. One member can not constitute a quorum. 2 Q. B. D. 26. In counting quorum members not entitled to vote are not counted. Henderson v. Lontit & Co., (1884) 21 Rettie, 674.

53. The chairman, if any, of the board of directors shall preside as chairman at every general meeting of the company.

preserve order, and to take care that and that the sense of the meeting question that is before the meeting. v. Sykes, (1894) 3 Ch. 159.

54. If there is no such chairman, or if at any meeting he is not present within fifteen minutes after the time appointed for holding the meeting, or is unwilling to act as chairman, the members present shall choose some one of their number to be chairman.

Notes—In such a case the elected chairman is not bound to vacate the chair even if the permanent chairman comes afterwards Blackwell, p. 18.

55. The chairman may, with the consent of any meeting at which a quorum is present (and shall if so directed by the meeting), adjourn the meeting from time to time and from place to place, but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned meeting other than the business left unfinished at the meeting from which the adjournment took place. When a meeting is adjourned for ten days or more, notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given as in the case of an original meeting. Save as aforesaid, it shall not be necessary to give any notice of an adjournment or of the business to be transacted at an adjourned meeting.

Notes—The chairman cannot adjourn the meeting at his own pleasure. If he

56. At any general meeting a resolution put to the vote of the meeting shall be decided on a show of hands, unless a poll is (before or on the declaration of the result of the show of hands) demanded by at least three members, and unless a poll is so demanded, a declaration by the chairman that a resolution has, on a show of hands, been carried, or carried unanimously, or by a particular majority, or lost, and an entry to that effect in the book of the proceedings of the company shall be conclusive evidence of the fact, without proof of the number or proportion of the votes recorded in favour of, or against, that resolution.

Notes—It is the chairman's business to ascertain the sense of the meeting. This is done in the first instance by a show of hands. Vide Hurbury Bridge Coal, Iron and Waggon Co., (1879) 11 Ch. D 109. Even on a special resolution proxies will not, unless they are held by a person not otherwise entitled to vote, be counted. Stiebel, p. 392 citing Ernest v. Loma Gold Mines, (1897) 1 Ch. 1; Caloric Engineer and Siren Fog Signals Co, (1875) 52 L. T. 846.

57. If a poll is duly demanded, it shall be taken in such manner as the chairman directs, and the result of the poll shall be deemed to be the resolution of the meeting at which the poll was demanded.

Notes.—Any voter can demand a poll. Campbell v. Mound, (1836) 5 A. & E. 15; Reg. v. Wimbledon Local Board (1882) hnal Green, (1875) 32 L. T. 588. 58. In the case of an equality of votes, whether on a show of hands or on a poll, the chairman of the meeting at which the show of hands takes place, or at which the poll is demanded, shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

Notes—Where there is no provision in the Articles of Association, the chairman is not entitled to a casting vote Nell v. Longbottom, (1894) 1 Q. B. 767. In the absence of any such provision in the Articles of Association any proposition would fall to the ground in the case of equality of votes. Cf Re Chapman, (1704) Holt 443 ; Rex v. Gineuer, (1796) 9 T R 732 ; Rev v. Tipperary (1903) 2 Ir. 108. A casting vote will be in addition to any vote which the chairman is entitled to as a member. Nall v Longbottom, (1894) 1 Q B 767.

59. A poll demanded on the election of a chairman or on a question of adjournment shall be taken forthwith. A poll demanded on any other question shall be taken at such time as the chairman of the meeting directs.

Notes.—The right time to demand a poll would seem to be immediately after the chairman's declaration on the show of hands Campbell v Mound, (1836) 5 A. &. E. 865 The chairman is to decide when and where the poll is to be held. Reg. v. D, Oyly, (1840) 12 A &. E. 139 ; Rex v. Chester, (1834) 1 A. & E. 342 ; Chillington Iron Co, (1885), 29 Ch D. 159.

Votes of Members.

60. On a show of hands every member present in person shall have one vote. On a poll every member shall have one vote for each share of which he is the holder.

Notes.—Each member present will have one vote Harbury Bridge Coal, Iron, and Waggon Co., (1879) 11 Ch. D. 109. A holder of a proxy, who is not a member can only vote, if he is entitled to vote as such, (1897) 1 Ch. 1 ; (1885) 52 L T 846. On a poll the number of votes each member has, and also proxies, will be counted. Not infrequently scrutineers are appointed, but the result of the poll should be declared by the chairman. Stiebel, p. 395 citing Indian Zoedone Co, (1884) 26 Ch. D. 70.

61. In the case of joint-holders, the vote of the senior who tenders a vote, whether in person or by proxy, shall be accepted to the exclusion of the votes of the other joint-holders ; and for this purpose seniority shall be determined by the order in which the names stand in the register of members.

62. A member of unsound mind, or in respect of whom an order has been made by any Court having jurisdiction in lunacy, may vote, whether on a show of hands or on a poll, by his commitee or other legal guardian, and any such commitee or guardian may, on a poll, vote by proxy.

63. No member shall be entitled to vote at any general meeting unless all calls or other sums presently payable by him in respect of shares in the company have been paid.

64. On a poll votes may be given either personally or by proxy : Provided that no company shall vote by proxy as long as a resolution of its directors in accordance with the provisions of section 80 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, is in force.

Notes—No member is entitled to vote by proxy unless the Articles of Association authorize him to do so. Harbur v Phillips, (1883) 23 Ch. D. 14.

65. The instrument appointing a proxy shall be in writing under the hand of the appointor or of his attorney duly authorised in writing, or, if the appointor is a corporation, either under the common seal, or under the hand of an officer or attorney so authorised. No person shall act as a proxy unless either he is entitled on his own behalf to be present and vote at the meeting at which he acts as proxy, or he has been appointed to act at that meeting as proxy for a corporation.

Notes.—Prima facie there is no right to vote by proxy, for the common law does not recognize any such mode of voting; but the Articles generally confer such a right, for it is extremely inconvenient that a member, specially when residing at a distance, should be obliged personally to attend every meeting Palmer's Company Law, p 172. Where the Articles make provision that the instrument should be signed in the presence of a witness, in such a case, signature in the presence of a witness is necessary. Harbem v. Phillips, 23 Ch. D. 32. A proxy can not attest his own appointment. Exparte Cullen, (1861) 2 Q. B. 151.

66. The instrument appointing a proxy and the power-of-attorney or other authority (if any), under which it is signed or a notarially certified copy of that power or authority, shall be deposited at the registered office of the company not less than seventy-two hours before the time for holding the meeting at which the person named in the instrument proposes to vote, and in default the instrument of proxy shall not be treated as valid.

Notes—The Articles very commonly require instruments of proxy to be deposited with the company a certain number of hours before the meeting. Palmer's Company Law, p 173 The presence of a member in a meeting after appointing a proxy does not cancel the proxy but if he votes at the meeting the proxy will be revoked Knight v Bulkby, 5 Jur N. S. 817.

67. An instrument appointing a proxy may be in the following form, or in any other form which the directors shall approve:

Company, Limited.

"I of in the district of , beingl a member of the Company, Limited, hereby appoint of as my proxy to vote for me and on my behalf at the [ordinary or extraordinary, as the case may be] genera meeting of the company to be held on the day of and at any adjournment thereof."

Signed this day of .

Notes—This article does not require a proxy to be attested. Under the Indian Stamp Act a proxy requires 2 annas stamp, vide Art. 52 of the Stamp Act. In England a proxy for a single meeting requires a penny stamp If for several meetings, it requires a 10s. stamp. Vide section 80 of the English Stamp Act, 1891. See also (1915) 32 T L. R. 183 A

70 The qualification of a director shall be the holding of at least one share in the company, and it shall be his duty to comply with the provisions of section 85 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913

Notes —The qualification is required in order to give a director a personal interest in the holding Archer's Case, (1892) 1 Ch. 322. 'The meaning of such a clause is, that the director is under an obligation to acquire the requisite qualification in same way or other, whether from the company, or by transfer from a friend, or by purchase in the market; but that he is to have a reasonable time—say a few weeks—within which to do so. Brown's Case, 9 Ch 102". Palmer's Company Law, p. 183. Joint holding gives the requisite qualification Glory Paper Mills (1894) 3 Ch. 473; Grundy v. Briggs, (1910) 1 Ch. 444. As to the effect of raising the share qualification on existing directors, vide (1902) 2 K. B 589.

Powers and duties of Directors.

71. The business of the company shall be managed by the directors, who may pay all expenses incurred in getting up and registering the company, and may exercise all such powers of the company as are not, by the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or any statutory modification thereof for the time being in force, or by these articles, required to be exercised by the company in general meeting, subject nevertheless to any regulation of these articles, to the provisions of the said Act, and to such regulations being not inconsistent with the aforesaid regulations or provisions, as may be prescribed by the company in general meeting, but no regulation made by the company in general meeting shall invalidate any prior act of the directors which would have been valid if that regulation had not been made.

Notes —The articles generally give to the directors a number of specific powers scattered up and down the various clauses, but, in addition to these specific powers, there is almost always inserted a general clause on the lines of this article, providing that the directors may exercise all the powers of the company not by the articles or by statute required to be exercised by the company in general meeting. Palmer's
. . . vesting of powers in the directors is valid
. . . e in considering whether any particular
. . . by such a clause on the directors, is to search the articles and the Acts to see whether there is any express provision requiring for that transaction the authority of the company in general meeting, and, if there is no such provision, the directors must be treated as competent to carry out the transaction. Ibid. p. 189; see also L. R. 6 Ch. 83; 20 Eq 339; (1891) 1 Ch. 173; 45 L. J. Ch. 437.

72. The directors may from time to time appoint one or more of their body to the office of managing director or manager for such term, and at such remuneration (whether by way of salary, or commision, or participation in profits, or partly in one way and partly in another) as they may think fit, and a director so appointed shall not, while holding that office, be subject to retirement by rotation, or taken into account in determining the rotation of retirement of directors, but his appointment shall be subject to determination ipso facto if he ceases from any cause to be a director, or if the company in general meeting resolve that his tenure of the office of managing director or manager be determined.

73. The amount for the time being remaining undischarged of moneys borrowed or raised by the directors for the purposes of the company (otherwise than by the issue of share capital) shall not at any time exceed the issued share capital of the company without the sanction of the company in general meeting.

Notes.—Under article 71, the directors have got the power of borrowing on behalf of the company. This article limits the borrowing powers to a sum not exceeding the paid up capital. But the company can increase the limit by ordinary resolution. (1877) 2 A C. 366 at p. 374. Where the directors borrow in excees of their powers, the acts may be ratified in a general meeting. Ibid.

74. The directors shall duly comply with the provisions of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or any statutory modification thereof for the time being in force, and in particular with the provisions in regard to the registration of the particulars of mortgages and charges affecting the property of the company or created by it, and to keeping a register of the directors, and to sending to the registrar an annual list of members, and a summary of particulars relating thereto and notice of any consolidation or increase of share capital, or conversion of shares into stock, and copies of special resolutions and a copy of the register of directors and notifications of any changes therein

75. The director shall cause minutes to be made in books provided for the purpose—

(a) of all appointments of officers made by the directors ;

(b) of the names of the directors present at each meeting of the directors and of any committee of the directors ;

(c) of all resolutions and proceedings at all meetings of the company, and, of the directors, and of committees of directors ; and every director present at any meeting of directors or committee of directors shall sign his name in a book to be kept for that purpose.

Disqualifications of Directors.

77. The office of directors shall be vacated if the director—

(a) ceases to be a director by virtue of section 85 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913 ; or

(b) holds, or any partner of his, or the firm of which he is a member, holds, any other office of profit under the company except that of managing director or manager ; or

(c) is adjudged insolvent ; or

(d) is found lunatic or becomes of unsound mind ; or (e) is concerned or participates in the profits of any contract with the company ; or

(f) is punished with imprisonment for a term exceeding six months :

Provided, however, that no director shall vacate his office by reason of his being a member of any company which has entered into contracts with, or done any work for, the company of which he is director, but a director shall not vote in respect of any such contract or work, and if he does so vote, his vote shall not be counted.

Notes.—On the happening of the event, a director vacates his office automatically. Bodaga Co Limited, (1904) 1 Ch. 276 Even apart from such a provision, it is well settled that the acceptance by a director of an incompatible office vacates his directorship. Palmer's Company Law, p. 182 citing Milner v. Thatcyer, 2 T. R. 81 ; Eales v Cumberlandhead Co., 6 H. & N. 481 ; Iron Ship Co, v. Blunt, L. R. 3 C. P. 484.

Clause (c).—Becomes insolvent after election. (1898) 1 Ch. 6 ; see also 10 H. L. Cas. 404 ; Sissons v. S. 54, S. J. 802.

Rotation of Directors.

78. At the first ordinary meeting of the company, the whole of the directors shall retire from office, and at the ordinary meeting in every subsequent year, one-third of the directors for the time being or, if their number is not three or a multiple of three, then the number nearest to one-third shall retire from office.

79. The directors to retire in every year shall be those who have been longest in office since their last election, but as between persons who became directors on the same day those to retire shall (unless they therwise agree among themselves) be determined by lot.

80. A retiring director shall be eligible for re-election.

81. The company at the general meeting at which a director retires in manner aforesaid may fill up the vacated office by electing a person thereto.

82. If at any meeting at which an election of directors ought to take place, the places of the vacating directors are not filled up, the meeting shall stand adjourned till the same day in the next week at the same time and place and, if at the adjourned meeting the places of the vacating directors are not filled up, the vacating directors or such of them as have not not had their places filled up shall be deemed to have been re-elected at the adjourned meeting.

83. The company may from time to time in general meeting increase or reduce the number of directors, and may also determine in what rotation the increased or reduced number is to go out of office.

84. Any casual vacancy occurring on the board of directors may be filled up by the directors, but the person so chosen shall be subject to retirement at the same time as if he had become a director on the day on which the director in whose place he is appointed was last elected a director.

Notes.—Such a power continues to be exercisable even after a general meeting of the company, if the vacancy still continues. Munster v. Cammell, (1882) 21 Ch. D. 183 ; Zennett Bros. v. Lewis, (1904) 20 T. L. R. 1.

85. The directors shall have power at any time, and from time to time, to appoint a person as an additional director who shall retire from office at the next following ordinary general meeting, but shall be eligible for election by the company at that meeting as an additional director.

86. The company may by extraordinary resolution remove any director before the expiration of his period of office, and may by an ordinary resolution appoint another person in his stead ; the person so appointed shall be subject to retirement at the same time as if he had become a director on the day on which the director in whose place he is appointed was last elected a director.

Notes.—Even in the absence of such an article from a company's Articles of Association, a director can be removed for misconduct. Boston Deep Sea Fishing Co. v Ansell, (1888) 39 Ch D. 339 ; Cf. Kayshe v. Alturas Gold Co, (1888) 36 W. R. 496. By this article a director can be removed by an extraordinary resolution. In such a case the delinquent director is not entitled to a hearing in his defence. Dean v. Bennett, (1876) 6 Ch. 489 ; Haymon v. Governors of Rugby School, (1874) 18 Eq. 28. He is also not entitled to any notice. African Association v. Allen, (1910) 1 K. B. 396.

Proceedings of Directors.

87. The directors may meet together for the despatch of business, adjourn and otherwise regulate their meetings, as they think fit. Questions arising at any meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes. In case of an equality of votes, the chairman shall have a second or casting vote. A director may, and the secretary on the requisition of a director shall, at any time, summon a meeting of directors.

Notes—Notice of the meeting must be given to all directors 42 Ch. D. 160. But such notice can be dispensed with where they are travelling abroad. 59 L. J. Ch. 591.The directors need not meet where they agree to a particular course. Exparte Kennedy (1890) 44 Ch. D. 472 ; Hollows v Fernie, (1867) 3 Eq 520.

Vote—Every director has got one vote. Vide 11 Ch. D. 190 Any question raised in a meeting is to be decided by a majority of votes Rex v Vaxlo, (1775) 1 Cowp. 248. Rex v Monday, (1877) 3 Cowp 530 ; Perry v. Shipway, (1859) 1 Giff. 1 ; Wilkinson v. Malin, (1832) 2 Tyr. 544.

Meeting.—The meeting of the directors should be duly convened. (1900) 2 Ch. 230 ; (1867) 2 Exch 158. Apart from any special powers the directors can only act as a board D' Arcy v. The Tamar, etc. Railway, (1867) L. R 2 Ex 158 ; Howard's Case, (1866) 1 Ch. 561 ; John Morby Building Co v. Carras, (1891) 2 Ch. 386. There need not be any fixed place of meeting All that is required is that they must meet in some place where all may be present and may have the opportunity of expressing their assent or dissent. D' Arcy v. The Tamar etc. (1867) L R. 2 Ex. 158.

Casting vote.—A chairman who is not duly appointed can not give a casting vote. (1920) 1 Ir. Rep 107

88. The quorum necessary for the transaction of the business of the directors may be fixed by the directors, and unless so fixed shall (when the number of directors exceeds three) be three.

Notes—In the absence of any provision for quorum in the Articles the majority of the whole number of directors can act. York Tramways v. Willows, (1882) 8 Q. B. D. 685. But it is doubtful whether any smaller number can act. Portuguese Consolidated Copper Co. Steele's Case (1889) 42 Ch. D. 160 In a meeting where the quorum is present, all the authorities, powers and discretions vested in the directors can be exercised. "A bare quorum is capable to act and bind the company at a meeting duly convened, with proper notice given to the other directors, at which therefore all the other directors may, if they please, be present." (1888) 38 Ch. D. 546 at p. 550. Even a quorum of one can be fixed (1916) 2 Ch 142. The directors who are not competent to vote are not counted. (1904) 1 Ch. 32 ; (1903) 19 T. L. R. 602.

89. The continuing directors may act notwithstanding any vacancy in their body, but, if and so long as their number is reduced below the number fixed by or pursuant to the regulations of the company as the necessary quorum of directors, the continuing directors may act for the purpose of increasing the number of directors to that number, or of summoning a general meeting of the company, but for no other purpose.

Notes.—Where the Articles provide that the directors are not to be less than a certain number, in such a case, if there are not the minimum number of directors, the directors cannot act. Kirk v. Bell, (1851) 16 Q. B. 290; Faure v. Phillipart, (1888) 58 L. T 325; British Empire Match Co, 59 L. T. 291. It ... s may act and the ... are more than the ... dinary business only. ... 901) 1 Ch. 115. An ... ere there never has ... 1911) 2 Ch. 430. But the better opinion seems to be that under such an Article continuing directors can act though there are too few of them to form a quorum (1900) 2 Ch. 272; (1901) 1 Ch. (115); 8 Q. B D. 685; 23 Ch. D. 413. Stiebel, p 361.

90. The directors may elect a chairman of their meetings and determine the period for which be is to hold office, but if no such chairman is elected, or if at any meeting the chairman is not present within five minutes after the time appointed for holding the same, the directors present may choose one of their number to be chairman of the meeting.

Chairman.—The duties of the chairman are to preserve order, and to take care that proceedings are conducted in a proper manner, and that the sense of the meeting is properly ascertained with regard to any question that is before the meeting. National Dwellings Society v. Sykes, (1894) 3 Ch. 159.

91. The directors may delegate any of their powers to committees consisting of such member or members of their body as they think fit; any committee so "formed"* shall, in the exercise of the powers so delegated, conform to any regulations that may be imposed on them by the directors.

Notes.—Such a committee may where that seems to be the intention of the Article consist of a single director. Taurine Co. (1883) 25 Ch D 118; (1916) 2 Ch 142. Even in such a case the directors have the right of supervision over the acts of the committee. Horn v Henry Foulder & Co, (1901) 99 L. T 5 524; see also Cartmel's Case, (1874) 9 Ch 691

92. A committee may elect a chairman of their meetings: if no such chairman is elected, or if at any meeting the chairman is not present within five minutes after the time appointed for holding the same, the members present may choose one of their number to be chairman of the meeting.

93. A committee may meet and adjourn as they think proper. Questions arising at any meeting shall be determined by a majority of votes of the members present, and in case of an equality of votes, the chairman shall have a second or casting vote.

94. All acts done by any meeting of the directors or of a committee of ... , shall, notwithstanding that ... defect in the appointment of ... that they or any of them were disqualified, be as valid as if every such person had been duly appointed and was qualified to be a director

Notes.—The defects must be discovered after the Act Murray v Bush, (1873) L. R. 6. H. L. 37; British Asbestos Co v Boyd (1903) 2 Ch. 439 The word "qualified" must not be read in the narrow sense of qualification as regards holding the qualification shares British Asbestos Co v Boyd, (1903) 2 Ch 430: but see 42 Ch. Dividends and Reserve.

95. The company in general meeting may declare dividends, but no dividends shall exceed the amount recommended by the directors.

Notes.—Dividends are genrally [illegible] 25 Ch. D. 752 Dividends can only be paid in ca[illegible] ; (1867) 3 Ch. App. 262. Where payment by part [illegible] olved from its liability by sending the dividend warrant by post. Thairwall v. Great Northern Railway, (1901) 2 K. B. 509.

96. The directors may from time to time pay to the members such interim dividends as appear to the directors to be justified by the profits of the company.

Notes.—The article authorises the directors to pay interim dividends only out of profits. Vide (1903) 20 T. L. R. 16 ; (1914) 1 Ch. 558 ; (1901) 85 L. T. 22.

97. No dividends shall be paid otherwise than out of profits.

Notes.—Dividends are only to be paid out of profits, and not out of capital. In re Oxford Benefit Building Society, 35 Ch. D 502; In re National Funds Insurance Co., 10 Ch. D. 126; Fletcroft's Case, 21 Ch. D. 519 ; Alexandra Palace Co, 21 Ch. D. 149 ; 36 Ch D. 807; (1892) 1 Ch. 154. Payment out of capital is ultra vires. Trevor v. Whitworth, 12 App. Cas. 409. If the directors pay dividends out of the capital they are jointly and severally responsible for payment. Fletcroft's Case 21 Ch. D 519 If the directors pay fictitious dividends may be made criminally liable. Burns v. Pennell, (1849) 2 H. L. C. 525 ; Regina v. Esdaile, (1858) 1 F & F. 213. So dividends can only be paid out of profits asce tained by a proper profit and loss account and balance-sheet, as commercial men generally ascertain profits, throughout the world Hotby's Case, 2 Eq. 175 ; 4 Ch. 475 ; (1894) 2 Ch. 264 ; (1892) 2 Ch. 198 ; 4 Ch. D. 825 ; 16 Ch D. 347 ; 35 Ch. D. 582.

98. Subject to the rights of persons (if any) entitled to shares with special rights as to dividends, all dividends shall be declared and paid according to the amounts paid on the shares, but if and so long as nothing is paid upon any of the shares in the company, dividends may be declared and paid according to the amounts of the shares. No amount paid on a share in advance of calls shall, while carrying interest, be treated for the purposes of this article as paid on the share.

Notes.—One of the most important points which the articles have to determine in reference to dividends is in what proportion the dividends are to be made payable as between the members. In the absence of any provision in the articles 'all the shares are entitled to participate equally in dividend, without regard to the amount paid up upon each." Oakbank Oil Co v Crum, 8 App. Cas. 65 ; see also Bridgewater Co, 14 App. Cas. 525. But this article gives a rateable dividend on the amounts paid on the shares

99. The directors may, before recommending any dividend, set aside out of the profits of the company such sums as they think proper as a reserve or reserves which shall, at the discretion of the directors, be applicable for meeting contingencies, or for equalizing dividends, or for any other purpose to which the profits of the company may be properly applied, and pending such application may, at the like discretion, either be employed in the business of the company or be invested in such investments (other than shares of the company) as the directors may from time to time think fit.

Notes.—Even where there is no provision in the article the directors can set apart a portion of the profit as reserve fund. They may invest such fund in any investments which they consider desirable. Berland v. Earle, (1902) A C. 13 ; Fisher v. Black and White Co. (1901) 1 Ch. 174. It is generally available for distribution of profits in succeeding years. Hoare & Co., (1904) 2 Ch. 208 . Bouch v. Sproule, (1887) 12 A. C. 385 ; Re Alsbuy, (1890) 45 Ch. D. 237.

100. If several persons are registered as joint-holders of any share, any one of them may give effectual receipts for any dividend payable on the share.

Notes.—As between tenant for life and remainder man, the tenant for life is entitled to all profits distributed unless the company has validly capitalized them by resolution or otherwise. Stiebel, p. 300 citing Bouch v. Sproule, (1887) 12 A. C. 385 ; Re Piercy, (1907) 2 Ch. 389 ; Re Northage (1891) 60 L. J. Ch. 488 ; Hume Nisbit's Settlement, (1911) 27 T. L. R. 461 ; Re Palmer (1912) 56 Sol. J. 363.

101. Notice of any dividend that may have been declared shall be given in manner hereinafter mentioned to the person entitled to share therein.

Notes—Where a dividend is declared between the date of a contract for sale of shares and the transfer, it will be payable to the transferee if the contract be silent on the point. Stiebel, p. 304 citing Black v. Homersham, (1879) 4 Ex. D. 24.

102. No dividend shall bear interest against the company.

Cf. Rishton v Grissel (1870) 10 Eq. 393.

Accounts.

103. The directors shall cause true accounts to be kept—

(a) of the sums of money received and expended by the company, and the matter in respect of which such receipt and expenditure takes place ; and (b) of the assets and liabilities of the company.

Notes—Directors are agents and in some sense trustees for the company. This 104 The books of account shall be kept at the registered office of the company, or at such other place or places as the directors think fit, and shall always be open to the inspection of the directors.

Notes—A director by virtue of his office has the right to inspect the accounts of the company. (1890) W. N. (Eng.) 209. This right of inspection ceases on voluntary winding up. Yorkshire & Co, 9 Eq 650 ; Kent Coalfields Syndicate, (1898) 1 Q B 754.

105. The directors shall from time to time determine whether and to what extent and at what times and places and under what conditions or regulations the accounts and books of the company or any of them shall be open to the inspection of members not being directors, and no member (not being a director) shall have any right of inspecting any account or book or document of the company except as conferred by law or authorised by the directors or by the company in general meeting.

Notes—The right of inspection of accounts and books of the company is not a statutory right. This article does not prevent a shareholder to inspect the register of members, or the register of mortgages, for a member has statutory right to inspect them Palmer's Company Law, p. 222.

106. Once at least in every year the directors shall lay before the company in general meeting a profit and loss account for the period since the preceding account or (in the case of the first account) since the incorporation of the company, made up to a date not more than six months before such meeting.

107. The profit and venient heads, the amount which it has been derived the expenses of the establishment, salaries and other like matters. Every item of expenditure fairly chargeable against the year's income shall be brought into account, so that a just balance of profit and loss may be laid before the meeting, and, in cases where any item of expenditure which may in fairness be distributed over several years has been incurred in any one year, the whole amount of such item shall be stated, with the addition of the reasons why only a portion of such expenditure is charged against the income of the year.

108. A balance-sheet shall be made out in every year and laid before the company in general meeting made up to a date not more than six months before such meeting. The balance-sheet shall be accompanied by a report of the directors as to the state of the company's affairs, and the amount which they recommend to be paid by way of dividend, and the amount (if any) which they propose to carry to a reserve fund.

109. A copy of the balance-sheet and report shall, seven days previously to the meeting, be sent to the persons entitled to receive notices of general meetings in the manner in which notices are to be given hereunder.

110. The directors shall in all respects comply with the provisions of sections 130 to 135 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or any statutory modification thereof for the time being in force.

Audit.

111. Auditors shall be appointed and their duties regulated in accordance with sections 144 and 145 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, or any statutory modification thereof for the time being in force

Notices.

112. (1) A notice may be given by the company to any member either personally or by sending it by post to him to his registered address or (if he has no registered address in British India) to the address, if any, within British India supplied by him to the company for the giving of notices to him.

(2) Where a notice is sent by post, service of the notice shall be deemed to be effected by properly addressing, prepaying and posting a letter containing the notice and, unless the contrary is proved, to have been effected at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post.

Notes.—The notice must be given to every member within reach. Smith v. Darley, (1849) 2 A. L. C. 789 Where a member's whereabout is not known, notice may not be given Halifax Sugar Co v. Franklyn (1800) 59 L. J Ch. 591; Portuguese Consolidated Copper Mines (1886) 42 Ch D 160; Union Hill Silver, Co. (1870) 22 L. T. 400. In the absence of any special provision non-service of notice on a single member will invalidate a meeting British Sugar Refining Co, (1857) 3 K. & J. 408. Notice is to be given only to members on the register Sussex, Brick Co, (1904) 1 Ch. 598.

113 If a member has no registered address in British India, and has not supplied to the company an address within British India for the giving of notices to him, a notice addressed to him and advertised in a newspaper circulating in the neighbourhood of the registered office of the company shall be deemed to be duly given to him on the day on which the advertisement appears.

Notes.—Where notice is by advertisement, this would appear apart from special provision to be the rule Mercantile Investment and General Trust Co v. International Co, of Mexico, (1893) 2 Ch. 484 N—Stiebel, p 388. No notice need be given to shareholders who live abroad. 22 L. T. 400

114. A notice may be given by the company to the joint-holders of a share by giving the notice to the joint-holder named first in the register in respect of the share.

Notes.—In the absence of such a provision in the articles, such a notice is not sufficient. Cf. Patentwood Keg Syndicate v Pearse, (1906) W N. 164.

115. A notice may be given by the company to the persons entitled to a share in consequence of the death or insolvency of a member by sending it through the post in a prepaid letter addressed to them by name, or by the title of repre-
[illegible] description,
[illegible] y the persons

giving the notice in any manner in which the same might have been given if the death or insolvency had not occurred.

Notes.—These persons are not entitled to any notice in the absence of such an article. (1909) 1 Ch. 656; (1896) 1 Ch. 456; (1894) 1 Q. B. 622.

in consequence of the death or insolvency of a member, who but for his death or insolvency, would be entitled to receive, notice of the meeting. No other persons shall be entitled to receive notices of general meetings.

THE CONTEMPT OF COURTS ACT, 1926.

ACT NO XII OF 1926.

RECEIVED THE ASSENT OF THE G. G. ON THE 8TH MARCH 1926.

An Act to define and limit the powers of certain Courts in punishing contempts of Courts.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the powers of a High Court of Judicature to punish contempts of subordinate Courts;

And whereas it is expedient to resolve these doubts and to define and limit the powers exercisable by High Courts and Chief Courts in punishing contempts of Court; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Notes.—"The several High Courts of Judicature established by Letters Patent are superior Courts of record, and as such they have power to attach and commit for acts amounting to contempt of their own proceedings as contempt of Court, and without reference to whether the acts alleged constitute an offence under the Indian Penal Code Different views have, howevever, been held by the various High Courts for such contempts committed in regard to pro-
-rdinate to them The Madras High Court in the L. J. 832 and the Bombay High Court in the case
-irni, 24 B L R. 16, have held that they possess
-dinate Courts against such contempts The Calcutta High Court on the other hand, in the matter of Amrita Bazar Patrika, 17 C. W. N. 1285 and the Legal Remembrancer v. Moti Lal Ghose, 4 Cal. 173 has taken a contrary view. In cases in which it is held that the power to attach and commit exists, the powers of the Courts are as unrestricted as are the powers of superior Courts of record in England. It has not been decided whether the Court of Judicial Commissioners of the Central Provinces, Oudh and Sindh have these general powers either in regard to contempt of their own proceedings or of the superior Courts of record to attach and commit for contempt of Court; contempts of Courts are also indictable misdemeanours at common law. In India, on the other hand, though the Indian

"Rex v. Davis, L. R. (1906) 1 K. B. 32 came before the old King's Bench Division on a rule for a writ of attachment for contempt of Court This contempt consisted of the publication of articles in a newspaper calculated to give an exceedingly unfavourable impression of a prisoner, who had been arrested and brought before the Magistrate. The publication was made while the case was still before the Magistrate and prior to committal It was held that the High Court had power to attach, first because these might come to the assizes for trial, and secondly, because, even if the committal had actually been made to the quarter session, still the King's Bench Division as the inheritor of all the jurisdictions and powers of the Court of the King's Benches possessed the summary power of punishment. It was on the second of these two grounds that the Advocate General relied in his opening.

Ordinarily misdemeanour was punishable by indictment or information, but when it was a contempt of Court it was also punishable brevi menu by attachment. When this summary proceeding was first used is in some doubt, but the opinion has been expressed that the earliest instance of its use where the contempt was an attack on a Judge, not in the face of the Court, was in 1720

"The fact that there was one alternative mode of bringing the offender before the Court where the misdemeanour was a contempt of Court was merely a difference of procedure; the subject matter was the same, that is to say, the prosecution of an offence in the Court of King's Bench.

Interpretation-clause

2. In this Act the following words and expressions are used in the following senses, unless a contrary intention appears from the context :—

(a)—When one person signifies to another his willingness to do or to abstain from doing anything, with a view to obtaining the assent of that other to such act or abstinence, he is said to make a proposal :

(b)—When the person to whom the proposal is made signifies his assent thereto, the proposal is said to be accepted. A proposal, when accepted, becomes a promise :

(c)—The person making the proposal is called the "promisor," and the person accepting the proposal is called the "promisee" :

(d)—When, at the desire of the promisor, the promisee or any other person has done or abstained from doing, or does or abstains from doing, or promises to do or to abstain from doing, something, such act or abstinence or promise is called a consideration for the promise ;

(e)—Every promise and every set of promises, forming the consideration for each other is an agreement

(f)—Promises which form the consideration or part of the consideration for each other are called reciprocal promises .

(g)—An agreement not enforceable by law is said to be void :

(h)—An agreement enforceable by law is a contract :

(i)—An agreement which is enforceable by law at the option of one or more of the parties thereto, but not at the option of the other or others, is a voidable contract.

(j)—A contract which ceases to be enforceable by law becomes void when it ceases to be enforceable.

Clause (a)—An invitation for offers does not amount to a proposal Thanawala v. Shahzada, 1 Ind. Cas 325=12 O C 17 ; 65 Ind. Cas. 282 ; 8 Ind. Cas. 601. Sub-section (c)—By this sub-section, the word "promisee" means "the person accepting the proposal" only, unless a contrary intention appears from the context. 4 M. L. T. 335.

Sub-section (d).—Consideration is an act or forbearance, or the promise thereof, which is offered by one party to an agreement, and accepted by the other, as an inducement to the other's act or promise. Pollock's Contract p. 10. In Currie v. Misa, (1875) L. R. 10 Ex. at p. 162, the following definition of consideration was given: "A valuable consideration, in the sense of the law, may consist either in some right, interest, profit or benefit accruing to the one party, or some forbearance detriment, loss or responsibility, given, or suffered or undertaken by the other." In this sub section, consideration means an act, abstinence or promise made by the promisor or some other person at the desire of the promisor. Where the promisee did not do anything at the request of the maker of the hand-note, the promissory note is not supported by consideration so far as the maker is concerned 5 Ind. Cas. 757=20 M L. J 144. Services previously rendered at the desire of a promisor are by this sub-section placed on the same footing with services to be rendered in the future, and constitute a good consideration for a definite agreement. 20 B. 755. CHAPTER I.

Of the Communication, Acceptance and Revocation of Proposals.

Communication, acceptance and revocation of proposals.

3. The communication of proposals, the acceptance of proposals, and the revocation of proposals and acceptances, respectively, are deemed to be made by any act or omission of the party proposing, accepting or revoking by which he intends to communicate such proposal, acceptance or revocation, or which has the effect of communicating it.

Notes—An offer or its acceptance or both may be made either by words or conduct Anson, p 28. A common illustration is afforded by the sending of goods, and their use or consumption by the person to whom they are sent. The sending is the offer, the use or consumption is the acceptance, importing a promise to pay the price. Ibid citing Hart v Mills, 15 M. & W. 87 ; see also Paynter v. Williams, 1 C & M. 810 The communication takes place when it is brought to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made. Taylor v. Laird, (1856) 25 L. J Ex. 329 ; Richardson v. Rowntree, (1894) A. C. 217. An offer must be made with the intention of creating legal relations, 23 B 420 So a mere invitation to a dinner is no offer. Ibid, "Where a relation exists between two parties which involves the performance of certain duties by one of them, and the payment of reward to him by the other, the law will imply or the jury may infer a promise by each party to do what is to be done by him." Morgan v. Ravey, 30 L. J. Ex 131. Commission agent sending out his terms or quotations to the people ; no contract arises on such letter. 137 Ind. Cas. 381=34 Bom. L. R. 236=56 B. 324=A. I. R. 1932 Bom. 291

Communication, when complete.

4. The communication of a proposal is complete when it comes to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made.

The communication of an acceptance is complete, as against the proposer, when it is put in a course of transmission to him, so as to be out of the power of the acceptor , as against the acceptor, when it comes to the knowledge of the proposer.

The communication of a revocation is complete, as against the person who makes it, when it is put into a course of transmission to the person to whom it is made, so as to be out of the power of the person who makes it ;

as against the person to whom it is made, when it comes to his knowledge.

Illustrations.

(a) A proposes, by letter, to sell a house to B at a certain price.

The communication of the proposal is complete when B receives the letter.

(b) B accepts A's proposal by a letter sent by post.

The communication of the acceptance is complete, [illegible] ...en the telegram is despatched. It is complete as against B when B receives it.

B revokes his acceptance by telegram. B's revocation is complete as against B when the telegram is despatched, and as against A when it reaches him

Notes—Under this section, the communication of acceptance is complete as against the proposer, only when it is put in a course of transmission to him ; and communication to a proposer contained in a letter not proved to have been correctly addressed to him, could not although posted be said to have been "put in a course of transmission" to him within the meaning of this section 9 A 369=A W. N. (1887) 34. An acceptance is made in the place where the letter accepting the offer is finally posted 6 A L. J 63=1 Ind. Cas 77 ; see also 76 P. R. 1896 , 145 Ind. Cas. 998=1933 M W. Where a document contains a request to borrow a certain sum of money on certain conditions, it is not an unconditional undertaking to pay, but constitutes only a proposal under this section, 13 B. 669 Offer by letter is complete when letter is delivered at addressee's residence A. R. 1923 Lah. 427.

Revocation of proposals and acceptances.

5. A proposal may be revoked at any time before the communication of its acceptance is complete as against the proposer, but not afterwards.

An acceptance may be revoked at any time before the communication of the acceptance is complete as against the acceptor, but not afterwards.

Illustrations.

A proposes, by a letter sent by post, to sell his house to B.

B accepts the proposal by a letter sent by post.

A may revoke his proposal at any time before or at the moment when B posts his letter of acceptance, but not afterwards.

B may revoke his acceptance at any time before or at the moment when the letter communicating it reaches A, but no afterwards

Notes—In the absence of consideration for a promise to keep an offer open for a time, the promise is a nudum pactum and may be revoked at any time before acceptance thereof. 2 M. L. J. 57 The contract is made at the place where the letter of acceptance is fir can be revoked by a telegrom if it reaches ptance. On his section Mr. Anson says : "What ace is lost ? Is the proposer to be for ever bound though the acceptor is free ?"

Revocation how made.

6. A proposal is revoked—

(1) by the communication of notice of revocation by the proposer to the other party ;

(2) by the lapse of the time prescribed in such proposal for its acceptance, or, if no time is so prescribed, by the lapse of a reasonable time, without communication of the acceptance ;

(3) by the failure of the acceptor to fulfil a condition precedent to acceptance ; or

(4) by the death or insanity of the proposer, if the fact of his death or insanity comes to the knowledge of the acceptor before acceptance.

Notes—"Acceptance is to offer what a lighted match is to a train of gunpowder. It produces some thing which can not be recalled or undone But the powder may have lain till it has become damp, or the man who laid the train may remove it before the match is applied. So an offer may lapse for want of acceptance or be revoked before acceptance." Anson's Contract, p. 35

Clause (1)—An offer to guarantee moneys to be advanced to a third party on discount, to a certain extent "for the space of twelve calendar months," is countermandable within that time. Offord v. Davies, 12 C. B. N. S. 748=31 L. J. C. P. 319. Where the defendant offered to purchase a house from the plaintiff, and to give him six weeks for a definite answer : Held that before the offer was accepted, the defendant might retract it at any time during the six weeks. Routledge v. Grant, 4 Bing. 653. Such revocation is invalid after acceptance. G. N Ry. v. Witham, 43 L J. C. P. 11 ; Gretton v. Mess 7 Ch D. 839. Revocation must reach the party before acceptance. Steimson v. Mc. Lean, 49 L. J. Q B. 701 = 5 Q B. D 346.

Clause (2).—Where a party fixes a time within which an offer is to remain open the offer would lapse after that time. Dickinson v Dodds, 2 Ch. D 463. An instance of an offer lapsing by the efflux of a reasonable time is supplied by the case of the Ramsgate Hotel Co. v. Mantefiore, L R. 1 Exch. 109

Clause (3).—"It is an undeniable principle of the law of contract that an offer of a bargain by one person to another imposes no obligation upon the former, until, it is accepted by the latter according to the terms in which the offer was made Any qualification of or departure from these terms invalidates the offer unless the same be agreed to by the person who made it" Eliason v Henshaw, 4 Wheaton, 225.

Clause (4)—The death of either party before acceptance causes an offer to lapse An acceptance communicated to the representatives of the offeror can not bind them. Anson's Contract, p. 35.

Acceptance must be absolute.

7. In order to convert a proposal into a promise, the acceptance must—

(1) be absolute and unqualified ;

(2) be expressed in some usual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribes the manner in which it is to be accepted. If the proposal prescribes a manner in which it is to be accepted, and the acceptance is not made in such manner, the proposer may, within a reasonable time after the acceptance is communicated to him, insist that his proposal shall be accepted in the prescribed manner, and not otherwise , but if he fails to do so, he accepts the acceptance.

If there is a variation in the acceptance, the acceptance is not an acceptance but a counter proposal, and there is no contract until this counter proposal is, in its turn, accepted by the original proposer. 2 S L R 7. This section lays down that in order to convert a proposal into a promise the acceptance must be absolute and un- [illegible] unless it is agreed to by the person from whom the offer comes In other words an acceptance with variation is no acceptance : it is simply a counter proposal which must be accepted by the original promisor before the contract is made A person making a proposal can not impose on the party to whom it is addressed, the obligation to refuse it under the penalty of imputed assent or attach to his silence the legal result that he must be deemed to have accepted it 24 B 510 = 2 Bom L R. 691 ; see also 54 Ind. Acceptance by performing conditions, or receiving consideration.

8. Performance of the conditions of a proposal, or the acceptance of any consideration for a reciprocal promise which may be offered with a proposal, is an acceptance of the proposal.

Notes—Acceptance of a proposal may be made without communication by the conduct of the acceptor. 42 A. 187 = 18 A. L J 73 = 54 Ind Cas. 437 ; 113 Ind. Cas. 780 ; 29 C. L. J. 279 (P. C.). A suit for recovery of a reward offered by public advertisement can be founded only on a contract. In order to constitute a contract there must be an acceptance of the offer, and there can be no acceptance unless there is a knowledge of the offer The performance of the act, however, raises an inference, of acceptance, and a claim for the reward arises on the basis of the reward. Lalman v. Guari, 11 A. L J. 489 = 19 Ind. Cas. 576.

9. In so far as the proposal or acceptance of any promise is made in words, the promise is said to be express. In so far as such proposal or acceptance is made otherwise than in words, the promise is said to be implied.

Promises, express and implied.

OF CONTRACTS, VOIDABLE CONTRACTS AND VOID AGREEMENTS.

10. All agreements are contracts if they are made by the free consent of parties competent to contract, for a lawful consideration and with a lawful object, and are not hereby expressly declared to be void.

What agreements are contracts

Nothing herein contained shall affect any law in force in British India, and not hereby expressly repealed, by which any contract is required to be made in writing or in the presence of witnesses, or any law relating to the registration of documents.

Notes.—The Indian Contract Act so far as it goes, is exhaustive and imperative. This section makes it essential that all contracting parties should be "competent to contract", and expressly provides that a person who, by reason of infancy, is incompetent to contract, can not make a contract within the meaning of the Act. A contract, therefore, entered into with an infant is not voidable but void. 30 C. 539 P. C. = 30 I. A. 114 = 7 C. W. N 441 = 5 Bom. L. R. 421 ; 26 A. 342 ; 130 Ind. Cas. 598 = 33 Bom. L. R. 111 ; A. What is a sound mind for the purposes of contracting.

12. A person is said to be of sound mind for the purpose of making a contract if, at the time when he makes it, he is capable of understanding it and of forming a rational judgment as to its effect upon his interest.

A person who is usually of unsound mind, but occasionally of sound mind, may make a contract when he is of sound mind.

A person who is usually of sound mind, but occasionally of unsound mind, may not make a contract when he is of unsound mind.

(b) A sane man, who is delirious from fever or who is so drunk that he cannot understand the terms of a contract or form a rational judgment as to its effect on his interests, cannot contract whilst such delirium or drunkenness lasts.

A accepts the loan on these terms. This is a transaction in the ordinary course of business, and the contract is not induced by undue influence.

Notes—In order to reap the benefit of this section it is necessary for the defence to establish that the executants of a deed were induced to sign it because the plaintiff was in a position to dominate his will and used that position to obtain unfair advantage 90 P. L. R 1901=36 P. R. 1901. In the absence of any plea or evidence that the defendant was in the clutches of an extortionate money-lender, the mere fact that the rate of interest agreed to by him was high was insufficient to raise a presumption of undue influence such as is contemplated in this section. 96 P. Urgent need of money on the part of the borrower does not itself place the lender in a position to dominate his will within the meaning of this section. 17 C. L J. 212. To bring a case within the first clause of this section, it is necessary for the defence to show that an unfair advantage has been obtained over him ; while to bring the case within sub-section 3 he must prove that the transaction is unconscionable ; unless these elements are proved, the mere fact that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other, does not entitle the latter to free himself from his obligation under the contract Ibid. By the amendment of section 16 of the Contract Act, the Legislature intended to embody in that section the rules enforced in this respect by the English Courts of Equity, and among them the rule that a transaction may be so unconscionable and the extortion so great as to be evidence of undue influence. The substituted definition of undue influence includes within its scope cases which did not fall within the section as it originally stood. 36 M. 533 , see also 20 Ind. The principles followed by Courts of Equity in dealing with transaction resulting through fiduciary relationship, fraud, etc. are equally applicable in India. Where a third party stands in no confidential relation to the promisor or grantor, the onus does not in the first instance be on the former to show that no undue influence was used. It is only when he is found or could be be assumed to have bad notice of the exercise of undue influence by another, or atleast of the circumstances raising a presumption or probability of undue influence, that the onus will be shifted on to him A. Undue influence is not established by proof of relations of the parties having been such that the one naturally relied upon the other for advice and that the other was in a position to dominate the will of the first in giving it. To render influence "undue" it must be established that the person in a position of domination has used that position to obtain unfair advantage for himself and so as to cause injury to the person relying upon his authority or aid. It is only when the bargain is with the influencer or brought about by him and is in itself unconscionable that the burden is thrown upon the influencer to establish affirmatively that the other party was scrupulously kept separately advised in the independence of a free agent, 43 M. 546=55 Ind. Sub-section (3)—By this sub-section three matters are dealt with. In the first place the relations between the parties must be such that one is in a position to dominate the will of the other. Once that position is substantiated the second stage has been reached, viz, the issue whether the contract has been induced by undue influence. Upon the determination of this issue a third point emerges, which is that of the onus probandi the burden of proving that the contract was not induced by undue influence is upon the person who is in a position to dominate the will of the other. 28 C W. N. 834=51 I. A. 1011.

"Fraud" defined.

17. "Fraud" means and includes any of the following acts committed by a party to a contract, or with his connivance, or by his agent, with intent to deceive another party thereto or his agent, or to induce him to enter into the contract :—

(1)—The suggestion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true ;

(2)—The active concealment of a fact by one having knowledge or belief of the fact ;

(3)—A promise made without any intention of performing it ;

(4)—Any other act fitted to deceive ;

(5)—Any such act or omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent.

Explanation —Mere silence as to facts likely to affect the willingness of a person to enter into a contract is not fraud unless the circumstances of the case are such that, regard being had to them, it is the duty of the person keeping silence to speak, or unless his silence is, in itself, equivalent to speech.

Notes.—Fraud is a false representation of fact, made with a knowledge of its falsehood, or recklessly, without belief in its truth, with the intention that it should be acted upon by the complaining party, and actually inducing him to act upon it. Anson on Contract, p. 180. In Peek v. Garney, L. R. 6 H. L. "Misrepresentation" defined

18. "Misrepresentation" means and includes—

(1) the positive assertion, in a manner not warranted by the information of the person making it, of that which is not true, though he believes it to be true ;

(2) any breach of duty which, without an intent to deceive, gains an advantage to the person committing it, or any one claiming under him, by misleading another to his prejudice or to the prejudice of any one claiming under him ;

(3) causing, however innocently, a party to an agreement to make a mistake as to the substance of the thing which is the subject of the agreement.

Notes.—There is a difference between misrepresentation or innocent misstatement of fact and fraud or wilful misstatement of fact, Anson, p 156 In Arkwright v. Newbold, 17 Ch. D. 320. Cotton L. J said . "It must be borne in mind that in an action for setting aside a contract which has been obtained by misrepresentation the plaintiff may succeed though the misrepresentation was innocent ; but in an action for deceit, the representation to found the action must not be innocent, that is to say, it must be made either with the knowledge of its being false or with a reckless disregard whether it is or it is not true" "It is fraud in law if a party makes representations which he knows to be false and injury ensues, although the motive from which the representations proceeded may not have been bad." Per Tidal, C J in Foster v Charles, 7 Bing 107 , see 3 B 242 Misrepresentation is a misstatement of facts not known to be false or a nondisclosure of facts not intended to deceive Anson, p 159. Where a person makes a positive assertion relying upon the statement of another, that a certain third party would become a director, he is not warranted in making that assertion within the meaning of section 18 of the Contract Act. 4 C. The principal difference between fraud and misrepresentation is that in the one case the person making the suggestion does not believe it to be true and in the other he believes it to be true. Though in both cases it is a mistatement of fact which misleads the promisor. 53 A. 374=1931 A. L. J 153=A. I R 1931 All. 154. Mistake by innocent misrepresentation justifies repudiation of contract. Voidability of agreements without free consent.

19. When consent to an agreement is caused by coercion*, fraud, or misrepresentation, the agreement is a contract voidable at the option of the party whose consent was so caused.

A party to a contract, whose consent was caused by fraud or misrepresentation, may, if he thinks fit, insist that the contract shall be performed, and that he shall be put in the position in which he would have been if the representations made had been true.

Exception.—If such consent was caused by misrepresentation or by silence, fraudulent within the meaning of section 17, the contract, nevertheless, is not voidable, if the party whose consent was so caused had the means of discovering the truth with ordinary diligence.

Explanation.—A fraud or misrepresentation which did not cause the consent to a contract of the party on whom such fraud was practised, or to whom such misrepresentation was made, does not render a contract voidable.

What considerations and objects are lawful, and what not.

23. The consideration or object of an agreement is lawful, unless—it is forbidden by law ; or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to public policy.

In each of these cases, the consideration or object of an agreement is said to be unlawful. Every agreement, of which the object or consideration is unlawful is void.

Agreement without consideration, void, unless

25. An agreement made without consideration is void, unless—it is in writing and registered,

(1) it is expressed in writing and registered under the law for the time being in force for the registration of documents,* and is made on account of natural love and affection between parties standing in a near relation to each other; or unless or is a promise to compensate for something done,

(2) it is a promise to compensate, wholly or in part, a person who has already voluntarily done something for the promisor, or something which the promisor was legally compellable to do, or unless or is a promise to pay a debt barred by limitation law.

(3) it is a promise, made in writing and signed by the person to be charged therewith, or by his agent generally or specially authorized in that behalf, to pay wholly or in part a debt of which the creditor might have enforced payment but for the law for the limitation of suits.†

In any of these cases, such an agreement is a contract.

Explanation 1.—Nothing in this section shall affect the validity, as between the donor and donee, of any gift actually made.

Explanation 2.—An agreement to which the consent of the promisor is freely given is not void merely because the consideration is inadequate; but the inadequacy of the consideration may be taken into account by the Court in determining the question whether the consent of the promisor was freely given.

31. A "contingent contract" is a contract to do or not to do something, if some event, collateral to such contract, does or does not happen.

32. Contingent contracts to do or not to do anything if an uncertain future event happens cannot be enforced by law unless and until that event has happened.

If the event becomes impossible, such contracts become void.

(b) A make a contract with B to sell a horse to B at a specified price if C, to whom the horse has been offered, refuses to buy him. The contract cannot be enforced by law unless and until C refuses to buy the horse

34. If the future event on which a contract is contingent is the way in which a person will act at an unspecified time, the event shall be considered to become impossible when such person does anything which renders it impossible that he should so act within any definite time, or otherwise than under further contingencies.

35. Contingent contracts to do or not to do anything if a specified uncertain event happens within a fixed time become void if, at the expiration of the time fixed, such event has not happened, or if, before the time fixed, such event becomes impossible.

Contingent contracts to do or not to do anything if a specified uncertain event does not happen within a fixed time may be enforced by law when the time fixed has expired and such event has not happened, or, before the time fixed has expired, if it becomes certain that such event will not happen.

When contracts may be enforced which are contingent on specified event not happening within fixed time.

36. Contingent agreements to do or not to do anything, if an impossible event happens, are void, whether the impossibility of the event is known or not to the parties to the agreement at the time when it is made.

Agreements contingent on impossible events void.

CHAPTER IV.

OF THE PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACTS.

Contracts which must be performed.

37. The parties to a contract must either perform, or offer to perform, their respective promises, unless such performance is dispensed with or excused under the provisions of this Act, or of any other law.

Obligation of parties to contracts.

Promises bind the representatives of the promisors in case of the death of such promisors before performance, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract.

Illustrations.

(a) A promises to deliver goods to B on a certain day on payment of Rs. 1,000. A dies before that day. A's representatives are bound to deliver the goods to B, and B is bound to pay the Rs. 1,000 to A's representatives.

(b) A promises to paint a picture for B by a certain day, at a certain price. A dies before the day. The contract cannot be enforced either by A's representatives or by B.

Effect of refusal to accept offer of performance.

38. Where a promisor has made an offer of performance to the promisee, and the offer has not been accepted, the promisor is not responsible for non-performance, nor does he thereby lose his rights under the contract.

Every such offer must fulfil the following conditions :—

(1) it must be unconditional :

(2) it must be made at a proper time and place, and under such circumstances that the person to whom it is made may have a reasonable opportunity of ascertaining that the person by whom it is made is able and willing there and then to do the whole of what he is bound by his promise to do :

(3) if the offer is an offer to deliver anything to the promisee, the promisee must have a reasonable opportunity of seeing that the thing offered is the thing which the promisor is bound by his promise to deliver.

An offer to one of several joint promisees has the same legal consequences as an offer to all of them.

Illustrations.

A contracts to deliver to B at his warehouse, on the 1st March, 1873, 100 bales of cotton of a particular quality. In order to make an offer of a performance with the effect stated in this section, A must bring the cotton to B's warehouse, on the appointed day, under such circumstances that B may have a reasonable opportunity of satisfying himself that the thing offered is cotton of the quality contracted for, and that there are 100 bales.

39. When a party to a contract has refused to perform, or disabled himself from performing, his promise in its entirety, the promisee may put an end to the contract, unless he has signified, by words or conduct, his acquiescence in its continuance.

Illustrations.

(a) A, a singer, enters into a contract with B, the manager of a theatre, to sing at his theatre two nights in every weak during the next two months, and B engages to pay her 100 rupees for each night's performance. On the sixth night A wilfully absents herself from the theatre. B is at liberty to put an end to the contract.

B has signified his acquiescence in the continuance of the contract, and cannot now put an end to it, but is entitled to compensation for the damage sustained by him through A's failure to sing on the sixth night.

By whom Contracts must be performed

Person by whom promise is to be performed.

40. If it appears from the nature of the case that it was the intention of the parties to any contract that any promise contained in it should be performed by the promisor himself, such promise must be performed by the promisor. In other cases, the promisor or his representatives may employ a competent person to perform it.

Illustrations.

(a) A promises to pay B a sum of money. A may perform this promise, either by personally paying the money to B or by causing it to be paid to B by another; and, if A dies before the time appointed for payment, his representatives must perform the promise, or employ some proper person to do so.

(b) A promises to paint a picture for B. A must perform this promise personally.

Notes—Specific performance requiring contract for purchase of immovable property can be claimed against legal representative and the remedy does not die with the party who agrees to purchase. 120 Ind. Cas. 240.

Effect of accepting performance from third person.

41. When a promisee accepts performance of the promise from a third person, he cannot afterwards enforce it against the promisor.

Notes.—Under this section the plaintiff's lien for the unpaid purchase money cannot be enforced, when the lien was satisfied by payment made by a third party. 17 Ind. Cas, 288; see also 39 A 178 P. C.; 112 Ind. Cas. 491.

Devolution of joint liabilities.

42. When two or more persons have made a joint promise, then, unless a contrary intention appears by the contract, all such persons, during their joint lives, and after the death, of any of them, his representative jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, the representatives of all jointly, must fulfil the promise.

Any one of joint promisors may be compelled to perform.

43. When two or more persons make a joint promise, the promisee may, in the absence of express agreement to the contrary, compel any "one or more"* of such joint promisors to perform the whole of the promise.

Each promisor may compel contribution.

Each of two or more joint promisors may compel every other joint promisor to contribute equally with himself to the performance of the promise, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract.

Sharing of loss by default in contribution.

If any one of two or more joint promisors makes default in such contribution, the remaining joint promisors must bear the loss arising from such default in equal shares.

By whom Contracts must be performed

Person by whom promise is to be performed.

40. If it appears from the nature of the case that it was the intention of the parties to any contract that any promise contained in it should be performed by the promisor himself, such promise must be performed by the promisor. In other cases, the promisor or his representatives may employ a competent person to perform it

Illustrations.

(a) A promises to pay B a sum of money. A may perform this promise, either by personally paying the money to B or by causing it to be paid to B by another; and, if A dies before the time appointed for payment, his representatives must perform the promise, or employ some proper person to do so.

(b) A promises to paint a picture for B A must perform this promise personally.

Notes.—Specific performance requiring contract for purchase of immovable property can be claimed against legal representative and the remedy does not die with the party who agrees to purchase. 120 Ind. Cas. 240.

Effect of accepting performance from third person.

41. When a promisee accepts performance of the promise from a third person, he cannot afterwards enforce it against the promisor.

Notes.—Under this section the plaintiff's lien for the unpaid purchase money cannot be enforced, when the lien was satisfied by payment made by a third party. 17 Ind. Cas, 288 ; see also 39 A 178 P. C. ; 112 Ind. Cas. 491.

Devolution of joint liabilities.

42. When two or more persons have made a joint promise, then, unless a contrary intention appears by the contract, all such persons, during their joint lives, and after the death, of any of them, his representative jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, the representatives of all jointly, must fulfil the promise.

Notes.—Rule of survivorship among joint tenants is modified by ss 42 and 45 122 Ind. Cas. 404. On misappropriation of public trust by manager other members are jointly and severally liable to repay with interest amount used in family business. 85 Ind. Cas. 2.

Any one of joint promisors may be compelled to perform

43. When two or more persons make a joint promise, the promisee may, in the absence of express agreement to the contrary, compel any "one or more"* of such joint promisors to perform the whole of the promise.

Each promisor may compel contribution

Each of two or more joint promisors may compel every other joint promisor to contribute equally with himself to the performance of the promise, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract.

Sharing of loss by default in contribution.

If any one of two or more joint promisors makes default in such contribution, the remaining joint promisors must bear the loss arising from such default in equal shares.

* Substituted by Act XII of 1891.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section shall prevent a surety from recovering from his principal, payments made by the surety on behalf of the principal, or entitle the principal to recover anything from the surety on account of payments made by the principal.

(b) A, B and C jointly promise to pay D the sum of 3,000 rupees. C is compelled to pay the whole. A is insolvent, but his assets are sufficient to pay one-half of his debts. C is entitled to receive 500 rupees from A's estate, and 1,250 rupees from B

(c) A, B and C are under a joint promise to pay D 3,000 ruppes. C is unable to pay anything, and A is compelled to pay the whole. A is entitled to receive 1,500 rupees from B.

(d) A, B and C are under a joint promise to pay D 3,000 rupees, A and B being only sureties for C. C fails to pay. A and B are compelled to pay the whole sum. They are entitled to recover it from C.

Notes—The section means, generally, that a release to one of several contractors does not discharge the co-contractors, and applies, as well to a discharge after breach, as to a release before breach. 4 C. 336=3 C L R. 546. A joint promisor, whose liability to the promise was kept alive beyond three years from the date of the promissory note, and who was consequently compelled to pay a decree of the Court more than his proportion of the debt to the promisee, can sue another joint promisor for contribution, though the decree exonerated that other joint promisor from payment, on the ground that the debt against him was barred by limitation. 16 M. Devolution of joint rights.

45. When a person has made a promise to two or more persons jointly, then, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract, the right to claim performance rests, as between him and them, with them during their joint lives, and, after the death of any of them, with the respresentative of such deceased person jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, with the representatives of all jointly.

Illustration.

A, in consideration of 5,000 rupees lent to him by B and C, promises B and C jointly to repay them that sum with interest on a day specified. B dies. The right to claim performance rests with B's representative jointly with C during C's life, and after the death of C with the representatives of B and C jointly.

Effect of such failure when time is not essential.

If it was not the intention of the parties that time should be of the essence of the contract, the contract does not become voidable by the failure to do such thing at or before the specified time; but the promisee is entitled to compensation from the promisor for any loss occasioned to him by such failure.

The section is intended to apply not to cases where the whole contract has been supplanted by a new one but to cases where the old contract subsists but there is a voluntary remission of performance of some promise in it, for example, a remission of part of the debt at the time when it becomes payable. Section 63 will not cover a case of a binding promise to dispense with or remit performance in the future unless that waiver is made the subject of a fresh contract because then s. 92 of the Evidence Act will stand in the way.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE CONSEQUENCES OF BREACH OF CONTRACT.

Compensation for loss or damage caused by breach of contract.

73. When a contract has been broken, the party who suffers by such breach is entitled to receive, from the party who has broken the contract, compensation for any loss or damage caused to him thereby, which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach, or which the parties knew, when they made the contract, to be likely to result from the breach of it.

Such compensation is not to be given for any remote and indirect loss or damage sustained by reason of the breach.

Compensation for failure to discharge obligation resembling those created by contract.

(p) A contracts to sell and deliver 500 bales of cotton to B on a fixed day. A knows nothing of B's mode of conducting his business. A breaks his promise, and B, having no cotton, is obliged to close his mill. A is not responsible to B for the loss caused to B by the closing of the mill.

(q) A contracts to sell and deliver to B, on the first of January, certain cloth which B intends to manufacture into caps of a particular kind, for which there is no demand, except at that season The cloth is not delivered till after the appointed time, and too late to be used that year in making caps B is entitled to receive from A, by way of compensation, the difference between the contract price of the cloth and its market price at the time of delivery, but not the profits which he expected to obtain by making caps, nor the expenses which he has been put to in making preparation for the manufacture

(r) A, a ship-owner, contracts with B to convey him from Calcutta to Sydney in A's ship, sailing on the first of January, and B pays to A, by way of deposit, one-half of his passage-money. The ship does not sail on the 1st of January, and B, after being, in consequence, detained in Calcutta for sometime, and thereby put to some expense, proceeds to Sydney in another vessel, and, in consequence, arriving too late in Sydney, loses a sum of money. A is liable to repay to B his deposit, with interest, and the expense to which he is put by his detention in Calcutta, and the excess, if any, of the passage money paid for the second ship over that agreed upon for the first, but not the sum of money which B lost by arriving in Sydney too late.

Notes.—This section not only confines the right of relief to the party who suffers but provides how his loss is to be measured, what it is to include and what to exclude, and what circumstances The Court must take into account in estimating the loss. Hence in cases of breach of contract, it is not permissible to the aggrieved party to file a suit to recover the price of goods in dispute. Under the Indian Contract Act, the aggrieved party must sell the refused goods and then seek to recover the loss if any occurring on such rate. 11 Bom. L. R.; 335 10 Bom. L. R. 1113. 4 Bom. L. Notes—In cases of breach of contract covered by this section, the question is one of intention, and consideration is to be had as to whether the parties have ascertained the compensation due on a breach of the obligation contained therein, and as to whether the sum to be paid is "the sum named" in the contract as payable in case of breach. 105 P. R 1887. The question whether the provision as to a higher rate of interest is to be treated as liquidated damages or as a penalty is a question of fact to be decided on a consideration of the whole instrument in each case. 51 P. R. 1879; 25 P. R. 1879. In the case of the breach of a penal contract the plaintiff is entitled under this section to reasonable compensation and not to the full amount fixed or agreed upon. 3 P. B) Although this section was originally framed to deal with the doctrine of penalty, and liquidated damages as understood in the law of England, it is in its present form comprehensive enough to include cases where there is a stipulation for payment of interest at a specified rate, if the principal or part thereof is not paid on the due date, because it covers all cases where the contract contains any stipulation by way of penalty. 21 C. CHAPTER VII.

Sale of Goods.

CHAPTER VIII.

Of Indemnity and Guarantee.

"Contract of indemnity" defined.

124. A contract by which one party promises to save the other from loss caused to him by the conduct of the promisor himself, or by the conduct of any other person, is called a "contract of indemnity."

Illustration

A contracts to indemnify B against the consequences of any proceedings which C may take against B in respect of a certain sum of 200 rupees. This is a contract of indemnity.

Notes.—The Contract Act draws a distinction between contracts of indemnity and contracts of suretyship. So far as the contract of indemnity is concerned the person who indemnifies can, on payment or discharge of the obligation sue, but the suit in the absence of any assignment can only be in the name of the promisee In such a case there is no direct right of action on the original contract to the person who indemnifies against the person whose contract has caused loss 49 M. 156=95 Ind. Cas. 154=A I. R. 1926 Mad. 544 In the case of a contract of indemnity it is not necessary that actual damage should be caused before the party affected can sue on it. 92 Ind [Cas 715=(1926) M. W. N. 459=A. I R 1926 Mad. 597. The conditions required by the English law and the Contract Act for a contract of suretyship are also required for such a contract under the Hindu Law There must be a creditor, a principal debtor and a guarantor or surety, who makes himself liable for the liability of the principal debtor. The relationship may be established by an agreement between the principal debtor and the surety to which the creditor is a party. This is the contract coming under s. 126. It may also be established by an agreement to which the creditor is not a party where there is a collateral contract between the surety and the principal debtor that one of them shall be liable on the default of the other. This is the contract under s. 132 of the Act But where the contract between the surety and the creditor is not a collateral undertaking but creates an original liability as between those two parties then the contract is not one of surety but one of indemnity within this section of the Contract Act 46 Ind Cas. 27=3 Pat. L. J. 396=4 Pat. L. W. 437 ; see also (1902) 1 K. B. 778 ; (1894) 2 Q. B 885.

Rights of indemnity-holder when sued.

of indemnity, or if the promisor authorized him to bring or defend the suit ;

(3) all sums which he may have paid under the terms of any compromise of any such suit, if the compromise was not contrary to the orders of the promisor, and was one which it would have been prudent for the promisee to make in the absence of any contract of indemnity, or if the promisor authorised him to compromise the suit.

Notes.—Promisee can recover costs properly incurred in resisting or ascertaining the claim to which indemnity relates. Promisor can not impeach a decree passed against promisee. 22 N. L R 49=A. I. R. 1926 Nag 109 In the case of a contract of indemnity, a decree passed against a promisee cannot be impeached by the promisor. Costs reasonably incurred in resisting or reducing or ascertaining the claim can be recovered. 88 Ind. Cas. 699. This section does not contemplate the assessment of future damages, but refers to the amount which has been paid whether under compulsion of an adjudication or under the terms of a proper compromise of the suit. 50 Ind. Cas. 611=15 N. L. R. 78. Actual loss or damage need not be proved to get compensation A. I. R. 1931 All. 754=1931 A. L. J. 687=53A. 946. Where a purchaser of property agrees to release the property of an existing mortgage and on default to do so if the vendor is made liable for the debt further agrees to indemnify the vendor, a suit by the vendor when he has not paid anything to the mortgagee is not in the nature of suit to enforce a trust and is premature so far as this action is concerned. A I. R. 1933 Cal. 641. In a contract of indemnity, indemnifier is not liable to make good loss unless indemnified has incurred actual loss A. I. R 1935 Rang. 205.

'Contract of guarantee," "surety," "principal debtor" and "creditor."

126. A "contract of guarantee" is a contract to perform the promise, or discharge the liability, of a third person in case of his default. The person who gives the guarantee is called the "surety:" the person in respect of whose default the guarantee is given is called "the principal debtor," and the person to whom the guarantee is given is called the "creditor." A guarantee may be either oral or written.

Notes.—A mere recommendation by C that A should buy goods of B will not entail on C the consequences that might flow from his guaranteeing that A will not suffer any loss if he takes up B's offer of sale. 97 Ind. Cas 866. This section makes no difference between an oral and a written guarantee ; the former being as equally binding as the latter. 17 A L. J 1068=52 Ind. Cas. 684. The word "liability" in this section means a liability which is enforceable at law, and if that liability does not exist there can not be a contract of guarantee. 42 B. 444=20 Bom. L. Consideration or guarantee 127. Anything done, or any promise made, for the benefit of the principal debtor may be a sufficient consideration to the surety for giving the guarantee.

Illustrations.

(a) B requests A to sell and deliver to him goods on credit. A agrees to do so, provided C will guarantee the payment of the price of the goods. C promises to guarantee the payment in consideration of A's promise to deliver the goods. This is a sufficient consideration for C's promise

(b) A sells and delivers goods to B C afterwards requests A to forbear to sue B for the debt for a year, and promises that if he does so, C will pay for them in default of payment by B. A agrees to forbear as requested. This is a sufficient consideration for C's promise.

(c) A sells and delivers goods to B. C afterwards, without consideration, agrees to pay for them in default of B. The agreement is void.

Notes—A promise to withdraw an order of arrest against the principal debtor, issued under circumstances, in which nobody could cause his arrest under the order, was held not to amount to a "promise made for his benefit" within the meaning of this section. U. B. R. (1897-1901) vol. II. 335.

Surety's liability.

128. The liability of the surety is co-extensive with that of the principal debtor, unless it is otherwise provided by the contract.

Illustration.

A guarantees to B the payment of a bill of exchange by C, the acceptor. The bill is dishonoured by C. A is liable not only for the amount of the bill but also for any interest and charges which may have become due on it.

Notes —In the absence of any contract to the contrary the liability of a surety is co-extensive with that of the principal debtor. 16 C. P. L. R. 76. CHAPTER IX.

OF BAILMENT

148. A "bailment" is the delivery of goods by one person to another for some purpose, upon a contract that they shall, when the purpose is accomplished, be returned or otherwise disposed of according to the directions of the person delivering them The person delivering the goods is called the "bailor". The person to whom they are delivered is called the "bailee."

"Bailment", "bailor", and "bailee," defined.

Explanation.—If a person already in possession of the goods of another contracts to hold them as a bailee, he thereby becomes the bailee, and the owner becomes the bailor, of such goods although they may not have been delivered by way of bailment.

Notes.—It is the pawnor, and not an assignee from him that can give directions ...

149. The delivery to the bailee may be made by doing anything which has the effect of putting the goods in the possession of the intended bailee or of any person authorized to hold them on his behalf.

150. The bailor is bound to disclose to the bailee faults in the goods bailed, of which the bailor is aware, and which materially interfere with the use of them, or expose the bailee to extraordinary risks; and, if he does not make such disclosure, he is responsible for damage arising to the bailee directly from such faults

Bailor's duty to disclose faults in goods bailed.

If the goods are bailed for hire, the bailor is responsible for such damage, whether he was or was not aware of the existence of such faults in the goods bailed.

(b) A hires a carriage of B. The carriage is unsafe, though B is not aware of it, and A is injured. B is responsible to A for the injury.

151. In all cases of bailment the bailee is bound to take as much care of the goods bailed to him as a man of ordinary prudence would, under similar circumstances, take of his own goods of the same bulk, quality and value as the goods bailed.

Termination of bailment by bailee's act inconsistent with conditions.

153. A contract of bailment is voidable at the option of the bailor, if the bailee does any act with regard to the goods bailed, inconsistent with the conditions of the bailment.

Illustration.

A lets to B, for hire, a horse for his own riding. B drives the horse in his carriage. This is, at the option of A, a termination of the bailment.

Notes—Where a pledgee, having power to sell for default, takes over as if upon a sale to himself, the property pledged, without the authority of the pledgor but crediting its value in account with him, this act, though an authorized conversion, does not put an end to the contract of pledge, so as to entitle the pledgor to have the property back without payment 19 C. 323 (P. C).

Liability of bailee making unauthorised use of goods bailed.

154. If the bailee makes any use of the goods bailed, which is not according to the conditions of the bailment, he is liable to make compensation to the bailor for any damage arising to the goods from or during such use of them.

Notes.—Where a bailee uses a car bailed to him for his own purpose, he is liable for damages arising from such use 35 P. L. R. 705

Effect of mixture, with bailor's consent, of his goods with bailee's

155. If the bailee, with the consent of the bailor, mixes the goods of the bailor with his own goods, the bailor and the bailee shall have an interest, in proportion to their respective shares, in the mixture thus produced.

Effect of mixture, without bailor's consent, when the goods can be separated

156. If the bailee, without the consent of the bailor, mixes the goods of the bailor with his own goods, and the goods can be separated or divided, the property in the goods remains in the parties respectively; but the bailee is bound to bear the expense of separation or division, and any damage arising from the mixture.

Illustration

A bails 100 bales of cotton marked with a particular mark to B B, without A's consent, mixes the 100 bales with other bales of his own, bearing a different mark. A is entitled to have his 100 bales returned, and B is bound to bear all the expense incurred in the separation of the bales, and any other incidental damage.

Effect of mixture without bailor's consent, when the goods cannot be separated.

157. If the bailee, without the consent of the bailor, mixes the goods of the bailor with his own goods, in such a manner that it is impossible to separate the goods bailed from the other goods and deliver them back, the bailor is entitled to be compensated by the bailee for the loss of the goods

Illustration.

A bails a barrel of Cape flour worth Rs. 45 to B B, without A's consent, mixes the flour with country flour of his own, worth only Rs. 25 a barrel. B must compensate A for the loss of his flour.

Repayment by bailor of necessary expenses.

158. Where, by the conditions of the bailment, the goods are to be kept or to be carried, or to have work done upon them by the bailee for the bailor, and the bailee is to receive no remuneration, the bailor shall repay to the bailee the necessary expenses incurred by him for the purpose of the bailment.

Restoration of goods lent gratuitously.

159. The lender of a thing for use may at any time require its return, if the loan was gratuitous, even though he lent it for a specified time or purpose. But, if, on the faith of such loan made for a specified time or purpose, the borrower has acted in such a manner that the return of the thing lent before the time agreed upon would cause him loss exceeding the benefit actually derived by him from the loan, the lender must, if he compels the return, indemnify the borrower for the amount in which the loss so occasioned exceeds the benefit so derived.

Return of goods bailed on expiration of time or accomplishment of purpose

160. It is the duty of the bailee to return or deliver according to the bailor's directions, the goods bailed, without demand, as soon as the time for which they were bailed has expired, or the purpose for which they were bailed has been accomplished.

Termination of gratuitous bailment by death.

162. A gratuitous bailment is terminated by the death either of the bailor or of the bailee.

Notes—The Contract Act is not an exhaustive code with reference to the law of bailments. Bailments are of two kinds voluntary and involuntary. Where a depository dies and the subject of the deposit passes into the hands of his heir, the latter becomes an involuntary bailee 26 C W N 772. On death of bailee his estate is liable for loss caused to bailor in respect of goods bailed and the heir is a constructive trustee. 127 Ind Cas 867=A I R. 1931 Oudh 15. Right of finder of goods; may sue for specific reward offered.

168. The finder of goods has no right to sue the owner for compensation for trouble and expense voluntarily incurred by him to preserve the goods and to find out the owner; but he may retain the goods against the owner until he receives such compensation; and, where the owner has offered a specific reward for the return of goods lost, the finder may sue for such reward, and may retain the goods until he receives it.

Bailee's particular lien.

170. Where the bailee has, in accordance with the purpose of the bailment, rendered any service involving the exercise of labour or skill in respect of the goods bailed, he has, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, a right to retain such goods until he receives due remuneration for the services he has rendered in respect of them.

Agent's Duty to Principal.

Agent's duty in conducting principal's business.

211. An agent is bound to conduct the business of his principal according to the directions given by the principal, or, in the absence of any such directions, according to the custom which prevails in doing business of the same kind at the place where the agent conducts such business. When the agent acts otherwise, if any loss be sustained, he must make it good to his principal, and, if any profit accrues, he must account for it.

Skill and diligence required from agent.

The agent is always bound to act with reasonable diligence, and to use such skill as he possesses; and to make compensation to his principal in respect of the direct consequences of his own neglect, want of skill or misconduct, but not in respect of loss or damage which are indirectly or remotely caused by such neglect, want of skill or misconduct.

THE CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT, 1912. †

RECEIVED THE ASSENT OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL ON THE 1ST MARCH, 1912.

An Act to amend the law relating to Co operative Societies.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to facilitate the formation of Co-operative Societies for the promotion of thrift and self-help among agriculturists, artisans and persons of limited means, and for that purpose to amend the law relating to Co-operative Societies; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Object of the Legislation.—Legislation is called for not only in order to lay down the fundamental conditions which must be observed but also with a view to giving Co-operative Societies a corporate existence without resort to the elaborate provisions of the Companies Act; but it is thought that legislation should be confined within the narrowest possible limits. The bill has, therefore, been drawn so as to deal only with those points which the Government consider to be essential, and its provisions have been expressed in simple and general terms, a wide rule-making power being reserved to Local Governments, so that what is left to be of the nature of an experiment may be tried in each province or part of province on such lines as seem to afford most promise of success.—Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Defects of Co-operative Societies Act of 1904.—(1) The Act of 1904 applied to societies for the purpose of Co operative Credit only and not to Co-operative Societies of other kinds, such as those established for production or distribution. It has in practice been found that the establishment of Credit Societies has led to the founding of other classes of Co-operative Societies also, and it is advisable that the privileges extended by the Act to Co-operative Credit Societies should be extended ct as now revised they were "Urban" rule rural societies vas adopted mainly commended and put n parts of India, but has in practice been found artificial and inconvenient. The real distinction is between Societies with limited and those with unlimited liability, and it is proposed in the new Bill to maintain this distinction only while retaining the principle that Agricultural Credit Society must as a general rule be with unlimited liability.

(iii) The Act of 1904 did not contemplate that Societies with unlimited liability should distribute profits. It is still felt that such Societies do not represent the best form of Co-operation for agricultural communities but this form of society has, in practice, been for some time in existence in several provinces, and Societies of the recognized to be capable of useful ive them undue encouragement, it it unlimited society, with the sanc-

(iv) A cardinal principle which is observed in the organization of Co-operative Societies in Europe is the grouping of such Societies into unions and then financing by means of Central Banks This stage of Co-operation has not been fully realised but such grouping of Societies has already been and it is now considered desirable to legalise it Societies of which the members shall be other Co-operative Credit Societies.—Statements of Objects and Reasons.

Interpretation.—It should be strictly construed. A I. R. 1931 Lah. 631.

The Registrar.

3. The Local Government may appoint a person to be Registrar of Co-operative Societies for the Province or any portion of it, and may appoint persons to assist such Registrar, and may, by general or special order, confer on any such persons all or any of the powers of a Registrar under this Act.

5. Where the liability of the members of a society is limited by shares, no member other than a registered society shall—

Conditions of registration

6. (1) No society, other than a society of which a member is a registered society, shall be registered under this Act which does not consist of at least ten persons above the age of eighteen years and, where the object of the society is the creation of funds to be lent to its members, unless such persons—

(a) reside in the same town or village or in the same group of villages ; or,

(b) save where the Registrar otherwise directs, are members of the same tribe, class, caste or occupation.

(2) The word 'limited" shall be the last word in the name of every society with limited liability registered under this Act.

(3) The application shall be accompanied by a copy of the proposed by-laws of the society, and the persons by whom or on whose behalf such application is made shall furnish such information in regard to the society as the Registrar may require.

11. (1) No amendment of the by-laws of a registered society shall be valid until the same has been registered under this Act, for which purpose a copy of the amendment shall be forwarded to the Registrar.

Amendment of the by laws of a registered society.

(2) If the Registrar is satisfied that any amendment of the by-laws is not contrary to this Act or to the rules, he may, if he thinks fit, register the amendment.

(3) When the Registrar registers an amendment of the by-laws of a registered society, he shall issue to the society a copy of the amendment certified by him, which shall be conclusive evidence that the same is duly registered.

Notes.—By this section it is provided that no amendment of a rule shall be valid until it has been registered. In connection with a similar provision in the English Friendly Societies Act, in Battey v. Townrow, (1814) 4 Camp 5, Lord Ellenborough, observed: "The section which permits an alteration of rules, provides that such alteration should be subject to the review of the justices and shall have no force or effect until confirmed by them." So where the altered rules were never enrolled, the rules as altered cannot legally be acted upon. R. v. Godolphin, 8 A. & E. 388; see also R. v. Cotton, 15 Q. Rights and liabilities of members.

Member not to exercise rights till due payment made.

Votes of members.

13. (1) Where the liability of the members of a registered society is not limited by shares, each member shall, notwithstanding the amount of his interest in the capital, have one vote only as a member in the affairs of the society.

(2) Where the liability of the members of a registered society is limited by shares, each member shall have as many votes as may be prescribed by the by-laws.

A s [illegible] There propriety or impropriety of the motive is immaterial, Pender v. Lushington, Ibid. Prima facie, there is no right to vote by proxy, for the common law does not recognize any such mode of voting But where such power is given by the Act or by the law, a vote by proxy is allowed.—Vide Palmer's Company Law, p. 172.

Restrictions on transfer of share or interest.

14. (1) The transfer or charge of the share or interest of a member in the capital of a registered society shall be subject to such conditions as to maximum holding as may be prescribed by this Act or by the rules.

(2) In case of a society registered with unlimited liability a member shall not transfer any share held by him or his interest in the capital of the society or any part thereof unless—

(a) he has held such share or interest for not less than one year; and

(b) the transfer or charge is made to the society or to a member of the society.

Notes—In Bennet v. Slater, (1899) 1 Q B. C. A. in connection with the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, Vaughan Williams L. J. said: "In this case the question really raised is whether or not a policy issued by a Friendly Society governed by the Act of 1875, is or is not assignable, and I have come to the conclusion that it is assignable. Where a policy is taken out for a sum of money which is payable to the member who takes out the policy, or his personal representative, by virtue of the contract entered into, no one will deny for a moment that such a sum of money, prima facie, is part of the property of the member or the estate of the deceased member, as the case may be, therefore we must find something in the Act of 1875 or in the rules of the society, which prevents this particular property having this ordinary incident of property. Now it is admitted on both sides that there is whatsoever in either Act of Parliament or the rules which expressly prevents the moneys payable under this policy, or the policy itself, from being assignable. If, therefore, the policy is not assignable it must be from some implication arising out of the statute". So there must be some restrication as regards transfer in the section.

Duties of registered societies.

Address of societies

15. Every registered society shall have an address, registered in accordance with the rules, to which all notices and communications may be sent, and shall send to the Registrar notice of every change thereof.

Notes—This section corresponds to section 72 of the Indian Companies Act. The registered office need not be and very commonly is not, in the exclusive occupation of the company, and no part of the company's business need be carried on there—Rustomjee's Companies Act, p. 89.

Copy of Act, rules and by-laws to be open to inspection.

16. Every registered society shall keep a copy of this Act and of the rules governing such society, and of its by-laws, open to inspection free of charge at all reasonable times at the registered address of the society.

Audit.

17. (1) The Registrar shall audit or cause to be audited by some person authorized by him by general or special order in writing in this behalf the accounts of every registered society once at least in every year.

(2) The audit under sub-section (1) shall include an examination of overdue debts, if any, and a valuation of the assests and liabilities of the society.

(3) The Registrar, the Collector or any person authorized by general or special order in writing in this behalf by the Registrar shall at all times have access to all the books, accounts, papers and securities of a society, and every officer of the society shall furnish such information in regard to the transactions and working of the society as the person making such inspection may require.

Privileges of registered societies.

Societies to be bodies corporate.

18. The registration of a society shall render it a body corporate by the name under which it is registered, with perpetual succession and a common seal, and with power to hold property, to enter into contracts, to institute and defend suits and other legal proceedings and to do all things necessary for the purposes of its constitution.

Notes.—The Chairman of a Co-operative Credit Society has no right to institute a suit against a member of the society under the Co operative Credit Societies Act, in his own name. The suit should be one by the society under s. 6, cl. 2 of Act X of 1904. A suit in the name of the chairman must fail. 10 Ind Cas. 570. A society can bring a suit for defamation. In Hill v. Hart Davies, (1882) 21 Ch. D. 798, Kay J said: "I have no doubt whatever about it It seems to me that it is perfectly settled that any libel which is calculated to injure another man in his trade, or a trading company, will be restrained by injunction, and although there has been, it is said, no reported case which applies that law and practice to a Friendly Society or Joint Stock company, I have not least doubt that it is as applicable to the case of a Friendly Society or a Joint Stock Company as it is to an individual trader, because everybody who has the least knowledge of what goes on in the world, and particularly of what goes on in a Court of Justice, must be perfectly well aware that nothing is more sensitive to evil report and to false statements than a society like a Friendly Society or, a Joint Stock Company, and if a libel ... him in his business can be and ... ms to me a fortiori that a libel ... ness should also be restrained by ... to render it a body corporate. Prior claim of society

19. Subject to any prior claim of the Government in respect of land-revenue or any money recoverable as land-revenue or of a landlord in respect of rent or any money recoverable as rent, a registered society shall be entitled in priority to other creditors to enforce any outstanding demand due to the society from a member or past member—

(a) in respect of the supply of seed or manure or of the loan of money for the purchase of seed or manure—upon the crops or other agricultural produce of such member or person at any time within eighteen months from the date of such supply or loan ;

(b) in respect of the supply of cattle, fodder for cattle, agricultural or industrial implements or machinery, or raw materials for manufacture, or of the loan of money for the purchase of any of the foregoing things—upon any such things so supplied, or purchased in whole or in part from any such loan, or on any articles manufactured from raw materials so supplied or purchased.

Notes—This section extends from one year to 18 months the term of lien on agricultural products and permits a lien on articles manufactured from raw materials supplied by or with the help of registered society. Statement of Objects and Reasons. By an application made under section 73 of the Code of Civil Procedure a registered Co-operative Society cannot enforce its prior claim within the meaning of this section as against a judgment-creditor at whose instance property is going to be sold if they have no decree or a charge under section 20 of the said Act Other remedies may still be open to such society. 18 C W. N. 1140 Musical instruments can not be described as 'Industrial implements" or machinery within the meaning of this section ; nor do they come within any other part of the category of articles referred to in that section. 38 Ind. Charge and set-off in respect of shares or interest of member.

20. A registered society shall have a charge upon the share or interest in the capital and on the deposits of a member or past member and upon any dividend, bonus or profits payable to a member or past member in respect of any debt due from such member or past member to the society, and may set off any sum credited or payable to a member or past member in or towards payment of any such debt

Industrial and Provident Society, Davy v. Morgan*, (1901) 2 K. B. 477.

Shares or interest not liable to attachment.

21. Subject to the provisions of section 20, the share or interest of a member in the capital of a registered society shall not be liable to attachment or sale under any decree or order of a Court of Justice in respect of any debt or liability incurred by such member, and neither the Official Assignee under the Presidency towns Insolvency Act, 1909,* nor a Receiver under the Provincial Insolvency Act, 1907† shall be entitled to or have any claim on such share or interest.

Transfer of interest on death of member

22. (1) On the death of a member a registered society may transfer the share or interest of the deceased member to the person nominated in accordance with the rules made in this behalf, or, if there is no person so nominated, to such person as may appear to the committee to be the heir or legal representative of the deceased member, or pay to such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be, a sum representing the value of such member's share or interest, as ascertained in accordance with the rules or by laws :

Provided that—

(i) in the case of a society with unlimited liability, such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be, may require payment by the society of the value of the share or interest of the deceased member ascertained as aforesaid ;

(ii) in the case of a society with limited liability, the society shall transfer the share or interest of the deceased member to such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be, being qualified in accordance with the rules and by-laws for membership of the society, or on his application within one month of the death of the deceased member to any person specified in the application, who is so qualified.

(2) A registered society may pay all other moneys due to the deceased member from the society to such nominee, heir or legal representative, as the case may be.

(3) All transfers and payments made by a registered society in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be valid and effectual against any demand made upon the society by any other person

Notes—According to s 58 of the English Friendly Societies Act, 1896, in default of nomination by a member, a society may distribute any sum not exceeding one hundred pounds on his death intestate, "without letters of administration, amongst such persons as appear to a majority of the trustees (or in an industrial and provident society, the committee of managemen [illegible] satisfactory, to be entitled by law to [illegible] excess of the provisions of s 22, proviso [illegible] the death of a member his share or inter[illegible] sentative who is qualified under the Act even though he has not been duly elected as such as provided by by-law Rule 17 (b) A. Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(2) words and expressions defined in the Copyright Act have the same meanings as in that Act.

CHAPTER II

CONSTRUCTION AND MODIFICATION OF THE COPYRIGHT ACT.

Application of Copyright Act to British India with adaptations.

3. In the application to British India of the Copyright Act (a copy of which Act, except such of the provisions thereof as are expressly restricted to the United Kingdom, is set out in the First Schedule), the following modifications shall be made, namely :—

(1) the powers of the Board of Trade under section 3 shall, in the case of works first published in British India, be exercised by the Governor General in Council ;

* 1 & 2, Geo. 5. C. 46.

(2) the powers of the Board of Trade under section 19 shall, as regards records, perforated rolls and other contrivances, the original plate of which was made in British India, be exercised by the Governor General in Council; and the confirmation of Parliament shall not be necessary to the exercise of any of these powers;

(3) the references in section 19, sub-section (4), and in section 24, sub-section (1), to arbitration shall be read as references to arbitration in accordance with the law for the time being in force in that part of British India in which the dispute occurs;

(4) as regards works the authors whereof were at the time of the making of the works resident in British India, and as regards works first published in British India, the reference in section 22 to the Patents and Designs Act, 1907,* shall be construed as a reference to the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911,† and the reference in the said section to section 86 of the Patents and Designs Act, 1907,* shall be construed as a reference to section 77 of the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911;†

(5) as regards works first published in British India, the reference in section 24, sub-section (1), proviso (a), to the London Gazette and two London newspapers shall be construed as a reference to the Gazette of India and two newspapers published in British India; and the reference in proviso (b) of the same sub-section of the same section to the 26th day of July, 1910, shall, as regards works the authors whereof were at the time of the making of the works resident in British India, and as regards works first published in British India, be construed as a reference to the 30th day of October, 1912.

Notes.—This contains purely formal modifications necessary for the application of the Act of 1911 to British India—Statement of Objects and Reasons In England before the statue of Anne [8 Anne c 19] there was no copyright at common law for an author, or a publisher in his published work. 44 B 720. The preamble runs an follows: "Printers, book-sellers and other persons were frequently in the habit of printing, reprinting, and publishing books and other writings without the consent of the authors or proprietors of such books and writings, to their very great detriment, and too often to the ruin of them and their families. For preventing, therefore, of such practices for the future and for the encouragement of learned men to compose and write useful books, it is enacted that the author of any book or books already printed who have not transferred to any other the copy or copies of such book or books in order to print or reprint the same shall have the sole right and liberty of printing such book or books for the term of one and twenty years, and that the author of any book or books already composed, and not printed and published, or that shall hereafter be composed, and his assignee, or assignees shall have the sole liberty of printing or reprinting such book or books for a term of fourteen years, to commence from the day of first publishing the same and no longer." It further provides that "after the expiration of the said term of fourteen years the sole right of printing or disposing of copies shall return to the authors thereof, if they are then living, or their representatives, for another term of fourteen years". For infringement of copyright forfeiture of illicit copies could be ordered and a fine was imposed. This Act was to have effect from the 10th April 1910

The effect of the statute was to extinguish the common law copyright in published works; though leaving the common law copyright in unpublished works unaffected Donaldson v. Beckett, 4 Burr. 2408; Beckford v Hood, (1798) 7 T. C. 815 By 54 Geo 3, c 156 the period was extended to 28 years to commence from the day of the first publication of the same; and if he survives that period, then for the residue of his natural life. Finally in 1842, the [illegible] extended to the [illegible] wo years, which [illegible] amed in accord- [illegible] own to have subsisted when Act III of 1914 came into force, the period of copyright substituted by that Act would be 50 years from the death of the author. the common law rights in unpublished

Modification of copyright as regards translation of works first published in British India.

4. (1) In the case of works first published in British India, copyright shall be subject to this limitation that the sole right to produce, reproduce, perform or publish a translation of the work shall subsist only for a period of ten years from the date of the first publication of the work:

Provided that if within the said period the author, or any person to whom he has granted permission so to do, publishes a translation of any such work in any lang
to the limit

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1) the expression "author" includes the legal representative of a deceased author.

Notes—Under sections 1-3 of the Act of 1911 the term for which copyrights subsist in translations is the life of the author and a period of fifty years after his death. The special linguistic conditions of India are so numerous and differs so widely that the conditions which prevail cannot be compared with those in most European countries and vernacular translations from English and from one vernacular to another are not only common but serve the useful purpose for disseminating knowledge. It is proposed, therefore, that translations of works first published in British India should be permitted after the expiry of five years from the date of first publication, provided that two year's notice of the intention to publish a translation has been given to the author. This proposal is considered to be a sufficient safeguard of and a reasonable compromise between rights of the author and those of the public. Statement of Objects and Reasons.

Musical works made by resident of, or first published in, British India.

5. In the application of the Copyright Act to musical works the authors whereof were at the time of the making of the works resident in British India, or to musical works first published in British India, the term "musical work" shall, save as otherwise expressly provided by the Copyright Act, mean "any combination of melody and harmony, or either of them, which has been reduced to writing" objections have been urged against the

If, under these circumstances, section 19 is adopted with its retrospective principle there may be fictitious claims of ownership in musical works and much confusion and undesirable litigation. (2) Before detaining any such copies, or taking any further proceedings with a view to the confiscation thereof, such Chief Customs officer, or any other officer appointed by "the Chief Customs authority"† in this behalf, may require the regulations under this section, whether as to information, security, conditions or other matters, to be complied with, and may satisfy himself, in accordance with these regulations, that the copies are such as are prohibited by this section to be imported.

(3) The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, make regulations, either general or special, respecting the detention and confiscation of copies the importation of which is prohibited by this section, and the conditions, if any, to be fulfilled before such detention and confiscation; and may, by such regulations, determine the information, notices and security to be given, and the evidence requisite for any of the purposes of this section, and the mode of verification of such evidence.

(4) Such regulations may apply to copies of all works the importation of copies of which is prohibited by this section, or different regulations may be made respecting different classes of such works

(5) The regulations may provide for the informant reimbursing the Secretary of State for India in Council all expenses and damages incurred in respect of any detention made on his information, and of any proceedings consequent on such detention, and may provide that notices given under the Copyright Act to the Commissioners of Customs and Excise of the United Kingdom, and communicated by that authority to any authority in British India, shall be deemed to have been given by the owner to the said Chief Customs officer

PENALTIES.

Offences in respect of infringing copies.

7. If any person knowingly—

(a) makes for sale or hire any infringing copy of a work in which copyright subsists ; or

(b) sells or lets for hire, or by way of trade exposes or offers for sale or hire, any infringing copy of any such work ; or

(c) distributes infringing copies of any such work, either for the purposes of trade or to such an extent as to affect prejudicially the owner of the copyright ; or

(d) by way of trade exhibits in public any infringing copy of any such work ; or

he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees for every copy dealt with in contravention of this section, but not exceeding five hundred rupees in respect of the same transaction.

Penalties.—"We have substituted the word penalties, for the words 'summary remedies' in the title of Chapter III in view of the fact that the expression summary trial is used in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, to denote a particular procedure in the trial of cases, which might not be applicable to cases under this Chapter."—Report of the Select Committee The particular clause under which a person has been summoned should be mentioned. Sections 7-12—"The provisions of section 11 of the Act of 1911 have been in the main adopted. Imprisonment, however, will in all cases be simple, and offences will be triable by a Magistrate of the first class only It is proposed to convert the amount of English fines on the basis of £ 1=Rs 10 in accordance with the usual practice and to insert a clause exempting the case of infringement by the construction of a building from the operation of summary remedies, thus giving effect to the similar exemption provided by section 9 of the English Act."—Statement of Objects and Reasons. Where a book is printed at Lahore, only the Lahore Court has jurisdiction under s. 177 Cr. P. Code to enquire into and try the cases against the printer. The offence under this section is complete as soon as the book infringing the copyright is printed and it does not depend for its completion upon the ensuing of any consequence such as is mentioned in s. 174 of the Cr. Pro. Code. 28 P. R. 1916 Cr.

Who may be convicted—A person who has in his possession any plate for the purpose of infringing copies will be convicted. Copinger p. 183 ; see also R. v. Bladoi, Times. November 27, 1913 cited in ibid. When two or more persons conspire to infringe a copyright, both of them may be convicted. R. v. Willets, (1906) 7 J. I. P. 127. The question whether there has been an infringement depends on whether a colourable imitation has been made. Whether a work is a colurable imitation of another is a question of fact. 5 C. L J. 243=34 C. W. N. 540. A copy comes so near the original as to suggest the original to the spectator. In the case of pictures it is enough if in the offending pictures, the main figures have an identical form, 112 Ind. Cas. 784=33 C. W. N. 179.

Registration—Where the action in respect of infringement of copyright was commenced when the Act of 1914 was in force, the non-registration of the copyright does not effect dismissal of the action. Venkata Rao v. Padmanava, 1927 Mad. 981 ; Gonbund v. Wallace, (1877) 36 L T. 704 ; E W. Savory v. World of Gold Ltd. (1914) 2 Ch. 566. Where the offence alleged to have been committed by the accused was one under s 7, Copyright Act (1914) and trial Court took a wrong view of the law and acquitted the accused. Held, that in a case when the Court has proceeded on a wrong view of the law, and when the matter is of great importance to the complainant in his position as author of the book, which will be pirated by another who will secure for himself the gains that ought legitimately to go to the petitioner a retrial should be ordered. A. I. R. 1927 Mad 281.

8. If any person knowingly makes, or has in his possession, anyplate for the purpose of making infringing copies of any work in which copyright subsists, or knowingly and for his private profit causes any such work to be performed in public without the consent of the owner of the copyright, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Possession of plates for purpose of making infringing copies.

9. If any person, after having been previously convicted of an offence punishable under section 7 or section 8, is subsequently convicted of an offence punishable under either of these sections, he shall be punishable with simple imprisonment which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Punishment on second conviction.

10. (1) The Court before which any offence under this Chapter is tried may, whether the alleged offender is convicted or not, order that all copies of the work or all be destroyed or delivered up to the owner of the copyright, or otherwise dealt with as the Court may think fit.

Power of Court to dispose of infringing copies or plates for purpose of making infringing copies.

11. No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence against this Act.

Cognizance of offences.

12. The provisions of this Chapter shall not apply to any case to which section 9 of the Copyright Act, regarding the restrictions on remedies in the case of a work of architecture, applies.

Saving in case of infringement by construction of building.

MISCELLANEOUS.

13. Every suit or other civil proceeding regarding infringement of copyright shall be instituted and tried in the High Court or the Court of the District Judge.

Courts having civil jurisdiction regarding infringement of copyright.

Notes.—On account of the technicalities of the subject of copyright and of the greater finality that such a tribunal will afford it has been considered advisable to give jurisdiction to High Courts only in all suits or civil proceedings regarding infringement of copyright.—Statement of Objects and Reasons.

14. No suit or other civil proceeding instituted after the 30th of October, 1912, regarding infringement of copyright in any book the author whereof was at the time of making the book resident in British India, or of any book first published in British India, shall be dismissed by reason only that the registration of such book had not been effected in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Copyripht Act, 1847.*

Effect of non-registration under Act XX of 1847.

Notes —This clause which is self-explanatory has been added in view of a recent decision in Evans v. Morris reported in the Law Journal of March 29th, 1913—Statement of Objects and Reasons. Where the action commenced when Act of 1914 was in force non registration of the copyright does not effect the dismissing of the action. COPYRIGHT ACT, 1911.

I & 2 Geo. V. Chapter 46.

An Act to amend and consolidate the Law relating to Copyyright

[16TH DECEMBER, 1911.]

Be it enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

PART I.

IMPERIAL COPYRIGHT.

Rights.

Copyright.

1. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, copyright shall subsist throughout the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends for the term hereinafter mentioned in every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work, if—

(a) in the case of a published work, the work was first published within such parts of His Majesty's dominions as aforesaid ; and

(b) in the case of an unpublished work, the author was at the date of the making of the work a British subject or resident within such parts of His Majesty's dominions as aforesaid ;

but in no other works, except so far as the protection conferred by this Act is extended by Orders in Council thereunder relating to self governing dominions to which this Act does not extend and to foreign countries.

(2) For the purposes of this Act, "copyright" means the sole right to produce or reproduce the work or any substantial part thereof in any material form whatsoever, to perform, or in the case of a lecture to deliver, the work or any substantial part thereof in public ; if the work is unpublished, to publish the work or any substantial part thereof ; and shall include the sole right—

(a) to produce, reproduce, perform, or publish any translation of the work ;

(b) in the case of a dramatic work, to convert it into a novel or other non-dramatic work ;

(c) in the case of a novel or other non-dramatic work, or of an artistic work, to convert it into a dramatic work, by way of performance in public or otherwise ;

rivance by means of

(3) For the purposes of this Act, publication, in relation to any work, means the issue of copies of the work to the public, and does not include the performance in public of a dramatic or musical work, the delivery in public of a lecture, the exhibition in public of an artistic work, or the construction of an architectural work of art, but, for the purposes of this provision, the issue of photographs and engravings of works of sculpture and architectural works of art shall not be deemed to be publication of such works.

Original.—According to this section the work must be original. So far as the copyright in a reported speech is concerned, a reporter has no copyright in the speech of a person but he has such right in the reports of those speeches. Walter v. Lane, (1900) A. C. 539 on appeal from (1899) 2 Ch. 749 In the same case, Lord Chancellor said that copyright "is given by the statute to the first producer of a book whether that book be wise or foolish, accurate or inaccurate, of literary merit or, no merit whatever." In University of London Press v. University Tutorial Press, (1916) 2 Ch. 601, Peterson J. said : "The word 'original' does not in this connection mean that the work must be an expression of original or inventive thought. Copyright Acts are not concerned with the originality of ideas but with the expression of thought, and in the case of literary work, with the expression of the thought in print or writing. The originality which is required relates to the expression of the thought. But the Act does not require that the work must not be copied from another work—that it should originate from the author." Originality relates to the expression of thought. The work must not be copied from another work. 48 B. 309=28 C. W. N. 613=40 T. L. R. 186 (P. C) The word "original" should sold by the defendants, was composed by themselves, and that neither it nor any part of it was copied, adopted or taken from the plaintiff's book or any part thereof. At p. 778 of the report the learned Judge expressed himself thus : "The book of the plaintiff is, in my judgment, new and original in the sense in which those words are to be understood in cases of copyright. The question is not whether the materials which are used are entirely new and have never been used before, or even that they have never been used before for the same purpose. The true question they are combined in a different manner from what was in use before......................

such materials but then they have no right to use such materials with its improvements superadded, whether they consist in plan, arrangement, or illustrations or combinations, for these are strictly his own......In truth, in literature, in science and in art there are and can be few, if any, things which, in an abstract sense, are strictly new and original throughout.

In the case of Macmillan v. Suresh Chandra Deb, 17 Cal. 951, the question was whether copyright can exist in a selection. In that case Sir Arthur Wilson said at p. 961 : "In the case of work not original in the proper sense of the term, but composed or complied or prepared from materials open to all, the fact that one man has produced such a work does not take away from any one else the right to produce another work of the same kind, and in doing so to use all the materials open to him. But, as the law is concisely stated by Hall, V. C. in Hogg v. Scott, L. R. 18 Eq. 444

Abridgement —In an abridgement the idea must be preserved and expressed in author's own language. A book in which certain passages are copied and others are omitted is not an abridgement. In order to constitute an original literary work some skill must be manifested in arranging the selection. In order to constitute copyright, labour, skill or capital must be spent. A new or original plan, arrangement or construction of material will entitle the author to copyright therein whether the materials themselves be old or new. It will not create a copyright in a new edition of a work of which the copyright has expired merely to make a few amendations of the text or to add a few important notes. To create a copyright by alterations of the text these must be extensive and substantial practically making a new book 48 B. 308=28 C. W. N. 613 P. C ; see also Black v. Murray, 9 Sc. Sess. 2. (1) Copyright in a work shall be deemed to be infringed by any person who, without the consent of the owner of the copyright, does anything the sole right to do which is by this Act conferred on the owner of the copyright: Provided that the following acts shall not constitute an infringement of copyright:—

Infringement of copyright.

(i) Any fair dealing with any work for the purposes of private study, research, criticism, review, or newspaper summary:

(ii) Where the author of an artistic work is not the owner of the copyright therein, the use by the author of any mould, cast, sketch, plan, model, or study made by him for the purpose of the work, provided that he does not thereby repeat or imitate the main design of that work:

(iii) The making or publishing of paintings, drawings, engravings, or photographs, of a work of sculpture or artistic craftsmanship, if permanently situate in a public place or buildings, or the making or publishing of paintings, drawings, engravings or photographs (which are not in the nature of architectural drawings or plans) of any architectural work of art:

(iv) The publication in a collection, mainly composed of non-copyright matter, bona fide intended for the use of schools, and so described in the title and in any advertisements issued by the publisher, of short passages from published literary works not themselves published for the use of schools in which copyright subsists: Provided that not more than two of such passages from works by the same author are published by the same publisher within five years, and that the source from which such passages are taken is acknowledged:

(v) The publication in a newspaper of a report of a lecture delivered in public, unless the report is prohibited by conspicuous written or printed notice affixed before and maintained during the lecture at or about the main entrance of the building in which the lecture is given, and, except whilst the building is being used for public worship, in a position near the lecturer; but nothing in this paragraph shall affect the provisions in paragraph (i) as to newspaper summaries:

(vi) The reading or recitation in public by one person of any reasonable extract from any published work.

(2) Copyright in a work shall also be deemed to be infringed by any person who—

(a) sells or lets for hire, or by way of trade exposes or offers for sale or hire; or

(b) distributes either for the purposes of trade or to such an extent as to affect prejudicially the owner of the copyright; or

(c) by way of trade exhibits in public; or

(d) imports for sale or hire into any part of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends,

any work which to his knowledge infringes copyright or would infringe copyright if it had been made within the part of his His Majesty's dominions in or into which the sale or hiring, exposure, offering for sale or hire, distribution, exhibition, or importation took place.

(3) Copyright in a work shall also be deemed to be infringed by any person who for his private profit permits a theatre or other place of entertainment to be used for the performance in public of the work without the consent of the owner of the copyright, unless he was not aware, and had no reasonable ground for suspecting, that the performace would be an infringement of copyright.

Term of copyright.

3. The term for which copyright shall subsist shall, except as otherwise expressly provided by this Act, be the life of the author and a period of fifty years after his death :

Provided that at any time after the expiration of twenty-five years, or in the case of a work in which copyright subsists at the passing of this Act, thirty years, from the death of the author of a published work, copyright in the work shall not be deemed to be infringed by the reproduction of the work for sale if the person reproducing the work proves that he has given the prescribed notice in writing of his intention to reproduce the work, and that he has paid in the prescribed manner to, or for the benefit of, the owner of the copyright royalties in respect of all copies of the work sold by him calculated at the rate of ten per cent. on the price at which he publishes the work , and, for the purposes of this proviso, the Board of Trade may make regulations prescribing the mode in which notices are to be given, and the particulars to be given in such notices and the mode, time, and frequency of the payment of royalties, including (if they think, fit) regulations requiring payment in advance or otherwise securing the payment of royalties.

Notes.—"The proper period of copyright has long been a matter of controversy. Some have contended that the period ought, in the interests of literature, to be a very short one ; others urge in the same interest, that it ought to be perpetual. Those who argue in favour of a restricted period of copyright speaks of it as a monopoly ... of the author's right to prevent ... f property............It is sometimes ... militates against cheap literature, ... is sound."—Copinger on Copyright, ... at Berlin in the year 1907 for the purpose of considering what modifications ought to be made in the Berne convention, it was decided that the minimum protection accorded to an author should be during his life and for a period of fifty years after his death.

This appears to be a reasonable period, and it has now been adopted by the British Copyright Act 1911, for all works, with certain minor exceptions. The present law has, moreover, the very considerable advantage over the old law, that the date of publication has—save in the excepted cases, which will be dealt with later on—no bearing upon the determination of copyright protection. Under the law, which gave an alternative period of copyright for literary works, either for the life of the author and seven years after his death or a gross period of forty-two years, which should be the longer, the works of the author were liable to fall into the public domain at different times; but under the new Act all the works of the same author will—save in the excepted cases—fall into the public domain at one and the same ... as if the author died at the ... livered in public. There is ... photographs and mechanical contrivances and it is submitted that these cannot be compulsorily reproduced upon a royalty basis " Copinger, p. 88

Compulsory licences

4. If, at any time after the death of the author of a literary, dramatic or musical work which has been published or performed in public, a complaint is made to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council that the owner of the copyright in the work has refused to republish or to allow the republication of the work or has refused to allow the performance in public of the work, and that by reason of such refusal deration of a sum of money paid to him agrees that certain persons shall have the sole power of printing, reprinting and publishing a certain work for all time, that would be parting with the copyright." Per Wood V. C. in Stevens v. Benning, 1 K. & J. 168.

Civil Remedies.

Civil remedies for infringement of copyright.

6. (1) Where copyright in any work has been infringed, the owner of the copyright shall, except as otherwise provided by this Act, be entitled to all such remedies by way of injunction or interdict, damages, accounts, and otherwise, as are or may be conferred by law for the infringement of a right.

(2) The costs of all parties in any proceedings in respect of the infringement of copyright shall be in the absolute discretion of the Court.

(3) In any action for infringement of copyright in any work, the work shall be presumed to be a work in which copyright subsists and the plaintiff shall be presumed to be the owner of the copyright, unless the defendant puts in issue the existence of the copyright, or as the case may be, the title of the plaintiff, and where any such question is in issue, then—

(a) if a name purporting to be that of the author of the work is printed or otherwise indicated thereon in the usual manner, the person whose name is so printed or indicated shall, unless the contrary is proved, be presumed to be the author of the work;

(b) if no name is so printed or indicated, or if the name so printed or indicated is not the author's true name or the name by which he is commonly known, and a name purporting to be that of the publisher or proprietor of the work is printed or otherwise indicated thereon in the usual manner, the person whose name is so printed or indicated shall, unless the contrary is proved, be presumed to be the owner of the copyright in the work for the purposes of proceedings in respect of the infringement of copyright therein.

(7) For the purposes of this section, the expression "book" includes every part or division of a book, pamphlet, sheet of letter-press, sheet of music, map, plan, chart or table separately published, but shall not include any second or subsequent edition of a book unless such edition contains additions or alterations either in the letter-press or in the maps, prints, or other engravings belonging thereto.

The copyright rests in the joint authors as tenants in common and not as joint tenants. Louri v. Renad, (1892) 3 Ch. 402; Powel v. Head, 12 Ch. D. 686. Trade Auxiliary v. Middlesborough, (1889) 40 Ch. D. 425. One of two joint authors can restrain the other by injunction from publishing the joint work. Cecinoki v. Routledge, (1916) 2 K. B. 325. When one of the co-authors does not satisfy the conditions conferring copyright in this Act, the author who does satisfy such conditions is considered as the sole author. He can alone grant licenses to publish such a work. Lauri v. Renad, ubi supra; Powell v. Head, 12 Ch. D. 686; Trade Auxiliary v. Middlesborough, (1888) 40 Ch. D. 425. An employer of an author is not a joint author Levy v Rutley, (1871) L. R. 6. C. P. 523; Eaton v. Lake, (1888) 20 Q. B D. 378; Tate v. Gulbroak, (1908) 1 K. B. 821.

Sub-section (4)—"Presumably this sub-section was inserted in order to make it clear that the whole of this copyright is not to belong to the husband under his common law right to the personal property of his wife. It is little curious, therefore, to find that there is no similar provision for the case where a married woman is a co-author with a person other than her husband"—Copinger, p 210. It is submitted that in England in such a case by virtue of this sub-section the person other than her husband will be the sole author of the copyright. But this sub-section is redundant in India where married woman's earning is her separate property. (vide Act III of 1874).

Posthumous works.

17. (1) In the case of a literary, dramatic or musical work, or an engraving, in which copyright subsists at the date of the death of the author or, in the case of a work of joint authorship at or immediately before the date of the death of the author who dies last, but which has not been published, nor, in the case of a dramatic or musical work, been performed in public nor, in the case of a lecture, been delivered in public, before that date, copyright shall subsist till publication, or performance or delivery in public, ... fifty years thereafter and the prov... case of such a work, apply as if the ... tion or performance or delivery in public as aforesaid.

(2) The ownership of an author's manuscript after his death, where such ownership has been acquired under a testamentary disposition made by the author and the manuscript is of a work which has not been published nor performed in public nor delivered in public, shall be prima facie proof of the copyright being with the owner of the manuscript.

Notes.—Sub section (1) does not apply to artistic work other than engravings—Oldfield, p. 110.

Provisions as to Government publications.

18. Without prejudice to any rights or privileges of the Crown, where any work has, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, been prepared or published by or under the direction or control of His Majesty or any Government department, the copyright in the work shall, subject to any agreement with the author, belong to His Majesty, and in such case shall continue for a period of fifty years from the date of the first publication of the work.

Notes.—Originally the copyright of all the publications belonged to the Crown. Gradually this right is partially lost by the Crown. Now the Crown has copyright in the authorised version of the Bible. [University of Oxford and Cambridge v. Richardson, (1802) 6 Ves. 689 ; Manners v. Blair, 3 Bli. (N. S) 391 ; Red Letter Testament, In re. (1900) 17 :T. L. R. 1] and Prayer Books. Before this Act, Government had copyright in the Acts of Parliament and other Government publications, Basket v. Cambridge University, (1758) 1 W. Bl. 105. "This section therefore, whilst preserving any special copyright of the Crown, as in the case of the Bible and Prayer Book vests the copyright in all other works prepared by or on behalf of the Government, in the Crown, whether or not the actual author of the work was under a contract of service with the Crown, and the period of copyright is to be the gross period of fifty years, from the date of the publication of the work." Copinger, p. 249 This section has not made any provision as regards unpublished work of the Crown. This section has no application so far as a work published with license of the Crown is concerned. (1926) 1 Ch. 433.

Provisions as to mechanical instruments.

19. (1) Copyright shall subsist in records, perforated rolls, and other contrivances by means of which sounds may be mechanically reproduced, in like manner as if such contrivances were musical works, but the term of copyright shall be fifty years from the making of the original plate from which the contrivance was directly or indirectly derived, and the person who was the owner of such original plate at the time when such plate was made shall be deemed to be the author of the work, and, where such owner is a body corporate, the body corporate shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to reside within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends if it has established a place of business within such parts.

(2) It shall not be deemed to be an infringement of copyright in any musical work for any person to make, within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, records, perforated rolls or other contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed, if such person proves—

(a) that such contrivances have previously been made by, or with the consent or acquiescence of, the owner of the copyright in the work ; and

(b) that he has given the prescribed notice of his intention to make the contrivances, and has paid in the prescribed manner to, or for the benefit of, the owner of the copyright in the work royalties in respect of all such contrivances sold by him, calculated at the rate hereinafter mentioned :

Provided that—

(i) nothing in this provision shall authorize any alterations in, or omissions from, the work reproduced, unless contrivances reproducing the work subject to similar alterations and omissions have been previously made by, or with the consent or acquiescence of, the owner of the copyright, or unless such alterations or omissions are reasonably necessary for the adaptation of the work to the contrivances in question ; and

(ii) for the purposes of this provision, a musical work shall be deemed to include any words so closely associated therewith as to form part of the same work, but shall not be deemed to include a contrivance by means of which sounds may be mechanically reproduced.

(3) The rate at which such royalties as aforesaid are to be calculated shall—

(a) in the case of contrivances sold within two years after the commencement of this Act by the person making the same, be two and one-half per cent. ; and

(b) in the case of contrivances sold as aforesaid after the expiration of that period, be five per cent, on the ordinary retail selling price of the contrivance calculated in the prescribed manner, so however that the royalty payable in respect of contrivance shall, in no case, be less than a half-penny for each musical work in which copyright subsists reproduced thereon, and, where the royalty calculated as aforesaid includes a fraction of a farthing, such fraction shall be reckoned as a farthing :

Provided that, if, at any time after the expiration of seven years from the commencement of this Act, it appears to the Board of Trade that such rate as aforesaid is no longer equitable, the Board of Trade may after holding a public inquiry, make an order either decreasing or increasing that rate to such extent as under the circumstances may seem just, but any order so made, shall be provisional only and shall not have any effect unless and until confirmed by Parliament ; but where an order revising the rate has been so made and confirmed, no further revision shall be made before the expiration of fourteen years from the date of the last revision.

producing two or more different ers of the copyright therein are oyalties under this section shall be apportioned amongst the several owners of the copyright in such proportions as, failing agreement, may be determined by arbitration.

(5) When any such contrivances by means of which a musical work may be mechanically performed have been made, then, for the purposes of this section, the owner of the copyright in the work shall, in relation to any person who makes the prescribed inquiries, be deemed to have given his consent to the making of such contrivances if he fails to reply to such inquiries within the prescribed time.

(6) For the purposes of this section, the Board of Trade may make regulations prescribing anything which under this section is to be prescribed, and prescribing the mode in which notices are to be given and the particulars to be given in such notices, and the mode, time, and frequency of the payment of royalties, and any such regulations may, if the Board think fit, include regulations requiring payment in advance or otherwise securing the payment of royalties.

(7) In the case of musical works published before the commencement of this Act, the foregoing provisions shall have effect, subject to the following modifications and additions :—

(a) The conditions as to the previous making by, or with the consent or acquiescence of the owner of the copyright in the work, and the restrictions as to alterations in or omissions from the work shall not apply :

(b) The rate of two and one-half per cent. shall be substituted for the rate of five per cent. as the rate at which royalties are to be calculated, but no royalties shall be payable in respect of contrivances sold before the 1st day of July, 1913, if contrivances reproducing the same work had been lawfully made, or placed on sale, within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends before the 1st day of July, 1910 :

to the author or his legal personal representatives and not to the assignees, and the royalties aforesaid shall be payable to, and for the benefit of, the author of the work or his legal personal representatives :

(d) The saving contained in this Act of the rights and interests arising from, or in connexion with, action taken before the commencement of this Act shall not be construed as authorising any person who has made contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed to sell any such contrivances, whether made before or after the passing of this Act, except on the terms and subject to the conditions laid down in this section :

(e) Where the work is a work on which copyright is conferred by an Order in Council relating to a foreign country, the copyright so conferred shall not, except to such extent as may be provided by the Order, include any rights with respect to the making of records, perforated rolls or other contrivances by means of which the work may be mechanically performed

(8) Notwithstanding anything in this Act where a record, perforated roll, or other contrivance by means of which sounds may be mechanically reproduced has been made before the commencement of this Act, copyright shall, as from the commencement of this Act, subsists therein in like manner and for the like term as if this Act had been in force at the date of the making of the original plate from which the contrivance was directly or indirectly derived :

Provided that—

Provision as to political speeches

20. Notwithstanding anything in this Act it shall not be an infringement of copyright in an address of a political nature delivered at a public meeting to publish a report thereof in a newspaper.

Provisions as to photographs

21. The term for which copyright shall subsist in photographs shall be fifty year from making of the original negative from which the photograph was directly or indirectly derived, and the person who was owner of such negative at the time when such negative was made shall be deemed to be the author of the work, and, where such owner is a body corporate, the body corporate shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to reside within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends if it has established a place of business within such parts.

Notes—This section applies irrespective of the fact that the photograph is published or unpublished. A negative will be deemed to be made not upon exposure, but upon the plate being developed and fixed. Vide Copinger's Copyright, p 85. The copyright dates from the making of the original negative and subsists period of fifty years from that date Where, however, the work is ordered another person and is made for valuable consideration, the first ownership in copyright belongs to the person so ordering the work in the absence of any agreement. Vide section 5 (1) (a). Provisions as to designs registerable under 7 Edw. 7, c. 29.

22. (1) This Act shall not apply to designs capable of being registered under the Patents and Designs Act, 1907, except designs which, though capable of being so registered, are not used or intended to be used as models or patterns to be multiplied by any industrial process.

(2) General rules under section 86 of the Patents and Designs Act 1907, may be made for determining the conditions under which a design shall be deemed to be used for such purposes as aforesaid.

Notes.—This section is intended to make the distinction between the law of copyright and the law of design. Under the old law there was no considerable overlapping. Such a division has, however, now become necessary by reason of the inclusion of works of artistic carftsmanship and architectural works of art as matter for copyright protection—Oldfield's Law of Copyright, p. 124

Works of foreign authors first published in parts of His Majesty's dominions to which Act extends

23. If it appears to His Majesty that a foreign country does not give, or has not undertaken to give, adequate protection to the works of British authors, it shall be lawful for His Majety by Order in Council to direct that such of the provisions of this Act as confer copyright on works first published within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends. shall not apply to ... s whereof are ... Notes.—"The intention of this Act is that by Order in Council, the benefit of the protection under the Act should be extended to foreign countries when such countries give reciprocal advantages, and it may be assumed that such extension will be made before the Act comes into force in favour of those countries that are members of the copyright union, so that any author who first publishes in a union country ... t if he were a native of the country. ... ncil to withhold the advantages of the Act, ... ive been conferred, if such a case should ... where, it appears "that a foreign country does not give or has not undertaken to give adequate protection to the works of British authors."—Oldfield's Law of Copyright, p. 128.

Existing work.

24. (1) Where any person is immediately before the commencement of this Act entitled to any such right in any work as is specified in the first column of the First Schedule to this Act, or to any interest in such a right, he shall, as from that date, be entitled to the substituted right set forth in the second column of that schedule, or to the same interest in such a substituted right, and to no other right or interest, and such substituted right shall subsist for the term for which it would have subsisted if this Act had been in force at the date when the work was made and the work had been one entitled to copyright thereunder:

Provided that—

(a) if the author of any work in which any such right as is specified in the first column of the First Schedule to this Act subsists at the commencement of this Act has, before that date, assigned the right or granted any interest therein for the whole term of the right, then at the date when, but for the passing of this Act, the right would have expired the substituted right conferred by this section shall, in the absence of express agreement, pass to the author of the work, and any interest therein created before the commencement of this Act and then subsisting shall determine; but the person who immediately before the date at which the right would have so expired was the owner of the right or interest shall be entitled at his option either —

(i) on giving such notice as hereinafter mentioned, to an assignment of the right or the grant of a similar interest therein for the remainder of the term of the right for such consideration as, failing agreement, may be determined, by arbitration ; or

(ii) without any such assignment or grant, to continue to reproduce or perform the work in like manner as theretofore subject to the payment, if demanded by the author within three years after the date at which the right would have so expired, of such royalties to the author as, failing agreement, may be determined by arbitration, or, where the work is incorporated in a collective work and the owner of the right or interest is the proprietor of that collective work, without any such payment ;

The notice above referred to must be given not more than one year nor less than six months before the date at which the right would have so expired, and must be sent by registered post to the author, or, if he cannot with reasonable diligence be found, advertised in the London Gazette and in two London newspapers;

(b) where any person has, before the 26th day of July, 1910, taken any action whereby he has incurred any expenditure or liability in connexion with the reproduction or performance of any work in a manner which at the time was lawful, or for the purpose of or with a view to the reproduction or performance of a work at a time when such reproduction or performance would, but for the passing of this Act, have been lawful, nothing in this section shall diminish or prejudice any rights or interest arising from or in connexion with such action which are subsisting and valuable at the said date, unless the person who by virtue of this section becomes entitled to restrain such reproduction or performance agrees to pay such compensation as, failing agreement, may be determined by arbitration.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the expression "author" includes the legal personal representatives of a deceased author.

(3) Subject to the provisions of section 19, sub-sections (7) and (8) and of section 33 of this Act, copyright shall not subsist in any work made before the commencement of this Act, otherwise than under, and in accordance with, the provisions of this section.

Notes.—An entry in the Copyright Register Book under section 3 of the previous Copyright Act is prima facie evidence of the proprietorship of the person mentioned therein, but the absence of that provision from the new Copyright Act, does not make it none the less evidence when the new Act grants to the owners of existing copyrights, right at least as valuable as the rights given under the repealed Act. Section 114 of the Evidence Act can, therefore, be invoked to make such evidence admissible. 30 Ind. Cas. 721=16 Cr. L. J. 673. This section makes this Act retrospective and this Act is to be considered as if in force at the time when this was made for the purpose of computing the term for which copyright subsists.—Oldfield's Law of Copyright p. 120. Application to British Possessions.

Application of Act to British dominions.

25. (1) This Act, except such of the provisions thereof as are expressly restricted to the United Kingdom, shall extend throughout His Majesty's dominions: ... that it shall not extend to a self-governing ...

nion, unless declared by the Legislature of that dominion to be in force therein either without any modifications or additions, or with such modifications and additions relating exclusively to procedure and remedies, or necessary to adapt this Act to the circumstances of the dominion, as may be enacted by such Legislature.

(4) If the Secretary of State certifies by notice published in the London Gazette that any self governing dominion has passed legislation under which works, the authors whereof were at the date of the making of the works British subjects resident elsewhere than in the dominion or (not being British subjects) were resident in the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, enjoy within the dominion rights substantially identical with those conferred by this Act, then, whilst such legislation continues in force, the dominion shall, for the purposes of the rights conferred by this Act, be treated as if it were a dominion to which this Act extends; and it shall be lawful for the Secretary of State to give such a certificate as aforesaid, notwithstanding that the remedies for enforcing the rights, or the restrictions on the importation of copies of works, manufactured in a foreign country, under the law of the dominion, differ from those under this Act.

[illegible] his Act with or without modifications has been [illegible] ns, the law in such dominions is in accor- [illegible] to such dominions, and the Colonial Acts in force there.—Oldfield's Law of Copyright, p. 134.

Legislative powers of self-governing dominions.

26. (1) The Legislature of any [illegible] time, rep[illegible] ing to cop[illegible] this Act) so far as they are operative within that dominion: Provided that no such repeal shall prejudicially affect any legal rights existing at the time of the repeal, and that, on this Act or any part thereof being so repealed by the Legislature of a self governing dominion that dominion shall cease to be a dominion to which this Act extends.

(2) In any self-governing dominion to which this Act does not extend, the enactments repealed by this Act shall, so far as they are operative in that dominion, continue in force until repealed by the Legislature of that dominion.

(3) Where His Majesty in Council is satisfied that the law of a self-governing dominion to which this Act does not extend provides adequate protection within the dominion for the works (whether published or unpublished) of authors who at the time of the making of the work were British subjects resident elsewhere than in that dominion, His Majesty in Council may, for the purpose of giving reciprocal protection, direct that this Act, except such parts (if any) thereof as may be specified in the Order, and subject to any conditions contained therein, shall, within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends, apply to works the authors whereof were, at the time of the making of the work, resident within the first mentioned dominion, and to works first published in that dominion; but save as provided by such an Order, works the authors whereof were resident in a dominion to which this Act does not extend shall not, whether they are British subjects or not, be entitled to any protection under this Act except such protection as is by this Act conferred on works first published within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends:

Provided that no such Order shall confer any rights within a self governing dominion, but the Governor in Council of any self-governing dominion to which this Act extends may, by Order, confer within that dominion the like rights as His Majesty in Council is, under the foregoing provisions of this sub-section, authorised to confer within other parts of His Majesty's dominions.

For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression, "a dominion to which this Act extends" includes a dominion which is for the purposes of this Act to be treated as if it were a dominion to which this Act extends.

Notes—It is to be noted that sub-section (1) gives the legislature of any self-governing dominion power to repeal any enactment relating to copyright including the Act of 1911 ; all the dominions have now repealed the legislation prior to the Act of 1911 which applied to them—Vide Copinger, p. 301.

Power of Legislatures of British possessions to pass supplemental legislation.

27. The Legislature of any British possession to which this Act extends may modify or add to any of the provisions of this Act in its application to the possession, but except so far as such modifications and additions relate to procedure and remedies, they shall apply only to works the authors whereof were, at the time of the making of the work, resident in the possession, and to works first published in the possession.

Notes—This sub-section corresponds to resolution 2(b) of the Imperial Copyright Conference, 1910. It applies to all British possessions except the self governing dominions unless adopted by those dominions The result is that local Acts will only be operative within the possession —Oldfield's Law of Copyright, p. 136.

Application to protectorates.

28. His Majesty may, by Order in Council, extend this Act to any territories under his protection and to Cyprus, and on the making of any such Order, this Act shall, subject to the provisions of the Order, have effect as if the territories to which it applies or Cypurs were part of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends.

Notes—The administration of Cyprus is entrusted to England under a treaty of June 4, 1887.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

Powers to extend Act to foreign works.

29. (1) His Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that this Act (except such parts, if any, thereof as may be specified in the Order) shall apply—

(a) to works first published in a foreign country to which the Order relates, in like manner as if they were first published within the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends ;

(b) to literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works, or any class thereof, the authors whereof were, at the time of the making of the works, subjects or citizens of a foreign country to which the Order relates, in like manner as if the authors were British subjects ,

(c) in respect of residence in a foreign country to which the Order relates in like manner as if such residence were residence in the parts of His Majesty's dominions to which the Act extends ; and thereupon, subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act and of the Order, this Act shall apply accordingly .

Provided that—

(i) before making an Order in Council under this section in respect of any foreign country (other than a country with which His Majesty has entered into a convention relating to copyright), His Majesty shall be satisfied that that foreign country has made, or has undertaken to make, such provisions, if any, as it appears to His Majesty expedient to require for the protection of works entitled to copyright under the provisions of Part I of this Act ;

(ii) the Order in Council may provide that the terms of copyright within such parts of His Majesty's dominions as aforesaid shall not exceed that conferred by the law of the country to which the Order relates ,

(iii) the provisions of this Act as to the delivery of copies of books shall not apply to works first published in such country, except so far as is provided by the order ;

(iv) the Order in Council may provide that the enjoyment of the rights conferred by this Act shall be subject to the accomplishment of such conditions and formalities (if any) as may be prescribed by the Order ;

(v) in applying the provisions of this Act as to ownership of copyright, the Order in Council may make such modifications as appear necessary having regard to the law of the foreign country ;

(vi) in applying the provisions of this Act as to existing works, the Order in Council may make such modifications as appear necessary, and may provide that nothing in those provisions as so applied shall be construed as reviving any right of preventing the production or importation of any translation in any case where the right has ceased by virtue of section 5 of the International Copyright Act, 1886.*

(2) An Order in Council under this section may extend to all the several countries named or described therein.

[illegible] works of persons resident in that country. Copinger's Copyright, p. 294

30. (1) An Order in Council under this Part of this Act shall apply to all His Majesty's dominions to which this Act extends except self-governing dominions and any other possessions specified in the Order with respect to which it appears to His Majesty expedient that the Order should not apply.

Application of Part II to British possessions.

(2) The Governor in Council of any self-governing dominion to which this Act extends may, as respects that dominion, make the like orders as under this Part of this Act. His Majesty in Council is authorised to make with respect to His Majesty's dominions other than self-governing dominions and the provisions of this Part of this Act shall, with the necessary modifications, apply accordingly

(3) Where it appears to His Majesty expedient to except from the provisions of any Order any part of his dominions, not being a self-governing dominion, it shall be lawful for His Majesty by the same or any other Order in Council to declare that such Order and this Part of this Act shall not, and the same shall not, apply to such part, except so far as is necessary for preventing any prejudice to any rights acquired previously to the date of such Order.

Notes.—Under this section the self-governing dominions are enabled to make their own Orders in Council, applying the law in such dominions to foreign works. This is new law.—Oldfield's Law of Copyright, p. 148.

PART III.

Supplemental Provisions,

31. No person shall be entitled to copyright or any similar right in any literary, dramatic, musical or artistic work, whether published or unpublished, otherwise than under and in accordance with the provisions of this Act, or of any other statutory enactment for the time being in force, but nothing in this section shall be construed as abrogating any right or jurisdiction to restrain a breach of trust or confidence.

Abrogation of common law rights.

Notes.—The new Act, however, abolishes common law copyright, and confers statutory copyright upon all works as from the date when the same are made. In dealing with unpublished works it is advisable to distinguish three things, which are somewhat intermingled in the older cases, namely; (a) the right to the material thing, such as the manuscript; (b) the right to publish the manuscript by making copies thereof or extracts therefrom; and (c) the right to make use of the ideas or information conveyed by the manuscript, without copying the actual language employed therein. The second right only belongs properly to the law of copyright; the first is protected by the ordinary possessory remedies and the third by that equitable jurisdiction to restrain breaches of trust and confidence which is expressly Interpretation.

* 49 & 50 Vict., c. 33.

"Literary work" includes maps, charts, plans, tables, and compilations;

"Dramatic work" includes any piece for recitation, choreographic work or entertainment in dumb show, the scenic arrangement or acting form of which is fixed in writing or otherwise, and any cinematograph production where the arrangement or acting form or the combination of incidents represented give the work an original character ;

"Artistic work" includes works of painting, drawing, sculpture and artistic craftsmanship, and architectural works of art and engravings and photographs ;

"Work of sculpture" includes casts and models ;

"Architectural work of art" means any building or structure having an artistic character or design, in respect of such character or design, or any model for such building or structure, provided that the protection afforded by this Act shall be confined to the artistic character and design, and shall not extend to processes or methods of construction ;

"Engravings" include etchings, lithographs, wood-cuts, prints, and other similar works, not being photographs ;

"Photograph" includes photo-lithograph and any work produced by any process analogous to photography :

THE COURT FEES ACT, 1870.

ACT NO. VII OF 1870.

Commencement of Act. And it shall come into force on the first day of April, 1870.

Amendments by Local Acts.—The power to amend the Court Fees Act by Provincial Act is given by the Devolution Act (XXXVIII of 1920). The various Local Acts which have amended the Court Fees Act of 1870 have been given in Appendix A at the end of the volume.

Extent of the Act.—Act VII of 1870 has been declared in force—in Upper Burma generally (except the Shan States), by the Burma Laws Act (XIII of 1898) s 4 (1) Sch. 1 ;

in British Baluchistan by Regulation (II of 1913) s. 3 ;

It has been extended, by notification under ss. 5 and 5 A of the same Act, to the following Scheduled Districts, namely :—The Garo Hills District, the Khasia and ... ict, the North Cachar Sub-division of the ... the Nowgong District, and the Dibrugar ... provided that the Act does not apply to ... are assessed to house-tax except in such ... oner may withdraw from the operation of the exemption.—See the Assam Gazette, 1897, Pt. 1, p. 861 ; the Gazette of India, 1884. It has also been applied to the Baluchistan Agency Territories by the Baluchistan Agency Law, 1890, 4 (1).

The Act came into permanent operation in Aden on 1st April, 1876.—See the Bombay Government Gazette, 1876, Pt 1, p 956

It has been declared inapplicable to proceedings before officers making a settlement, and certain other cases under the Santhal Parganas Settlement Regulation (III of 1872), s. 8. See now the Act as amended by the Santhal Parganas Justice and Laws Regulation (III of 1890).

The act has been amended in Upper Burma (see the Upper Burma Civil Courts Regulation, 1 of 1896. s 36 ; in the Punjab (see the Punjab Courts Act, XVII of 1886, s. 71) ; in Lower Burma (see the Lower Burma Courts Act, VI of 1900, Sch. 1, Pt. I) Retrospective effect of the Act.—"As observed in Munjhoori v. Akel, 17 C. W. N. 889=17 C. L. J. 316, every statute which takes away or impairs a vested right acquired under existing laws or creates a new obligation or imposes a new duty or attaches a new disability, in respect of transactions or considerations already passed, must be deemed retrospective in its operation. The rule that enactments in a statute are generally to be construed to be prospective and intended to regulate the future conduct of persons is deeply founded in good sense and strict justice; and it has been repeatedly laid down that in the absence of clear word to that effect, a statute will not be construed so as to take away a vested right of action acquired before it was passed. Badhu Koar v. Hafiz, 18 C. Amendment.—This section has been amended by Mad. Act V of 1922, section 3.

Taxing officer's decision.—The taxing officer's decision is final. 32 A. 59 ; 12 A. 129 (F. B) ; 21 M. 269 ; 29 C. W. N. 879 ; 47 A. 756 ; 3 Pat L. J. 92 ; 4 Pat. L. J. 700 ; (1925) P. H. C. The jurisdiction of the taxing officer does not arise like the jurisdiction of an arbitrator upon a difference of opinion between a Court clerk and a suitor and upon some sort of formal reference to decide that dispute. 29 C. W. N. 879=52 C 871=A. I. R. 1925 Cal. 120. Where no reference under this section has been made at all the Court hearing the appeal must decide it. 47 A. 756=89 Ind. Cas. 122=23 A. L. J 725 ; 37 C. 914.

Scope.—The intention of this section is merely to ensure that the question should be raised before the taxing officer and that he should bring his mind to bear on the question and that he should decide it. 29 C. W. N. 879=52 C. 871 ; see also 20 M. 398. To determine the amount of Court-fee payable on a memorandum of appeal filed in the High Conrt the taxing officer has power to investigate for himself the proper value of the appeal. Scope of the Para —Section 7, clause (v) does not apply to a suit for recovery of possession of land of which the plaintiffs claim to be tenants, brought against the admitted landlords and persons who also claim to be tenants of the same ; and the value of the relief sought, as stated in the plaint, determines the jurisdiction of the Court to try the suit 19 C. No means exist for ascertaining what, in even such a sale, its value would be. Hence in a suit for ejectment of defendant from tank bed, it is impossible to apply the provisions of s. 7 (v) because the value of the subject-matter is indeterminate The only course is to assess the Court-fee under Art 17 B. 9. If the Court sees reason to think that the annual nett profits or the market-value of any such land, house or garden as is mentioned in section 7, paragraphs 5. and 6, have or has been wrongly estimated, the Court may, for the purpose of computing the fee payable in any suit therein mentioned, issue a commission to any proper person directing him to make such local or other investigation as may be necessary, and to report thereon to the Court.

10. (i) If in the result of any such investigation the Court finds that the nett profits or market-value have or has been wrongly estimated, the Court, if the estimation has been excessive, may in its discretion refund the excess paid as such fee : but, if the estimation has been insufficient, the Court shall require the plaintiff to pay so much additional fee as would have been payable had the said market-value or nett profits been rightly estimated.

(ii) In such case the suit shall be stayed until the additional fee is paid. If the additional fee is not paid within such time as the Court shall fix, the suit shall be dismissed.

Clause 2—Either before or after the expiration of the time fixed by a Court for payment of additional fees by the plaintiff who has been ordered to pay the same, acting under cl. 2 of s 10 of the Court Fees Act, it is competent to the Court to enlarge the time fixed, on circumstances rendering it just and proper that such extensions should be given if ultimately the order is not complied with and additional fees not paid the Court should pass an order dismissing the suit and not one rejecting the plaint as under s 54 of the Civil Procedure Code. 19 A 240, P R. 84 of 1876. Until the appeal is admitted, it is not competent to the Appellate Court to pass an order dismissing the original suit under ss 10 and 11 for non-payment of Court-fee. 1 M. L. J 528.

A plaintiff is at liberty to withdraw any part of his claim to bring it within the Court-fees he had paid on his plaint and a Court is not bound to dismiss a claim, if a plaintiff instead of complying with an order for payment of deficient Court-fee abandons that portion of his claim which the Court had held to have been over-valued. 27 A. 151.

Time given by Court.—It is competent to a Court, after the expiry of the time initially granted, to enlarge the time for payment of the deficit Court-fees on a plaint upon payment of deficit Court-fees the suit must be taken to have been instituted on the day when the plaint was originally presented. 2 Ind. Procedure in suits for mesne-profits or account when amount decreed exceeds amount claimed.

11. In suits for mesne profits or for immovable property and mesne-profits, or for an account, if the profits or amount decreed are or is in excess of the profits claimed or the amount at which the plaintiff valued the relief sought, the decree shall not be executed until the difference between the fee actually paid and the fee which would have been payable had the suit comprised the whole of the profits or amount so decreed shall have been paid to the proper officer.

Where the amount of mesne-profits is left to be ascertained in the course of the execution of the decree, if the profits so ascertained exceed the profits claimed, the further execution of the decree shall be stayed until the difference between the fee actually paid and the fee which would have been payable had the suit comprised the whole of the profits so ascertained is paid. If the additional fee is not paid within such time as the Court shall fix, the suit shall be dismissed.

Scope.—The word 'suit' in the last clause of para 2, s. 11, Court-Fees Act, does not mean the entire suit. It can fairly be construed as the suit or claim in respect of mesne profits 24 C. 173. The intention of the first part is that no time should be fixed for payment of extra Court-fee but the

12. (i) Every question relating to valuation for the purpose of determining the amount of any fee chargeable under this chapter on a plaint or memorandum of appeal shall be decided by the Court in which such plaint or memorandum, as the case may be, is filed, and such decision shall be final as between the parties to the suit.

Decision of question as to valuation.

Scope.—The correct meaning of this section is that the decision of the Court is final only as regards the actual appraisement of the suit and the determination of such question as relates directly and immediately thereto and that the question whether such Court was right or wrong in holding the suit to be one of a particular class does not relate directly or immediately to such appraisement and it is open to challenge on appeal. 49 Ind Cas 711 (F.
